SOVIET DIVISION OF 18,000 MEN 'CUT TO PIECES'

Russians 'Mop Up' Occupied Area.

Occupy Two Islands

MOSCOW, Feb. 20 [Tuesday] (AP).—The Russian military communique early today said their offensive on the Karelian isthmus was "developing successfully," and reported the cleanup of several islands and coastal stations north of the Finnish Koivisto fortified area. Rionsaari and Revonsaari islands, west and southwest of Johannes were reported occupied as well as the stations of Lahteenmaki and Humaljoki on the coastal railway. Yesterday the Russians had reported the capture of Somme, to the north of Johannes, and only six miles south of Viipuri, and said the key fortress of Koivisto was cut off from the rest of the Mannerheim line. Fourteen Finnish planes were brought down in air combats yesterday, the Russians said.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Feb. 19 (AP).—Russian artillery tonight dropped shells regularly into Viipuri, now a definite part of the front as a result of soviet penetration into the Mannerheim fortified zone, a reliable informant said.

"This does not mean the city is in danger of capture, but that it now is definitely a part of the front," the informant said.

Viipuri was Finland's second largest city, but now has been evacuated of most of its civilians. It has been the center of Karelian Christianity for 700 years.

Earlier an official communique had told of the completed destruction of the 18th Red army division northeast of Lake Ladoga by Finland's ghostlike fighters who for weeks parried and thrust until 18,000 Russians were dead or captured.

New Positions "Sound."

The same communique which announced this major victory said soviet attacks against the new Finnish Karelian isthmus positions between the Gulf of Finland and the Vuoksi river, to which the battered Mannerheim line army had been compelled to withdraw, had been repelled.

With the Russians continuing their unrelenting attack, Finnish spokesmen said their new positions were "sound," despite the enforced withdrawal.

The Russians lost the equivalent of one battalion [about 1,000 men] and six tanks in assaults on the Finns' new positions at the southwestern end of the line, the communique said.

In the central sector the Finns said "our troops dispersed an enemy column, taking three guns, machine guns, and ammunition as booty." On the eastern flank of the Mannerheim line, at Taipale, the Russians began a new attack and tonight the battle was reported continuing.

Move Up Artillery.

The Russians' new positions from west of Summa toward Muolaa presumably permitted the Russians to bring their artillery closer so that Viipuri was subject to regular shellfire.

Heretofore the city has been 20 miles from the front, and only occasionally long range artillery shells dropped into it.

With shells falling in Viipuri, the Russians also redoubled their air attacks on the city. Soviet planes came over in waves today, and the city was bombed several times. Sometimes up to 250 planes are over the city in a single day.

The infantry division that was isolated between Uomas and Syskyjarvi, 15 miles from the Russian frontier and 10 miles north of Lake Ladoga, and then cut to pieces, was from the city of Yaroslavl, northeast of Moscow.

Torn "Piece by Piece."

The Finnish command said the unit was chopped up "piece by piece," and the final blow struck yesterday when a "great victory" resulted in capture of the division's last stronghold. The division had received some reinforcement after it was trapped.

Drag Financial Skeletons from Factor's Closet

John [Jake the Barber] Factor told Uncle Sam yesterday why he thinks he should have a wholesale liquor dealer's license. Uncle Sam dragged some skeletons out of Factor's closet. And his lawyer did his best to stop the bones from rattling.

John Factor.

Jake the Barber is the fellow who rose from the humble state of Halsted street beard trimmer to such affluence that the British government accused him of a $7,000,000 investment fraud.

He nevertheless spoke yesterday in a complimentary vein indeed about his financing at a federal alcohol administration hearing. John Paulding Brown, attorney for the administration, questioned him about his past. Joseph A. Struett, Factor's lawyer, told the hearing officer, James G. Lewis, it wasn't fair.

Tells of Career in England.

"In 1923," Factor said, "I and three other men each held 25 per cent shares in the Cambrian Trust, Ltd. We sold real estate not only in England but also oil lands in Arkansas and Texas."

"How many plots of land did you sell in this country?" Brown asked.

Factor shrugged. "I can't say offhand."

"What were the gross profits?"

"I don't know."

"Was oil ever found on this land?" Brown began. "Were you——"

Attorney Struett Objects.

Attorney Struett—6 feet 3, weighing well over 200 pounds—leaped to his feet, waving his hands.

"What's he trying to show?" he roared. "Is he trying to show that somebody was defrauded? Is he trying to imply——"

He was interrupted by the hearing officer. "I'll consider this as a basis only for determining the applicant's business experience."

As Brown, speaking in a clipped eastern accent, persisted in questions regarding the oil lands and later about Florida land deals, Struett arose once more, crying, "Mr. Brown is deviating from the issues involved. He's making nasty insinuations by bringing in a lot of junk. Why, we have evidence that 40 such permits have been granted here in Chicago to people with criminal records. My client has never been convicted of any——"

Factor Smiles in Uproar.

"I object to the term 'junk' being used," Brown yelled. "Don't forget," he said, turning to his opponent, "you're not in the Municipal court now."

Another outburst by Struett came when Brown read from a London newspaper [which Factor termed a "scandal sheet"] in which Factor was referred to as a master crook.

"Of all the rotten, low down, scurrilous——" Struett began.

He was quieted by Lewis.

The hearing, not yet completed, was on the FAA's notice that it contemplates denying Factor a wholesaler's permit for his Old Oak Bottling and Distributing company.

The hearing is to be resumed this morning in the courthouse of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, 1212 Lake Shore drive.

SURGEONS 'FISH' FOR BLOOD CLOT; LIFE OF WRITER MAY BE SAVED

New York, Feb. 19 (AP).—A new technique of surgery—a fishing expedition thru the arteries—probably has saved the life of Smith Reavis, noted writer of the Associated Press. He is the man who inspired the Kellogg-Briand pact outlawing war.

Reavis' life was threatened last Saturday by a blood clot in the abdomen where the large artery descending from the heart to supply blood to the legs forks like an inverted capital letter Y to form two branches, one down each leg. A clot here is fatal, causing gangrene, unless quickly removed.

After an anesthetic surgeons made an incision in the patient's leg into the femoral artery, one of the branches coming down from the saddle where the obstruction lay. A wire was thrust slowly up the artery until it reached the measured distance to the clot. The measurements and the superior sense of touch in surgeons' fingers indicated that the corkscrew tip was in contact with the clot or thrombus. Then they made several turns of the wire to set the corkscrew in the clot and pulled it out slowly, removing the clot.

Reavis still is in danger, but this is from complications before the operation, and not from the clot.

Broke but Gay, 19 Brave Sea to Settle Island

Miami, Fla., Feb. 19 [Special].—Nineteen Californians, broke but determined, were out at sea tonight on their way to begin life anew on an uninhabited island in the Bahamas.

The women had no lipsticks, no powder and no rouge. They were wearing slacks and rough shirts. But more alluring than cosmetics and dainty clothes, they said, is the prospect of romance on a deserted island.

The unmarried members of the party had only one worry: There is not a minister in the crowd. But then there's no marriage license bureau, either.

Look for Wild Live Stock.

The modern pioneers into a primitive Utopia hope to find cattle and sheep running wild on their 100,000 acre island. If they do, they said, their problem of food and clothing will be solved and they may have live stock left over to ship back to civilization at a profit.

Clothing is the least of their worries, as the island, East Caicos [pronounced Kee-kose] has a mean temperature of 82. The sea breeze keeps it from getting too hot, tho.

If the women find material and a way to make dainty gowns, they'll never need to worry whether it's going to rain. That's the only thing wrong with the island—it scarcely gets enough rainfall for drinking water.

Chicagoan to Their Rescue.

The party, headed by Richard C. Irvine of Berkeley, Cal., arrived here a month ago. When their money was gone, they had to camp out and it looked as if they never would get to the island.

Then Gaston L. Blum of 425 Roscoe street, Chicago, happened along with the 100 foot yacht, Spindrift, which he said is owned by a Chicago business partner, Vincent Conley, a lawyer. Blum offered transportation. Irvine, who is accompanied by his wife and three children, accepted. Eight other men and six other women completed the party.

The cattle and sheep the pioneers hope to find are said to have been left when a British corporation abandoned the island, a British possession, in 1922. The island is of coral and sand formation. Its soil and climate are said to be suitable for raising corn, cotton, and sugar cane. The island has salt, sponges—and hurricanes.

LOUISIANA GOES TO POLLS TODAY; TROOPS CALLED

Foes Battle to Crush Long Machine.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 19 [Special].—Under guard of the state militia, Louisiana voters will go to the polls tomorrow to decide the fate of the remnants of the political dictatorship set up in 1928 by the slain Huey Long. Opposing this organization in the primary vote is a slate pledged to end graft and corruption and to give the people of the state an honest government.

Earl K. Long [top], Sam H. Jones.

Tomorrow's election is a runoff primary, and the principals in it are Gov. Earl K. Long, Huey's brother, and Sam H. Jones, a St. Charles attorney. Earl Long became governor last June when Richard W. Leche resigned under fire.

Gov. Long today ordered 3,500 National Guardsmen to duty tomorrow. He said the troops would be on hand to preserve peace, law and order wherever needed. The New Orleans police department, which is under the Long machine's control, deputized and armed 1,500 poll policemen for the day.

Jackson Brigade to Watch.

Also on hand to watch the election, but armed only with cameras, will be the Jackson brigade, an organization of war veterans recruited by State Senator James E. Noe to guard against any attempt of the Long forces to steal the election.

Long and Jones were forced into the runoff election because neither got a majority of the 553,885 votes cast in the Democratic primary on Jan. 16. The winner tomorrow will be the next governor of the state, because the regular election in April is a mere formality, there being practically no Republican opposition in this state. The new governor will begin his term May 14.

Noe Supports Jones.

Long got 226,385 votes in January, while Jones polled 154,936. Noe, who also was in the race, received 116,564, and 56,000 more votes were divided between two other contestants. Noe immediately threw his support to Jones in the hope of unseating Long and his machine.

Long expressed confidence tonight that he will win tomorrow. He was particularly bitter against Noe, and said the Jackson brigade was not needed.

Jones asserted that he welcomed the National Guard, and counted on a reasonably honest election with the Guard and the brigade on duty.

Federal Official on Duty.

Charges that Long's supporters stole 15,000 votes in New Orleans in January found some support in a statement tonight by O. John Rogge, assistant United States attorney general, who has been investigating political scandals in Louisiana since last June.

Rogge said investigation of the January primary disclosed a number of irregularities and several possible violations of the mail fraud statute.

Noe has conducted a stronger campaign for Jones than he made for himself in January. Making as many as 10 speeches a day, he has charged that Gov. Long, who is 44 years old, was a world war slacker.

Noe Recalls Scandals.

Noe, in speaking for Jones, also reminded the voters of the scandals which have been exposed in Louisiana since last June. He told them about Dr. James M. Smith, president of Louisiana State university, who was sent to prison for from 8 to 24 years for embezzlement; about Seymour Weiss, former head of the levee board, who was convicted of fraud in the sale of a hotel to the university, and about Abe L. Shushan, another Long henchman, who was convicted of fraud in a bond refunding scheme.

The voters also were reminded that three political figures have committed suicide since the scandals broke.

The polls today will be open from 6 a. m. to 7 p. m. Besides a governor, the voters will nominate a lieutenant governor, attorney general, state superintendent of education, and some legislators and local officers.

3D TERM TRICK IN OHIO BLASTED BY SEN. DONAHEY

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—The third term machinations of New Deal politicians in Ohio received a setback today when Senator [Honest Vic] Donahey, one of the best vote getters in the state's history, refused to enter the Ohio presidential preference primary as a favorite son stalking horse for President Roosevelt.

Senator Donahey denounced efforts to circumvent the Ohio primary act by politicians who would "hark back to the good old days," and said the entry of any favorite son candidate as a third term stooge would be a subterfuge.

State Committee Acts.

The senator's statement was directed at a resolution adopted on Saturday by the Ohio Democratic central and executive committee, which said it was the sense of the meeting that the state's 52 delegates should vote for Mr. Roosevelt, if he is a candidate. If the President is not a candidate, the resolution stated, then the delegates should vote first for the state's first choice favorite son and second for the state's second choice favorite son.

Senator Donahey had been urged, with Mr. Roosevelt's knowledge and tacit consent, to run as a favorite son stalking horse for a third term. National Committeeman Charles Sawyer, who was the second choice favorite son, is expected to be moved up to first choice Roosevelt stooge.

Opens Field to Garner.

The Ohio law prohibits the entry of a candidate in the presidential primary without his written consent, which was the reason for the desire to run a Roosevelt stalking horse. The President refused to reveal his third term intentions by giving consent, but gave his blessing to the scheme to put Senator Donahey in the race in his behalf.

Senator Donahey's refusal to enter the primary still leaves the third termers with a stalking horse candidate, Sawyer, but it also leaves the Ohio field open to Vice President John N. Garner and other candidates for the presidential nomination. Mr. Garner had said he would not enter any state with a favorite son candidate, but he is expected to enter Ohio now that Senator Donahey has withdrawn.

Move Started by West.

The maneuvering to insure a third term delegation from Ohio began about a month ago when Charles O. West, an Ohio politician, called at the White House and proposed the scheme to run Senator Donahey as a stalking horse. Simultaneously, Arthur Limbach, Ohio Democratic chairman, announced that the state's delegation would be pledged to Senator Donahey, but would be released to Roosevelt.

West came away from the White House saying the President had manifested no sign of displeasure at what was being attempted. West is a former congressman, a former White House congressional lobbyist, and a former assistant secretary of the interior, who was kicked out by Secretary Harold L. Ickes. He recently was put back on the federal pay roll at $7,500 a year as a member of the processing tax board of review.

Will Run for Senate.

The New Deal politicians wanted Senator Donahey as the Roosevelt stooge because he was believed to be the only man who could hold the opposing factions of the state's Democratic party together. Sawyer will have the bitter opposition of former Gov. Martin L. Davey and his faction.

Senator Donahey, who served three terms as governor of Ohio before his election to the senate in 1934, will be a candidate for reëlection to the senate.

Supporters of the Garner candidacy were elated by the Donahey statement. "Good for old Vic!" said Senator Edward R. Burke of Nebraka. "That sounds like a typical Donahey statement. I hope Mr. Garner will go into Ohio."

PASTOR OFFERS SONGS FOR FAST DRIVERS TO SING

At 45 miles, "Nearer, My God, to Thee."

At 55 miles, "I'm Nearing the Port and Will Soon be at Home."

KELLY AID JOLTS PARTY; MAKES IT 3-MAN CONTEST

Adamowski Runs on Stelle's Slate.

BY PARKE BROWN.

The race for the Democratic nomination for United States senator last night became a three man contest.

Senator James M. Slattery's candidacy for renomination was filed as part of the group petition representing the Kelly-Nash-Horner slate indorsed by the state central committee.

State Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski of Chicago went almost arm in arm with Lieut. Gov. John Stelle to the statehouse at Springfield to file his own petition for the senatorship as Stelle, having bolted the regular slate, filed a petition for the governorship.

Then came the big shock of the day. Gael Sullivan, confidential assistant and frequent traveling companion of Mayor Kelly, entered the race under circumstances that indicated he was acting with Kelly's consent. His petition was filed at Springfield an hour before the midnight dead line.

Revolt Started by Stelle.

Stelle, who had been slated for renomination to his present post, revolted last Saturday when, after Gov. Horner had agreed not to run, the slatemakers had put State Chairman Harry B. Hershey down for the governorship. At that time it became established that Adamowski would soon join the revolt.

There had been no warning, however, that a Kelly man would enter himself against Slattery. Slattery was appointed to the senate by Gov. Horner to fill the James Hamilton Lewis vacancy until the voters could speak in this year's election. The governor insisted that he be reëlected for the two year balance of the Lewis term. In Springfield conferences 10 days ago Kelly, National Committeeman P. A. Nash, and others had agreed.

When Gael Sullivan's petitions appeared in Chicago no explanation could be found. Sullivan had disappeared temporarily. Kelly and Nash were in Florida and could not be reached. Gov. Horner was inaccessible at the executive mansion in Springfield. Slattery, in Washington, said he didn't have the slightest idea of what it was all about.

Various Theories of Split.

Later what appeared to be a satisfactory explanation appeared, but among the first reports were widely accepted theories that Mayor Kelly had consented to Sullivan's running because he had heard that the Horner advisers had persuaded the governor to become a candidate for a third term; that Kelly had quarreled with Slattery and had withdrawn his support from the senator, and a third story that Kelly and Nash had decided to throw their strength to Stelle and wanted their own candidate for senator against both Slattery and Adamowski.

Among the Horner group in Springfield the Sullivan candidacy was an especially bitter pill. They said they could not account for it, admitted it threatened to wreck completely the already badly cracked Democratic harmony program, and predicted that it might result in drastic Horner reprisals against candidates on the state committee slate sponsored by Kelly. They said Senator Slattery is recognized as the governor's "number one man" in the present situation.

Late last night Sullivan said the starting point of his candidacy was his own desire to run for senator, a desire which, he implied, was increased when the no-contest program smashed up and particularly when Adamowski entered the ring against Slattery.

Approved by County Leaders.

While Sullivan did not say so, it was obvious from information obtained elsewhere that the sanction for his plan to get into the battle came from the executive committee of the county committee, some or all of whose members talked by telephone with Mayor Kelly in Florida. The mayor has told many of his friends of his belief that Sullivan had brilliant political prospects, but usually spoke of the outlook a few years ahead.

"Why do you want to run," Sullivan was asked.

"I believe I have the qualifications for the senate. I am confident that the voices of younger men in the counsels of government can bring vitality and vision to the major problems we now face.

"I'd like to demonstrate that if young men win the confidence of the people by displaying sound judgment and practical foresight in government that confidence will be more than repaid."

On His Own, He Says.

"Just what backing have you?" was asked.

"I'm on my own!" was the emphatic reply.

The substance of the story about the attitude of the elder statesmen of the county committee was that they and other leaders have been doubtful for months of the strength of Senator Slattery's candidacy next November. If the regular slate had no strong opposition, it was felt, he would not be severely attacked in the spring campaign and might be carried thru the election battle on the crest of a strong Democratic vote.

The question that bothered these doubtful ones concerned additional details of the famous $25,000 investment in stock of the Commonwealth Edison company with currency taken from the Slattery strong box. Democratic leaders say the complete story never has been told and it is believed that the insurgents now starting to line up against the organization slate know much more about it than the public has ever learned. It has been reported they intended to disclose considerable new information during the campaign.

Waits Till Last Minute.

Adamowski's decision to run against Slattery was not announced until the last day of filing. If anything was to be done the time was exceedingly short. There was no time for a conference with Slattery, who was in Washington. Sullivan, pulling at the reins, was told to go ahead.

While these facts were being gathered some inside information about the reasons for Representative Adamowski's decision to run also came to light. The young minority leader of the house at Springfield started this campaign as a candidate for two places—his seat as a legislator and the post of county committeeman for the 36th ward.

Harry Kohl is the present committeeman. Because of his health he decided not to run again and the Kelly-Nash organization sponsored his son-in-law, George Robinson, a former alderman, to succeed him. The organization dropped its old opposition to Adamowski's candidacy for the legislature and sought to persuade him to drop out of the ward committee race. Instead of complying, he demanded that the organization call Robinson off. The refusal of the Kelly-Nash leaders to accede to this demand is said to be one of the reasons Adamowski decided to buck the organization's state slate.

Quits Election Board Job.

Several effects of Adamowski's choice appeared at once. A new organization candidate, Stanley Kucinski, was entered against him for his legislative seat in the 25th district. County Judge E. K. Jarecki notified organization headquarters that he will stand by the regular state and county ticket. A little later Adamowski announced his resignation from his $7,500 post as attorney for the election board, a Jarecki appointment.

Still one other effect unquestionably linked with Adamowski's enlistment with the antimachine forces was the slating of Walter J. Orlikoski, former Chicago alderman, for one of the two candidacies for congressman at large. One of the incumbents, Congressman T. V. Smith, is still on the slate, but the opening created when State Treasurer Louie E. Lewis was shifted up to the Stelle vacancy was given to Orlikoski who, like Adamowski, is of Polish extraction. He was the nominee for clerk for the state Supreme court in 1938.

The Stelle group of candidates now is limited to Stelle, Adamowski and State Auditor Edward J. Barrett, who, after being denied a place on the Kelly-Nash-Horner slate, revolted and helped persuade Stelle to run for the top place on the ticket. Barrett had filed earlier in the day.

The signs were definite that, as they both said, there has not been any agreement between Stelle and any other antimachine candidate such as State Senator George M. Maypole, who in filing for the lieutenant governorship followed Stelle and Adamowski at the secretary of state's office by several minutes.

Chances Better: Adamowski.

"We believe our chances even better now that we see the panic of the other side," said Adamowski before he left the state house. He was alluding to the appearance of the Sullivan petition, the report that Slattery was being dropped, and the rumor that Gov. Horner again might become a candidate for a third term.

Stelle said he had nothing to add to his statement of last Saturday, but Barrett took a fling at the machine in a typewritten announcement of his filing.

"The primary law was passed with the sole purpose of abolishing bossism," read Barrett's copy. "Therefore, no clique or self-appointed bosses can keep me from running for the office which I have filled for more than seven years.

"I have conducted this office to the entire satisfaction of the people of the state. They alone should decide whether they want me to continue.

Dictator Move Charged.

"I was the first Democrat elected to state office in 17 years. When I was chosen by the people of the state, not the bosses, as state treasurer in 1930 the Nudelman-Schwartz-Arvey clique never had been heard of, and I am sure that the Democratic voters of Illinois will repudiate the attempt of this trio of tiny dictators to tell them who shall or shall not run for public office."

Included in the last day rush of petitions, which continued until midnight, were some who were said to be hopeful they might be included in the Stelle-Adamowski-Barrett ticket, but there were no signs any of them would be welcomed.

Among last minute entries was Joseph B. Ford, member of the Cook county Democratic committee from Oak Park, who filed for state treasurer. It was reported he was hopeful of joining the Stelle group. He was elected township committeeman as a Horner candidate in 1938 and there was comment that his revolt against the regular slate constituted a breach in the Horner organization, just as Senator Maypole's entry for the lieutenant-governorship was a break in the lines of the Kelly-Nash organization.

State Senator Earl B. Searcy of Springfield, who already had filed for the Republican nomination for governor, walked into Secretary Hughes' office after 11 o'clock and filed a petition for lieutenant-governor. He has until Saturday to watch developments and determine for which of the two places he will run.

WISCONSIN G. O. P. MEETS; CHANGES ITS CONSTITUTION

La Crosse, Wis., Feb. 19 (AP).—The midwinter Republican state convention, after hearing pleas for harmony, tonight adopted a new constitution giving broader representation to its women's organization and the Young Republicans. The 1,700 delegates heeded the advice of Gov. Julius P. Heil and took no action regarding national delegates.

The two-day convention, to be followed by another next June when a state ticket will be discussed, was called primarily to adopt a new constitution, but there have been indications that an attempt would be made to bring up the question of indorsing candidates for delegates to the national convention.

By a voice vote tonight the convention refused to accept the resignation of Dr. F. L. Gullickson of West Salem as chairman of the state voluntary [financial] committee. Dr. Gullickson said he felt that not all groups had been properly represented when he was elected.

LIQUOR STORE CLERK ROBBED.

Joseph Franks, clerk in a liquor store at 2909 East 79th street, was robbed last night of $25 by a bandit who asked for the money in the cash register. Franks said $125 was hidden elsewhere in the store.

GAEL SULLIVAN: DOUBLY IRISH, AND AN ORATOR

Story of New Candidate for Senator.

Gael Sullivan, who filed yesterday for the Democratic nomination for United States senator, was described by friends last night as a young scholar with a "fine education and a practical, political mind."

Dark, tall, and of athletic build, Sullivan is as Irish in appearance as his doubly Irish name. He is 35 years old, married, and the father of two sons. There is in his conversation and actions a serious intensity apparently inherited from his earlier training for the priesthood.

An Able Orator.

Sullivan's ability as an orator, more than any other talent, brought him to the attention of political big-wigs. He was born in Providence, R. I., the son of a contractor, who dabbled in politics. He was educated at Providence college, where he received his bachelor's degree. About 14 years ago he came to Chicago, and entered St. Thomas Aquinas seminary in River Forest, with the intention of becoming a missionary priest.

He abandoned that prospective career some time later, but, meantime, thru his academic and theological studies, he had equipped himself with a well rounded education; moreover, he had developed a flair for oratory.

After a period of teaching at De Paul university, Sullivan found employment with the old South Park board. In the 1934 county campaign he appeared as a volunteer speaker at Democratic rallies.

Turns to Politics.

He made such a fine impression that he was chosen as a speaker during Mayor Kelly's 1935 campaign. His reward was appointment to the Federal Housing administration in Illinois; he later was promoted to associate state director, a post which often took him downstate.

Sullivan appeared again as a speaker in the Democratic campaign of last spring. Afterwards he was made an assistant to the mayor, a job reputedly paying $7,500 a year. Sullivan has described his job as that of a "municipal analyst" and adviser.

His growth in Democratic favor was indicated by his choice as national committeeman for Illinois of the Young Democratic organization. He is also head of the John P. Altgeld forum.

In his political leanings, Sullivan is said to be enthusiastic for the New Deal. He lives at 718 Gordon terrace with his wife, Ann, a Chicago girl, and two sons, Gael, 7, and Bede, 5.

LYONS DEPLORES FOOD SALES TAX; ASKS ITS REPEAL

Brooks Warns of Danger to American Liberty.

Champaign, Ill., Feb. 19 [Special].—Richard J. Lyons and Wayland Brooks, Republican candidates for governor and United States senator, respectively, spoke before a large assembly of Champaign county Republicans in the city building here tonight. Earlier in the day they spoke in Rantoul, Paxton, Hoopeston, and Watseka. Tomorrow they will tour Douglas, Coles, and Effingham counties.

Lyons advocated removal of the sales tax from food in his address here tonight. The tax on food is unjust, he said, and is taken from those least able to pay.

Quotes Federal Statistics.

"The unfairness of the tax is obvious," said Lyons, "when department of labor statistics show that 42 per cent of an $800 yearly income is spent for food, while only 17 per cent of a $5,000 income goes for the same purpose.

"If this tax were necessary we would suffer in silence, but when it is taken under false pretenses, not primarily to meet the needs of citizens in distress, as is claimed, but also to meet the padded public pay rolls created by a corrupt and ruthless political machine, it is time for us to demand action."

Brooks Sounds Warning.

"Two things destroy liberty," said Brooks. "One is the vicious, despotic control of governments by dictators and the other is war.

"The Democratic New Deal administration, after centralizing the power in Washington, has failed utterly to restore confidence in the American people and definitely has failed to restore employment.

"Now a special messenger is being dispatched to Europe to confer secretly with the warring powers. This is reminiscent of 1916. These same steps were taken by a Democratic administration which led us into the last war which brought us nothing but death and debt."

FILINGS ASSURE BRISK CONTESTS FOR PROSECUTOR

Mal Coghlan, Rathbun and Gutknecht in Race.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Mal Coghlan.

Sizzling competition in the primary campaign for state's attorney was assured for both the Republican and Democratic contests yesterday when the final filings with the county clerk brought in these candidates: Malachy J. Coghlan and Charles E. Rathbun, G. O. P. aspirants, and Judge John Gutknecht of the Municipal court, a Democrat.

Gutknecht was the biggest Chicago vote getter in the election of Nov. 8, 1938. He faces the formidable opposition of State's Attorney Courtney, whose petition for renomination was filed from the regular party headquarters in the Morrison hotel. The Gutknecht boom is being sponsored by individuals not identified with the regular organization.

Nelson Tops G. O. P. Ballot.

Judge Oscar F. Nelson of the Superior court, whose name tops the Republican ballot for state's attorney, was provided with a surprise contest by the filing of Coghlan's name. Rathbun and Harry S. Ditchburne previously had announced they would run.

Coghlan, whose first name commonly is shortened to "Mal," was an assistant state's attorney for ten years, bridging the administrations of State's Attorney John A. Swanson and Courtney. He resigned from Courtney's staff in March, 1939.

Coghlan's statement announcing his candidacy follows:

"My decision to file as a candidate for the office of state's attorney of Cook county is the result of many conferences and meetings held during a period of the last several months with business and labor leaders and other representatives interested in good government.

Lists Unsolved Killings.

"Based on my experience of 10 active years in the field of criminal investigation and prosecution, it is my positive opinion that business, wholesale or retail, large or small, cannot long survive the extortionate demands of criminal gangs. The same is likewise true of the organized labor movement in this county, for the racket labor leader is not interested in the cause of labor, and his rule brings unemployment, poverty, and suffering to the laboring man and his family.

"The murder of Lloyd Rourke in February 1938, the murder of Edward Schuler in March 1938, and the murder of Henry Schneider shortly thereafter, all union men, remain unsolved. Their killers are unknown and still at large. The more recent murders of James Lawrence, a Wieboldt store employé, and Marinus Hvid, garage owner, are likewise listed unsolved. This I charge to be the direct result of connection and connivance of county officials with racket labor agents. The setup requires avoidance of discovery and intentional obstruction of criminal justice.

Scandal of Jury Fixing.

"This state of affairs cannot and should not be tolerated by free Americans. The repeated accusations made by the prosecutor against judges and jurors, the open scandal of jury fixing, the vote frauds and court sitdown strikes are additional proof of the complete collapse of the administration of law in Cook county.

"These conditions are fully recognized by all classes. We face the shame of daily meetings and appeals for United States government protection on the part of the churches of all denominations, the Association of Commerce, the Illinois and Chicago Bar associations, the All-Chicago council, retailers' associations, the press and labor unions thruout the county. Industries and business of all kinds avoid this area. We are labeled 'racket-ridden' in United States government reports.

"Recognizing the seriousness of the present situation and having knowledge of the true cause as well as the effect, I vow that I can and will destroy every vestige of underworld rule including the gangsters holding public office. Business and labor unions are American institutions only when free."

Rathbun Promises Crime War.

Attorney Rathbun issued a statement yesterday reiterating the pledge he made in announcing his candidacy a month ago—that he will wage unremitting warfare against vote frauds and racketeering. He warned against the nomination and election of any candidate who has been connected with crooked labor leaders or other political protectors.

Judge Gutknecht, also issued a statement.

"I believe that the American government needs the example of a state's attorney who will follow the law in enforcing the law," he said. "My record on the bench is a guarantee of the service I shall render to all of the citizens of Cook county as state's attorney.

"I took the 'fix' out of the Traffic court. I put humanity in the Boys' court. I can do the same kind of job on a wider scale as state's attorney. I will not use my office to play politics nor will I withhold or promote criminal prosecutions for political purposes."

Filings for Municipal Court.

The Republican candidates for the Municipal bench were joined at the last minute before filings closed by Edgar B. Elder, who sought the bench job in 1930 and in 1932. An adherent of the Deneen group of the party, Elder filed for the vacancy left by the elevation of Judge Joseph A. Graber to the Circuit court. On the Democratic side, the organization is supporting George L. Quilici for the same spot.

Judge Eugene L. McGarry, who was dropped from the Democratic organization's slate of candidates, filed a petition signed by 7,500 persons.

BAILIFF ORDERS FINGER PRINTING OF OFFICE STAFF

Albert J. Horan, chief bailiff of the Municipal court, yesterday ordered all employés of his office to be finger printed. The order will affect approximately 300 persons, including 125 deputy bailiffs and process servers. The latter are bonded for $50,000 each by the Fidelity and Deposit company of Maryland. Officials said the request for finger printing was not made by the bonding company but probably would be appreciated by the company.

600 DOWNSTATE REPUBLICANS TO COME FOR DINNER

Green and Lund Assail Democrat Regimes.

Downstate Republicans, more than 600 strong, will descend today on Chicago to swell the ranks of the Chicago contingent for the Illinois Republican state dinner tonight in the Hotel Stevens. More than 1,200 tickets at $10 a plate have been sold,

Proceeds from the banquet will be used to finance operations of the Republican state committee and to meet expenses of the state convention, to be held some time between the April 9 primaries and the national convention on June 24. R. R. Bookwalter of Danville, general chairman of the banquet, announced that special coaches are to be added to Chicago bound trains to bring the downstate delegates.

Three Will Speak.

Three speakers are on the program. Representative Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts, minority leader of the house and a dark horse candidate for the presidential nomination, will speak on "The Victory March of 1940." His address will be broadcast from 10 to 10:30 p. m. over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system.

Mrs. Robert A. Taft, wife of the Ohio senator who is a candidate for the presidential nomination, is the second speaker. Mrs. Taft, whose maiden name was Martha W. Bowers, formerly lived in Chicago. The third speaker is to be Branch Rickey, owner of the St. Louis Cardinals baseball team and active in Republican politics in Missouri.

Dwight H. Green, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, last night made a biting attack on machine politics and bipartisan deals in a radio address. Corrupt political machines, Green said, will be beaten in the April primary and the November election by the thing they fear most—an uprising of the independent voter—"the unorganized tax burdened citizen."

Blames Bipartisan Leaders.

Like the New Deal nationally, Green said, the Kelly-Nash machine in Chicago and Gov. Horner's statehouse machine at Springfield have saddled thousands of pay rollers on the taxpayer. They have perpetuated their control, he said, by stealing elections with the aid of corrupt Republican ward leaders, the same group, he said, which is fighting him today.

"These so-called Republicans," the candidate said, "know that I am the unalterable enemy of the machine, whether the machine be Democratic or Republican. There will never be a Green political machine, nor will the administration of Dwight Green be used toward the building of any such organization.

"This is no longer a political crusade. It is a patriotic crusade. Every home among the eight millions of our people has a stake in this election. Every voter has an opportunity to free himself from those who have levied tribute on him for seven long years."

Lund Attacks Spending.

Spendthrift qualities of the state administration were attacked last night by another Republican candidate, State Representative Arnold L. Lund of Riverside, who is seeking the nomination for lieutenant governor. He also spoke in a radio broadcast.

"The state of Illinois was operated on 187 million dollars during the last two years the Republicans were in power but now it costs over 400 million dollars," he said. "Naturally with this huge cost they need more taxes. They have to have it to pay the 37,000 pay rollers they maintain at the taxpayers' expense.

Tells Chance to Save.

"Were the state to operate on the 187 million basis instead of the present basis, the people could get some relief from taxation. Primarily they could have the sales tax taken off food products. They could have their school system improved. There would be adequate funds for the aged and for relief.

"It is just as bad a crime for an office holder to squander money that is not his on useless job holders as it is for a criminal to steal. The only difference is that the law protects the former."

CROSS SUIT FILED BY WIFE AGAINST ROOSEVELT'S SON

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 19 (AP).—Mrs. Betsey Cushing Roosevelt filed a cross complaint today to the divorce suit of James Roosevelt, son of the President. She asked a divorce on the grounds of cruelty and desertion.

The action, filed thru attorney Neil S. McCarthy, asked court approval of a property settlement which she said had been agreed upon and which provides a payment of certain sums for the support of herself and their two children, Sara Delano Roosevelt, 7, and Kate Roosevelt, 4.

Details of the property settlement were not disclosed, but the petition said the written agreement would be submitted for the court's approval at the time of the trial. The question of custody of the two children was unmentioned in either complaint.

DEWEY IS HOME, CONFIDENT OVER G. O. P. AND SELF

Heartened by Findings on 7,500 Mile Tour.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 19.—Returning home from a 7,500 mile campaign tour thru the far western states, District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey today stepped off the train here expressing confidence over the way his candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination is progressing.

Dewey said he did not want to count noses of delegates who would vote for him at the national convention at this time. In general terms he stated his satisfaction with G. O. P. prospects at the polls this fall, an impression gained from swinging thru thirteen states.

"This trip has been a stimulating and encouraging experience," Dewey declared. "The great number of fine people we met everywhere evinced a serious interest and concern over the direction the country will take in the next four years.

Praises New Leadership.

"It was also a great experience to meet with the new leaders who have come up in the Republican party in recent years. In every state I have visited there are strong, intelligent, and courageous men and women vigorously preparing to lead the party to victory. This is an important omen."

A question about how he felt on President Roosevelt running for a third term was sidestepped by Dewey on the ground it was an academic query.

Speeches Written on Train.

Statistically, the tour was one of the most extensive ever taken by a candidate on a preconvention swing. Dewey made 44 platform appearances and 35 informal speeches from his railroad car, in addition to 10 formal speeches.

In two days he delivered three extemporaneous radio talks, each a half hour in length. He wrote out several of his speeches in longhand as the train sped from point to point in the west.

Results of the Wisconsin primary on April 2 and the Illinois primary on April 9 are being awaited by Dewey and his workers as developments on which his whole campaign may hinge. In Wisconsin the New York district attorney will be pitted against Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan.

At a meeting this afternoon in Trenton, N. J., Jersey Republican leaders decided to send an uninstructed delegation to the national convention. Altho the group favors Dewey's candidacy, it was decided to follow this course in order to prevent primary election contests.

New Jersey has a preferential primary, similar to that of Illinois, with results advisory but not binding on the candidates. Dewey will be entered in the preferential contest but the effect of today's action at Trenton was virtually to eliminate any possibility of a Dewey-instructed slate competing with rival sets of candidates in the delegate primary.

Dewey's next major speech will be at Lincoln, Neb., on March 6. That tour is also expected to take in trips to Missouri, Indiana, and Illinois. His next scheduled appearance is before the New York Rural Counties' association and rural editors at Albany on Feb. 27.

DROP 2 CHARGES AGAINST BOWEN IN MANTENO CASE

BY LLOYD WENDT.

Judge James V. Bartley of Joliet, sitting in the Circuit court of Kankakee county, yesterday dismissed two counts of a three count indictment against A. L. Bowen, state director of public welfare. He had been charged with palpable omission of duty, malfeasance and maltreatment of a patient in connection with the typhoid epidemic which took 60 lives at Manteno state hospital for the insane last summer and fall. Manteno is one of 26 state institutions in Bowen's charge.

Motions to dismiss the indictment were offered by Defense Counsel Hal M. Stone and Harold Trapp immediately after State's Attorney Samuel A. Shapiro completed his case.

Cuts off Two Counts.

"Counts two and three of the indictment have been dismissed," Judge Bartley then informed the mixed jury. "The jury will now consider all evidence relative to count one, charging palpable omission of duty."

This charge carried a maximum penalty of removal from office and a $10,000 fine. The judge's instruction closed the day's session.

Prosecutor Shapiro had completed presentation of evidence for the state by introducing Bowen's admissions before the grand jury that he had been warned of pollution in the Manteno wells, but had taken no action.

Bowen's statement before the grand jury, as read to the jury yesterday by Miss Marjorie Topliff, secretary to Shapiro, dealt first with water reports from the state department of public health that warned of pollution at Manteno.

Recalls Jury Testimony.

"Did the water reports come to your attention?" Shapiro had asked.

"Many of them did," Bowen had replied.

Q.—How many did you read? [The state previously had shown that scores of such warnings had been issued]. A.—About three-fourths of them.

Q.—Do you think there is any other source of contamination than water? A.—No. Milk and food have all been exonerated. I am convinced and I think everybody else is that the typhoid was due to the water.

Q.—Why wasn't the water chlorinated? A.—The only reason for not chlorinating the water was that it cost a considerable sum of money. I needed the money, I thought, somewhere else more desperately.

Q.—How much would it cost to install chlorinator equipment? A.—Cost between 10 and 15 thousand dollars. There is little cost to operate.

"It is unfortunate that this tragedy happened," Bowen had said in concluding his statement. "I hope in time it can be forgotten, but if I had it to do all over again, I would do just the same as I did."

Recalls Bowen Remark.

Earlier in the day Fred Brackenbush, secretary to Dr. Ralph T. Hinton, former managing director of Manteno, who was indicted with Bowen but will be tried later, testified that he once heard Bowen tell Dr. Hinton that the water situation would have to wait until more important things were done.

The defense is expected to conclude its case some time Thursday. Judge Bartley has indicated he will order night sessions if necessary to speed up the hearings.

UNION WITNESS CHANGES MIND; SCALISE BLAMED

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 19 [Special].—The influence of George Scalise, New York union boss once sent to prison for violation of the Mann act, was felt again here today in the court battle between the international and local officials of the American Federation of Labor building service employés union. The name of Scalise, international president, was brought into the hearing after lawyers and the union officials disagreed over terms of a proposal made outside court.

Last week Joseph A. Padway, attorney for the international union, and Thomas J. Burke, its vice president, agreed to let a committee of local labor leaders try Charles Hardy Sr. and two other members of the Hardy family, officials of Local 87 of the Building Service Employés' union. The international union group accuses them of misappropriation of funds and other violations of the union constitution. Today Padway and Burke repudiated Saturday's agreement.

Hardy is fighting in Superior court to prevent Scalise from taking over the union. Burke was placed on the witness stand and questioned by Hardy's counsel, Francis McCarty, on his refusal to let local labor leaders decide on the charges against Hardy. The witness admitted he had conferred with Scalise in Los Angeles over the week-end, but he insisted Scalise didn't make him change his mind.

BIOFF ABANDONS HIS COURT FIGHT ON EXTRADITION

U.S. Judge Lets Chicago Get Film Czar Today.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 19 [Special].—William Bioff, film union czar, tonight abandoned an 11th hour battle against extradition to Illinois and obtained permission from Federal Judge Ralph E. Jenney to return to Chicago, where he faces resumption of a six months' jail term for pandering 18 years ago.

The Hollywood labor organizer is scheduled to go on trial in federal court next May 26 on charges of evading payment of $85,000 in income taxes for the years 1936-'37. Bioff will remain under $5,000 bond pending federal trial.

Confer with U. S. Judge.

Bioff's attorneys, Mike Luddy and George Breslin, conferred with the judge prior to his ruling that Illinois would be permitted to take Bioff. Informed sources indicated the two lawyers urged the jurist to forbid transfer of Bioff from Los Angeles to Chicago prior to the May trial, but the judge refused. He said that at any time federal authorities could return Bioff to Los Angeles.

With the signing by United States Attorney Harrison of governmental permission for Bioff to leave Los Angeles, as formally requested by Bioff's lawyers, nothing remains between the unionist and a train or plane ride to Chicago but the formality of an appearance before Municipal Judge Wilbur C. Curtis tomorrow.

Validate Warrant Today.

At that time Police Lieutenant Charles Egan of Chicago, who traveled to Sacramento to obtain the extradition warrant signed by Gov. Culbert L. Olson, will meet Bioff, validate his own papers from Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois, and take custody of the film union czar.

It is not believed that his attorneys would seek a Los Angeles writ of habeas corpus to stay proceedings tomorrow. Such action, it was predicted, would be the defendant's first legal step after his arrival in Chicago.

One report was that Bioff, late tonight, had boarded a plane for Chicago.

YOUNG SLAYERS GRANTED STAYS OF EXECUTION

Judge John F. Bolton in Criminal court yesterday saved three young slayers from death in the electric chair in the County jail early Friday morning. He granted stays so appeals may be carried to the Illinois Supreme court by Attorney Charles Bellows, who represented none of the slayers in their trials.

A stay until April 12 was granted Frank Michalowski, 25 years old; Victor Wnukowski, 24, and Henry Drewek, 22. They are under sentence for the murder of Viggo Peterson, 64, of 2650 Cortland street, who was shot to death last Oct. 13 in a tavern holdup at 1859 North Washtenaw avenue.

Attorney Bellows then appeared before Judge John A. Sbarbaro in reference to a stay for Jerry Mangano, 22, slayer of Park Policeman Harry Francois, shot to death Nov. 20 when he interrupted a holdup in Humboldt park. Mangano is also under sentence to die Friday.

ELEVATOR BANDIT GETS BUSY AGAIN, ROBS TWO HOTELS

Afted six months of inactivity, the elevator bandit, who makes his victims ride up in elevators while he escapes, robbed two hotels yesterday. They are the Royalton, at 6213 University avenue, a few doors from the home of Police Commissioner Allman, and the Paradise Arms, at 4114 Washington boulevard.

The bandit forced Paul Schieman, 34 years old, night clerk in the Royalton, to place $22 in bills and silver in his handkerchief. He crammed the handkerchief and money in his pocket, awakened Joel Patterson, colored, elevator operator, and told Patterson to take Schieman up.

Using the same technique, the bandit obtained $18 at the Paradise Arms, where John Feiring, 25, the night clerk, was on duty alone.

TESTIFIES $350 A WEEK PAID TO PROTECT STILL

Convict Takes Stand at Ex-Prosecutors' Trial.

Edward Dewes, a convicted bootlegger who was brought back from Milan, Mich., where he is serving two years in federal prison, told a federal jury yesterday that his partner in a bootleg still had announced to members of the syndicate that he had arranged protection with "some big people in the federal building" for $350 a week.

Dewes attributed the remark to Louis Kaplan, an alcohol peddler, who is on trial with Daniel D. Glasser and Norton I. Kretske, former assistant United States attorneys, and two co-defendants in the court of Judge Patrick T. Stone. They are charged with conspiracy to fix bootlegging cases for money.

Tells of Arranging "Fix."

Victor Raubunas, who was also brought back from Milan prison, where he and Dewes were sent after Glasser left office, previously had testified to paying repeated bribes thru Kaplan to escape prosecution in connection with a still at Spring Grove, McHenry county, and another at 2534 South Western avenue.

Dewes said he was an investigator of licenses for the state when he met Kaplan in 1929, and that at a meeting in 1936 in a garage owned by Kaplan, he and Raubunas and others had decided to start operating the still at Spring Grove.

At a later meeting, he related, Kaplan described the fix arranged in the federal building, stating that "nobody would have to worry." During the first week of operation, the still produced from 350 to 400 cans of alcohol daily, Dewes said, but after that fell off to about 60 cans. He had reached the point where the still was raided early in 1938 when court was adjourned.

Charges Lax Prosecution.

Another witness, Sylvan White, an agent for the federal alcohol tax unit, described what appeared to him to be laxity in Glasser's presentation of evidence to the grand jury which had been assembled against the bootlegging ring running the Spring Grove and Halsted street stills.

"We had a witness named Joe Cole and I told Glasser he would make a good grand jury witness in these cases," White testified. "Glasser took him before the grand jury, then returned and told me he thought that Cole was crazy. He said Cole had made all kinds of conflicting statements.

"I brought Cole back a second time and took a statement from him which I thought would prove important. Glasser again took Cole before the grand jury, but they stayed there only two minutes. It would have taken at least 10 minutes to read the statement to the grand jury."

After these maneuvers, White related, the three leaders in the Spring Grove still operation were not billed by the grand jury, while four minor figures in the same case were indicted. Subsequently, after Glasser left office, all seven were named in a new indictment.

Open Hearing in Serritella Appeal on Racing Wires

Hearings were begun yesterday before Judge Harry M. Fisher on the appeal by State Senator Daniel A. Serritella from an Illinois Commerce commission order concerning phone service to his racing sheet publishing companies, Jockey Publications, Inc., and the Madison Publishing company. The I. C. C. dismissed Serritella's petition seeking to restrain the Illinois Bell Telephone company from cutting off the service. Serritella's attorney, Joseph Rosenberg, argued that his client's companies were the victims of discrimination by the phone company and the state's attorney's office.

Charged with Murder

MRS. CLAUDE HENRY.

Lake Charles, La., Feb. 19 (AP).—Sheriff Henry Reid said today he had placed a charge of murder against Mrs. Claude Henry, 24 years old, of Beaumont, Tex., for the slaying of a 200 pound salesman who knelt naked in a rice field near here and begged for his life.

The woman, the sheriff said, led officers Saturday to a rice straw stack where they found the bullet pierced body of P. C. Calloway, 41, of Houston, Tex.

Capt. John W. Jones of the Louisiana state police said the woman had been identified as the wife of Claude H. [Cowboy] Henry, serving a 50 year sentence in Texas for the slaying of Arthur Sinclair, special policeman of San Antonio.

USE OF PATIENTS AT MANTENO BY STAFF FORBIDDEN

Dr. Walter Baer, acting manager of Manteno State hospital, announced last night that he had ordered hospital department heads to quit using patients for labor on their own private or personal jobs. A case was brought to Dr. Baer's attention, he said, in which a patient did landscape work outside the institution for a department head. Violators of his order will be discharged, Dr. Baer said, and possibly prosecuted.

FIELD'S ROBBED BY BANDIT WITH MONEY BOX KEY

Gunman Seizes $18,066 in Loop Store.

A bandit took command of an elevator in the subbasement of the Marshall Field & Co. loop store yesterday and forced three employés to surrender $18,066 in currency.

The gunman then stepped from the elevator at the second floor, ordered his victims not to give an alarm, and vanished among the shoppers with a black zipper bag that held the money.

The money was being moved from a cashier's office in the subbasement to the third floor, where it was to be used to cash patrons' checks. It was in a small metal money chest on wheels. The transfer was being made by Arthur Waiflein of 1309 Belmont avenue, a cashier, and Howard Sallows of 1009 North State street, Geneva, an armed guard.

Bandit Disarms Store Guard.

The men pushed the money chest into an elevator reserved for store business. It was operated by Miss Hazel Olson, 22 years old, of 934 East 81st street. The bandit, who had been sitting on a bench near the cashier's office, rose and started to enter the elevator.

Sallows told him the elevator was out of service, but the bandit pushed his way in and thrust his gun into the guard's back. Then the gunman disarmed Sallows and forced him to operate the elevator. Miss Olson remained in the car.

Sallows was ordered to stop between the first and second floors. The robber produced a key, unlocked the money chest, and took the bag filled with $1, $5, $10, and $20 bills. Then he ordered Sallows to take the elevator to the second floor and let him out.

The guard obeyed, but allowed the door to close an instant after it opened. The robber struck him in the face with his gun and compelled him to open the door again.

Says He Has Accomplices.

"Stay here or go up," the gunman commanded. "I've got men planted on the first and second floors and they'll drill you if you come out." When the elevator door closed the bandit walked away. His victims went to the sixth floor and gave an alarm.

Police were puzzled by the bandit's possession of a key which fitted the money chest. Lieut. Kyran Phelan, who investigated, said the bandit evidently had been watching store procedure for some time to accomplish the robbery.

Ex-Convict Granted Stay of Extradition to Buffalo

The Illinois Supreme court yesterday gave Joseph Chevlin, an ex-convict, a 30 day stay of extradition to Buffalo, N. Y., pending his appeal to the United States Supreme court. Chevlin has been seeking to avoid extradition since his arrest here more than a year ago. He is under indictment in Buffalo for taking part in a $34,000 check forgery.

WEARY JURORS AWARD $110,000 IN 98 DAY SUIT

Verdict Returned After 1½ Million Words.

BY MARCIA WINN.

Ninety-eight days. Twelve jurors. One and a half million words. A suit for $196,000. A verdict for $110,000.

Judge E. S. Scheffler.

The longest case in the history of Municipal court ended yesterday in the court of Judge Edward S. Scheffler. At 12:30 p. m., after 25 hours and 20 minutes' deliberation, a jury of nine women and three men awarded William J. Cleary, a court reporter, the $110,000 in his 12 year suit against the Chicago Title and Trust company.

In hearing the case, with its 83 pounds of records, 215 pounds of exhibits, and 114 witnesses [one witness waited two days, wasn't called, and committed suicide], the jury had the equivalent of a two year legal education. Every phase of legal procedure was gone into in presenting the case.

Jury Misses Only One Day.

As they filed wearily out of the courtroom where they had sat every court day since Oct. 2, the jurors revealed they also had undergone an education in human adventure. They had undergone illness, bereavement, and uncertainty in their private lives, yet had missed only one day of court.

This was in January, when Juror Charles Vitale of 6521 Aberdeen street, 31 years old, had been too ill to appear. He developed stomach trouble after the trial opened and for the last eight weeks was on a special diet. "I lost 12 pounds during the trial," he said.

Mrs. Helen Pawlick, 28, of 5045 30th place, another member of the jury, expects a child in April. She felt ill on many court days. "But I took it all right," she said gaily.

Shower Planned by Mother.

The baby shower was the thought of Mrs. Jessie Singer, 48, of 2629 37th place, whose youngest daughter, Rose Lorraine, 7, kept telephoning the bailiff while the jury was locked up for deliberations. Rose Lorraine needed a new dress for her first communion and was afraid her mother wouldn't be home in time.

Mrs. Emma E. Simonds, 54, of 6174 North Nagle avenue, became a grandmother while the jurors were deliberating. Her 7½ pound granddaughter was born in Belmont hospital three hours after the jury was locked up.

Mrs. Josephine Kennedy, 46, of 1605 East 92d street, was the life of the jury. She kept them all amused and laughing, but after the verdict was delivered she rushed home to pack her bags for California. Her brother-in-law was killed and her sister and her niece were injured seriously in a recent automobile accident in Los Angeles. She was rushing to bring her sister home.

Juror Has Throat Lanced.

Mrs. Josephine Ragan, 38, of 4146 Arthur avenue, Congress Park, a former school teacher, had her throat lanced one night, but appeared for jury service on time the next day. Mrs. Edna E. Bruce, 23, of 751 North Menard avenue, had a new baby, Tommy, 3½ months old, when the trial started. "He'll have to get acquainted with me all over again," she said.

Henry Mason of 4338 Cortland street, foreman of the jury, said the verdict was reached on the eighth ballot.

"How could you remember all those million and a half words of testimony?" he was asked.

"If the lawyers could remember it for 12 years," he said blandly, "we could remember it four and a half months."

Trial Is Third One.

The trial was the third on the case, in which Cleary claimed that the trust company owed him $196,000 under an escrow agreement made in 1927 and had failed to live up to the agreement. The company contended there was no such agreement.

The first trial, in 1932, resulted in a mistrial when Judge John Gutknecht, who was hearing it, became ill. In 1934 a jury awarded Cleary $150,844, but the verdict was set aside by Judge Frank M. Padden. The Appellate court later ordered a retrial.

The new trial cost the city at least $25,880. Of this, $5,880 went to the jurors [98 days at $5 a day], and $20,000 went for salaries, light, and heat.

HOUSE CUTS INTO ROOSEVELT RULE ON NEXT BUDGET

Alter Date; Successor to Draft His Own.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—The house today unanimously approved a bill depriving President Roosevelt of authority to draft the nation's budget for next year if the voters decide in November that another man shall become President on Jan. 20, 1941.

Under existing law, the President is required to transmit the budget to congress on the first day of each regular session. Congress meets on Jan. 3 of each year. The beginning of a presidential term is on Jan. 20.

Heads Off Endless Confusion.

If the law were not changed, Representative John J. Cochran [D., Mo.] told the house, a retiring President would be authorized to draw up a budget which would not take effect until the following July 1, more than five months after his successor had taken office.

"If the law is not changed and the outgoing President sends in a budget, and his successor taking office on Jan. 20 differs with that budget in policy or detail and sends a modifying budget in congress, endless confusion will ensue," Cochran declared.

Cochran offered a bill changing the date for transmission of the budget to Feb. 20 in any year when a new President is inaugurated. This will permit the incoming President a month in which to formulate his budget proposals.

Promises G. O. P. Victory.

"I can promise members of the house that a Republican President will be inaugurated next January," remarked Representative Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.] "This law is necessary in order that he may not be saddled with a Roosevelt budget at the very outset of his term of office."

The bill was dispatched to the senate.

The budget date had not been a problem hitherto because Mr. Roosevelt has been continually in office since the Norris lame duck amendment was passed. That law advanced from March 4 the dates for presidential inaugurations and for the opening of congress.

A PIPE SMOKING GIRL, 16, IS HELD AFTER RUNAWAY

Miss Peggy Stubbl, a pretty blonde of 16 years who smokes a pipe in preference to cigarets, was in the Juvenile home last night after a series of adventures which began last Thursday when she ran away from her home in Cleveland, O.

She said she hitch-hiked to Whiting, Ind., on Friday. There she was picked up by John Adams, 33, a truck driver, and taken to Grand Rapids, Mich., where Adams lodged her in a hotel Saturday night. Late Sunday night they started for Chicago. He put her up at the Bedford hotel, 1310 Jackson boulevard. She wired her parents for money.

The parents communicated with police, who arrested Miss Stubbl and Adams yesterday afternoon. Detectives Patrick Kennedy and Earl Gorman said Adams told them his only interest was in seeing that the girl was returned home. He was held at the Des Plaines Street station pending investigation.

TRADE TREATIES BATTLE STARTS ON HOUSE FLOOR

Many Democrats Join to Oppose Extension.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—One of the most explosive issues confronting the two political parties in this election year was placed before the house today. Debate opened on a resolution extending for three more years the Roosevelt administration's reciprocal trade treaty program. Verbal fireworks crackled and will continue all week with a final vote scheduled for Friday or Saturday.

The President's power to enter into foreign trade treaties, without the ratification of the senate as provided by the constitution, expires June 12. Mr. Roosevelt was first given this authority in 1934 for three years, asked for a three year extension in 1937, and now seeks approval of the program by demanding a third three year extension.

Under Fire by Agriculture.

The program has been under fire from representatives of the agriculture states where farmers have suffered because of the benefits accorded their foreign competitors under the treaties negotiated by the President and Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

The almost solid Republican opposition to the program will be aided by the support of Democrats from these farm states. The big test is expected to come upon an amendment to be offered by Representative Harry B. Coffee [D., Neb.] requiring senate ratification of any treaty entered into by the chief executive. The President and Secretary Hull have protested that such an amendment would practically scuttle the program. They insist upon a free hand in dealing with foreign nations in reaching trade agreements.

Representative Coffee said he expects to have the support of from 25 to 40 Democrats for his amendment. The vote is expected to be close with the possibility that the Republican - Democratic combination may worst the administration on the senate ratification issue. If his amendment is adopted, Coffee said he will vote for extension of the program.

If the trade treaty resolution leaps the house hurdle, it may encounter defeat in the senate.

Political Significance Wide.

The political significance of the house battle is wide. The administration has made the trade program the foundation of its foreign policy. The political fortunes of both the President and his secretary of state may be swayed by an unfavorable decision in congress. If the President should decide not to run for a third term, it is not likely that the Democrats would nominate Hull in the face of open farm state opposition to the free trade policy which he has sponsored.

Republicans assert that the proposed trade treaties with Argentina, Chile, and Uruguay were called off as part of an appeasement program to soothe the fears of congressmen that these treaties would further injure the farmer. If the program is authorized for three more years, the President and secretary of state can be depended upon to resume negotiations leading toward treaties with these three South American countries, they declared.

State Department Lobby.

The state department lobby has been busy aiding the administration leaders in the house in behalf of the extension. It prepared the draft of the ways and means committee's favorable report, mimeographed it for the press, and drafted the speech made in the house today by Chairman Robert L. Doughton [D., N. C.].

"The evidence is overwhelmingly in favor of the continuation of the trade agreements program so ably administered by Secretary Hull," Doughton told the house.

In reply, Representative Frank Crowther [R., N. Y.], asked why the elected representatives of the people should not have some say in regard to treaties vitally concerning the welfare of the whole nation.

Exports of farm products are not only less than they were when the program began but actually less than they were at the low point of our export trade in 1932, he declared. Agriculture exports in 1932 were $752,000,000. In 1934, when the trade treaty program was first authorized, they were $787,000,000. In 1939, they were only $683,000,000, a decline of $104,000,000.

Rogers Park police last night sought a pyromaniac after damage estimated at $2,000 was caused by a fire in a three story, twelve apartment building at 2154-56 Arthur avenue. Mrs. Margaret McNichols, 1247 Draper street, told Assistant Corporation Counsel Earl Downe, in charge of fire investigation, that she saw a youth flee from the building a few moments before the fire started in a storeroom.

Firemen assisted Mrs. Charles Buckman and Mrs. Roscoe Diltz down ladders from the second floor when smoke blocked their exit. Seymour Lobin, 10 weeks old, was carried to safety from the third floor by his nurse, Miss Evelyn Lewkowski.

John Pustavrh, 21, confessed Waukegan firebug, was held to the grand jury yesterday by Police Magistrate Clarence Brown of Waukegan in bonds of $45,000 on three charges of arson. Pustavrh signed a confession Feb. 8 in which he admitted setting six fires since last November. He lives at 932 Prescott street, Waukegan, and is a former inmate of the Elgin insane asylum.

PERKINS, EDISON, ICKES SUBPENAED IN NLRB INQUIRY

Called for Testimony on Blackjacking Charge.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19 (AP).—The house committee investigating the National Labor Relations board tonight issued subpenas for three cabinet officers, or their representatives, to appear tomorrow for testimony in connection with charges by the committee's counsel that the NLRB had attempted to blackjack employers.

In making the blackjacking charge, the counsel had reference to evidence that the NLRB had sought to have government contracts withheld from companies accused of violating the Wagner labor relations act.

The cabinet officers on whom the committee said the subpenas were served are: Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes, Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison, and Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins. Subpenas also were issued and served on H. E. Collins of the treasury procurement division, the government's big purchasing agent, and George R. Cooksey of the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Correspondence Is Required.

The subpenas required that those named bring with them all correspondence or other documents which might relate to alleged overtures made to them by the labor board to withhold contracts, loans, or other government business on account of any litigation pending before the board.

They were ordered also to bring along any material which might relate to action along a similar line taken on their own initiative.

A committee attaché said he had no idea that any of the three cabinet officers would appear before the committee. The subpenas specifically named as alternates E. E. Eisenhart for Ickes, Rear Admiral Ray Spear of the navy supply corps for Edison, and L. Metcalf Walling, administrator of the division of public contracts, for Miss Perkins.

Follows Madden Testimony.

Calling of the witnesses was an outcome of testimony last week by J. Warren Madden, board chairman, that there had been an understanding between the board and the Reconstruction Finance corporation under which the board sought to bar from RFC loans companies accused of unfair labor practices.

Edmund M. Toland, committee counsel, also introduced into the record a letter which Madden wrote to the procurement division. It said that the Weiss & Klau company, New York manufacturers, had been charged by its employés with violation of the Wagner act.

"We cannot tell just when a formal decision will be made by the board in this case," Madden wrote, "but we want to advise you of the present status of the case, in the hope that your department will find itself able to coöperate with our work to the extent of not giving the benefit of government contracts to persons and companies who violate other federal laws."

Jesse Jones, who as federal lending administrator has jurisdiction over the RFC, said today that that agency would not deny a loan because of a Wagner act violation alone.

Pask, 79, entered the hospital Feb. 18, 1913, after receiving a back injury which paralyzed his legs when he fell off a barn roof. Yesterday, a day after the 27th anniversary of his entrance, friends and hospital employés showered him with gifts.

FINDS ROOSEVELT LACKS VISION OF NATION'S FUTURE

Dr. Compton Hits Message Dealing with Jobless.

Rochester, N. Y., Feb. 19 [Special].—Defending technological progress and the efficiency of United States industrial processes as a boon to employment and an important factor in the creation of the substance from which government taxes are collected, Dr. Karl T. Compton, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, tonight accused President Roosevelt of a profound lack of understanding and appreciation of this progress in his recent message to congress.

Dr. Compton outlined his views at a dinner here in honor of 37 inventors and research men who were awarded scrolls by the National Committee on Modern Pioneers.

New Enterprises Discouraged.

Leading up to his attack on the views expressed by President Roosevelt, Dr. Compton declared it was disturbing to find political leaders lacking appreciation of the part which science and invention might play in solving the problems of unemployment and to increase earnings.

"With only a few minor exceptions the policies which have been followed have been such as to discourage the development and fruition of new business enterprises based upon the invention and introduction of new products or services," said Dr. Compton.

"In the President's message to congress, profound lack of understanding and appreciation of the rôle of technological progress was disclosed in such phases as 'we have not yet found a way to employ the surplus of our labor which the efficiency of our industrial processes has created.'"

Country's Interests Periled.

"I mention the attitude of some political leaders toward these matters because I believe their attitude has not been for the best interests of the country, or even for the ultimate best interests of those portions of our population which have been described as 'forgotten men,' or to whose interest much recent legislation has been directed."

Dr. Compton said that technological efficiency has created new employment while making available to the public materials and services which otherwise woud have been inaccessible to any except a favored few.

CONNOISSEUR'S HOLIDAY (1)

By CALEB

WHAT DO you suppose was the original industrial handicraft practiced in the American Colonies? Well, Virginia's settlers were moulding windowpanes and bottles as long ago as 1609. Glass-bead making for Indian barter began in 1621; and by 1639 crude bottles were being blown by the colonists of Salem, Massachusetts. It took almost another century, however, for the craft really to get organized; and in the interim, glassware was a sorry, greenish-colored affair full of bubbles, sand-spots and wavy lines.

Came the year 1739—and Caspar Wistar, employing glass experts from Belgium and Holland, was turning out fine window-glass, bottles and tableware in New Jersey. Thirty years more, and Heinrich Wilhelm von Stiegel, at Manheim, Pennsylvania, flashed on the world shapes so lovely, embellished with etching, colored enamel, and relief designs, that their excellence has made the name Stiegel a collector's byword. His was a hard, clear, thin and brittle "flint" glass that rang musically, and possessed a wonderful transparency.

Due to the American Revolution, glassmaking died out along the Atlantic seaboard; and as a consequence hundreds of craftsmen migrated westward, with factories springing up along their way. But at the Sandwich Glass Works in Massachusetts fine blown glass was developed in 1825, and three years later its first pressed glass appeared—so admirably designed and artistically moulded that its popularity became countrywide. Soon, more than a dozen pressed glass factories had mushroomed in Pittsburgh, and flourished for the next half century. Sandwich none the less held its supremacy against all subsequent comers.

"And why all this to-do about Glass?" demands some impatient reader. For the reason that a ware acquiescently accepted in America from the 1840's into the 1880's has suddenly become the joy of modern glass lovers—the cynosure of the collector's sparkling eye. Early American pressed glass, in short, is "in"—so much so that on our south Wabash second floor we have newly opened a Provincial Corner, whose variety of patterns and items affords to those interested all the pleasures of a connoisseur's holiday.

Even the layman in "Americana," such as myself, soon finds his own eye a-gleam. For here is a craft expressed in crystal that is literal, intrinsic America. Its spirit is unborrowed from abroad, untouched by European tradition, and as unspoiled in character as the hobnails, dewdrops, fruits, flowers and native scenes embodied in its designs. Just to see and handle such creations is to shake hands with your own Uncle Sam!

NORWAY LASHES BRITISH FOR RAID ON PRISON SHIP

May Seek to Put England on Trial by League.

BY ANDREAS BACKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OSLO, Norway, Feb. 19.—Foreign Minister Halvdan Koht tonight warned Great Britain, during a special session of the storthing [parliament] that Norway has the right to bring the Altmark case before the league of nations. It feels sure, he added, that British violation of Norway's neutrality "will be condemned by the league or any other tribunal."

Halvdan Koht.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

Koht accused Britain of acting "in open conflict with principles which it has itself so often proclaimed," and revealed that the Norwegian version of events preceding the removal of 303 British sailors from the Altmark by a boarding party from the cruiser Cossack, which he said was illegal, differed from the British account.

Roosevelt Aid Suggested.

Reference by Koht to "any other tribunal," created speculation as to whether President Roosevelt would be asked to preside over an investigating commission. The Norwegian Journal of Commerce and Shipping suggested today that the Altmark affair be taken before an international court of arbitration under the leadership of the President.

The foreign minister reviewed the case before an open meeting of parliament after a special committee on foreign affairs had met secretly.

Koht said the Altmark had not visited Bergen or other Norwegian harbors, as claimed in a British statement reviewing Britain's action in boarding the vessel in Josingfjord [Gjess'ngfjord], where it was grounded during a gunfight in which seven Germans were fatally wounded and a number of others injured.

Ship Inspected by Officer.

When the German prison ship appeared north of Bergen, Koht said, an officer of a Norwegian torpedo boat claimed the right to visit the vessel to examine its papers and prove the ship's identity. The officer, Koht related, had no right to make any further examination.

Later, he said, another Norwegian torpedo boat approached but the captain of the Altmark refused further examination, in full right of international law. Koht also declared the Norwegian government did not know the Altmark had prisoners aboard. He said the German ship had been warned against use of her wireless in Norwegian waters after it was discovered that messages were being sent, and reported that the wireless thereafter was silent.

Admits Vessel Was Armed.

Koht admitted the vessel was armed with antiaircraft guns but said she was within her rights to go thru Norwegian waters.

"There is no international rule at all forbidding a war power to transport prisoners thru a neutral area, insofar as navigation itself is not illegal," he told the storthing.

To Britain's assertion that Norway should have interned the vessel when it was discovered that its wireless was being used illegally, Koht said that to have taken the vessel on this cause "would have been totally impossible."

Defense of Rights Pledged.

"As far as possible Norway will defend her rights," he told the cheering storthing, "and Norway hopes that the world will agree with her in this, as in so many other cases."

C. J. Hambro, president of the storthing, echoed Koht's assurances of a firm stand against Britain, declaring that "a united people and a united parliament stand behind the cabinet."

Report to Parliament.

A partial text of Koht's statement to parliament follows:

"The Altmark had not called at any Norwegian port but had been stopped by a Norwegian torpedo boat outside Trondheim fjord on Wednesday, Feb. 14.

"The Altmark's captain had been waiting to undergo a formal visit, altho the Altmark as a state ship was not bound to submit to such procedure according to international law.

"The chief of the Norwegian torpedo boat satisfied himself that the Altmark was what she purported to be, and having seen the ship's papers he left the Altmark again. He was informed that the Altmark had antiaircraft guns, which also was stated in the ship's papers.

"As navy authorities in Bergen did not think everything was as clear as it ought to be, another Norwegian warship was sent out and met the Altmark north of Bergen. This time the Altmark refused a visit, and with full rights.

"After the Altmark had been called by the Norwegian torpedo boat it was detected that she used her wireless sender, which is not allowed on foreign ships within Norwegian territory.

German Wireless Silenced.

"When this was pointed out, the Altmark's captain expressed regret and said he did not know it and later the wireless sender was not heard.

"On Feb. 16 she was outside Bergen. We have heard that British planes were near the ship, perhaps within Norwegian territory, but this we do not know for certain.

"It was these airplanes which reported to British naval forces in the North sea where the Altmark was. Probably the Britishers knew what the ship had done earlier, for they knew beforehand what we did not know, that the ship had many British prisoners on board."

The foreign minister then referred to the episode of Gjessingfjord [Josing fjord], which the Norwegian admiralty already had described in announcing seizure of the Altmark's prisoners. He then continued:

"Already in the morning there came a protest to the foreign office from the German minister in Oslo. He protested against British infringement, but in addition declared that the Norwegian government had not rendered sufficient help to the German ship.

Point Yielded to Force.

"To this there was nothing else to say than what has already been reported—that with the huge superiority which Norwegian vessels had against them it would have been contrary to all military ideas for two small torpedo boats to fight six destroyers."

Koht then reviewed the Norwegian government's handling of the situation, saying:

"One thing which was done was that the prime minister asked the British minister in Oslo to come, and he gave him a written statement of protest. The British minister tried to give a statement in defense of the British action. He mentioned the Altmark illegally had used its radio in Norwegian territory and maintained that we should have taken the vessel because of this, but to take the vessel on this cause would have been totally impossible, more so as the captain had submitted to a Norwegian declaration that he must not use his radio.

Prisoner Transport Held Legal.

"The British minister then said that the Altmark had prisoners on board and this should have been reason for us to stop the ship. To this the answer was that the ship in any case had all rights to navigate thru Norwegian territory. The Norwegian officer in charge of the torpedo boats had said the same to the British officer.

"There is no international rule at all forbidding a war power to transport prisoners thru a neutral area, in so far as navigation itself is not illegal.

"Last which the British minister said was that Norway had allowed German submarines to operate in Norwegian territory, where they had sunk British commercial ships.

"I have on another occasion given a statement about these sinkings to the storthing and I said to the British minister that we had not found the least truth in reports British ships or ships or other nationalities had been torpedoed within the Norwegian territorial limit.

"We have today received a solemn declaration dated Feb. 14 that no German U-boats were in Norwegian waters at the time when these ships were supposed to have been torpedoed. We earlier asked the British government to present proofs about these sinkings, but until today we received no answer.

Protest Made at London.

"Before this conversation took place orders had been sent to the Norwegian minister in London to present a strong protest to the British government. The Norwegian minister in London had a conversation with Foreign Minister Lord Halifax the same day. Lord Halifax complained that the Norwegian government had not carefully examined the Altmark and therefore had not found British prisoners.

"Lord Halifax was of the belief that the Altmark had been in Bergen, altho the ship had not been in any Norwegian harbor, and in his opinion Norway had not done her duty as a neutral state by making an exact investigation. This is quite without foundation.

"Lord Halifax said there had been a 'technical infringement' of the Norwegian maritime area by the British, but that he was of the opinion that this was of little value compared with the fact that the Altmark had between 300 and 400 prisoners on board under conditions which were not even worthy of a dog.

"It is evident that the British government is of the opinion that it can neglect ordinary international law and a small state which in this time of war has no other aim than to maintain her neutrality.

"This government all the time has tried with the most careful concern to fill all obligations of neutrality. It had protested against all infringements, whoever made them. The government cannot believe that the British government, when having thought the case over, will acknowledge that it is in open conflict with the principles which it has itself so many times proclaimed.

"Norway is a small state and cannot base her rights on power, but Norway has believed that big powers will consider it as their honor to show respect for the rights of small as of big states.

"As far as possible Norway will defend her rights, and Norway hopes that the world will agree with her in this, as in so many other cases. We may bring this case before the league of nations or some other tribunal, but in any case we feel certain that an infringement of neutrality such as we have endured will get its judgment by public opinion in all countries."

ROOSEVELT SEES CANAL DEFENSES ON PACIFIC SIDE

ABOARD U. S. S. LANG, Feb. 19 (AP).—President Roosevelt began surveying today outlying Canal Zone defense possibilities on the Pacific side of the Isthmus and their relation to a broader policy of central American and hemispherical defense.

Having seen the northern limits of western hemisphere defense on a Newfoundland cruise last summer, the President widened the scope of his survey by visiting several Pacific points today.

The chief executive, who inspected the Atlantic defenses of the Canal Zone Sunday, said in a press conference aboard the U. S. S. Tuscaloosa the specific localities visited could not be mentioned as it would not be in the public interest to do so.

Binding reporters to secrecy during a discussion of defense problems, he told them he thought they could go so far as to say the whole policy of hemispherical defense affected each of the independent American republics as much as the United States.

SENATOR FIGHTS CENSUS QUERIES ABOUT FINANCES

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19 (AP)—Senator Charles W. Tobey [R., N. H.] told a radio audience tonight that questions dealing with personal finances to be asked in this year's census "invade your inherent rights of privacy and your constitutional liberty." He has introduced a resolution in the senate to eliminate them.

"To you who have written me that you will refuse to answer these questions as to income," Tobey said in his speech, "let me assure you that, on eminent legal authority, these questions are not only unconstitutional but there is no legislative authorization for them.

"Congress restricted the census to questions of population and unemployment. Nowhere in the act are income questions authorized."

ANTARCTIC SHIP BEAR BATTLING A 60 MILE STORM

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19 (AP).—The polar ship Bear of the Byrd Antarctic expedition radioed today that she has battled gales and dodged icebergs for four consecutive days while maneuvering along the coast of Antarctica.

A message received from the Bear, a barkentine, said wind velocity had attained the 60 mile mark. It added:

"At times blinding snow squalls or driving sleet reduces visibility to zero."

ALTMARK BURIES 6 SLAIN SAILORS AS WAR'S HEROES

100 Shipmates Bow Heads at Rites in Norway.

JOSING FJORD [Gjossingfjord], Norway, Feb. 19 (AP).—One hundred seamen from the German ship Altmark stood with bowed heads in a little Norwegian churchyard today as six shipmates, who have become in death new German heroes, were buried with full military honors.

Red and black swastika flags covered the six white coffins, and flowers sent by Adolf Hitler, Joachim von Ribbentrop, German foreign minister, and Admiral Erich Raeder, commander of the German navy, were banked around the graves.

The burial took place in the village of Hauge, two miles from the rocky fjord where the Altmark was attacked early Saturday by a British boarding party which rescued 303 English seamen the vessel was taking back to Germany as prisoners of war.

Buried on Friendly Soil.

The services were conducted by a German Lutheran pastor. A brief eulogy was delivered by Helmuth Bräuer, the German minister to Oslo, who observed that the seamen were being buried in friendly soil.

The last words were spoken over the graves by Heinrich Dau, captain of the Altmark, who said:

"You were not of the German navy, but you served your country bravely and venturesomely by giving that navy auxiliary service, by supplying its needs far from home."

Sailors' Clothing Tattered.

The merchant sailors of the Altmark, which had served as a supply ship for the scuttled pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee, were a motley crew as they stood in knee-deep snow of the windswept churchyard. They had been away from home so long that their clothing was tattered and worn, and few wore anything resembling uniforms.

In addition to the six men buried today, one other German died in a hospital of wounds and still another is listed as missing and is believed to have drowned.

Meanwhile the Altmark, a wisp of smoke rising from her single stack, remained locked in the ice of the fjord, her stern close against the rocky walls. During the day the Norwegian destroyer Olaf Tryggvason arrived to join Norwegian gunboats standing guard at the entrance to the fjord.

At Sea Since Before War.

After the services, Capt. Dau disclosed that he and his crew of 133 had been at sea since before the war, the beginning of which found the Altmark just outside Port Arthur, Tex., homeward bound with a cargo of oil.

There was little chance of getting back to Germany with the oil, Dau said, so the Altmark remained at sea, transferring the fuel to German raiders and taking from them seamen rescued from sunken British ships.

Dau, who is 67 years old, said he had ordered his crew to offer no resistance to the British boarding party.

No Guns Aboard, Skipper Says.

"We had no guns aboard the Altmark," he remarked.

Dau said he was bound for Germany late Friday night when three British planes flew overhead. He said that when a British destroyer appeared shortly afterward and signaled for him to turn away from shore he was only three-quarters of a mile from the Norwegian coast.

A party from the destroyer then boarded his ship, Dau said, and added: "None of my men fired a single shot."

He said the boarding party took the English seamen aboard the destroyer and left hurriedly.

"They appeared to be in a very nervous state all the time," he declared.

"The captives had the same rations that my own men had, and the same medical attention," he asserted. "Their quarters had been fitted up as well as possible under the circumstances."

GERMAN ANGER AT NORWAY OVER ALTMARK EASES

Oslo's Demand on Britain Impresses Berlin.

BERLIN, Feb. 19 (AP).—Diplomatic tension between Germany and Norway eased decidedly tonight. There was evidence that foreign office correspondence over the British attack on the German prison ship Altmark was being dictated by kindlier hands.

Norway's indignation over the British naval invasion of her neutral waters was stressed by authorized sources in the foreign office. The strong tenor of Oslo's demand for return of the British seamen freed from the Altmark and for full compensation was said to have impressed Berlin.

Moreover, there was an appreciation of the fact that the small Norwegian warship accompanying the Altmark was no match for the Cossack, fleet 1,870 ton British destroyer that engaged in hand-to-hand combat with the Altmark Friday night in Josing fjord.

Anger at Britain Grows.

In her original note to Norway, demanding full reparation, Germany had reserved the right to make further demands.

However, there was no lessening of official German wrath toward Britain, whose act remained branded thruout the reich as "piracy, murder, and gangsterism." If anything, the anger of Germans flamed even higher when they heard that the British said the Altmark fired the first shot.

"A criminal British lie," was the official comment.

German officials had no patience for the British contention that 303 imprisoned British seamen on the Altmark required her internment.

Recall Duesseldorf Incident.

That question was absolutely beside the point, the Nazis said. Britain herself established a precedent for carrying prisoners of war thru neutral waters last December, they said, pointing to the passage of the German freighter Duesseldorf thru the Panama Canal in the hands of a British prize crew.

Some appeasement was provided German feelings with the official announcement that a British destroyer [the Daring] and an undisclosed number of convoyed merchantmen and tankers had been sunk yesterday.

POSTPONE VOTE ON 20 MILLIONS LOAN TO FINLAND

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19 (AP).—Besieged Finland must wait at least another week before she will know whether to expect further financial aid from the United States government.

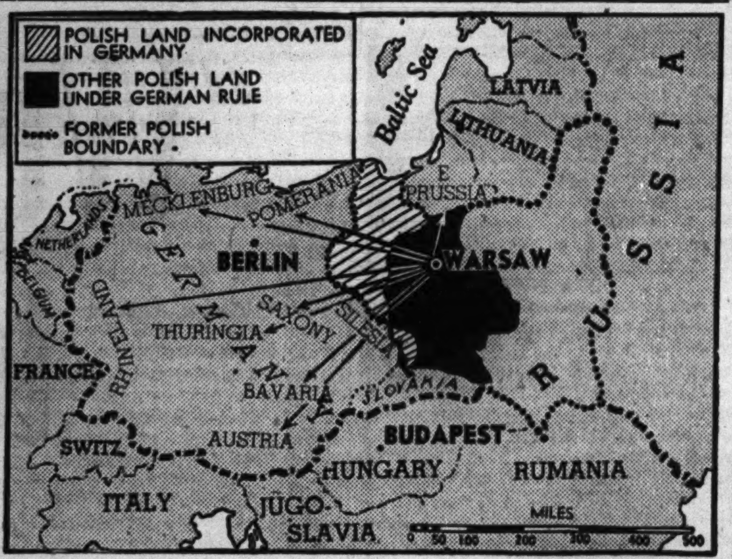
This became apparent today when the house banking committee deferred a vote on senate approved legislation to increase the capital of the export-import bank $100,000,000. Acting Chairman Clyde Williams [D., Mo.] said the committee probably would vote within a few days.

The legislation would permit the bank to grant Finland $20,000,000 of credit, in addition to $10,000,000 already extended, for purchases in this country. Even if the committee approved the bill within a few days, house action could not be obtained before next Monday or Tuesday.

Jesse H. Jones, federal loan administrator, told the committee today that the advance already made to the Baltic republic had been on the assumption that "Finland would endure."

"I don't think you should expect us to lend $20,000,000 [additional] to Finland if she has been defeated before the loan is acted upon," he testified. "I think we would give them some additonal credit if they were still fighting and with a chance to win."

German Division of Poland



Germany yesterday decreed confiscation of all factories, farms, and forest land in former Polish territory now incorporated in Germany. Part of Poland is under German rule, altho not incorporated into the reich. Arrows indicate destinations of thousands of Poles who are being taken from Warsaw to various parts of Germany to till the soil.

GOERING ORDERS CONFISCATION OF POLISH PROPERTY

State to Run Factories, Farms and Forests.

BERLIN, Feb. 19 (AP).—Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Germany's economic dictator, today in effect decreed confiscation of all factories, farms, and forest lands in former Polish territory now incorporated in Germany.

The order exempted only property owned by German nationals before Sept. 1, when the German invasion of Poland started.

Such lands and forests, including those "confiscated by the reich's commissar for strengthening German nationality," are to be managed by the state "to guarantee national sustenance," Goering ordered.

Public operation applies to all belongings, rights, claims, interest, and shares involved in such facories or lands.

Send Farmers to Germany.

The decree does not apply, however, to the "governor general's" section of Poland which has not been incorporated in the reich tho under German rule since partition of the republic by Russia and Germany.

[The "governor general's" area has been set aside by Germany as a residuary of the former free Poland to which Poles from the section annexed to the reich are being moved. This area borders the new German territory and acts as a buffer state between Russia and Germany. A Jewish state also has been set up in the southeastern section of former Poland.]

Scores of thousands of farm hands are being brought to various parts of Germany from German-occupied Poland to till the soil, it was announced today.

Five thousand agricultural laborers are being brought from Warsaw each day. Before many weeks elapse the Cracow area alone is expected to supply 120,000 Polish farm hands.

The announcement said that ten trains, each carrying about 500 farm hands, have been leaving Warsaw each day since last Thursday, and that they will continue departing on this scale thru March 2.

Move Poles from Red Area.

The Poles are headed for Silesia, Pomerania, Mecklenburg, Saxony, Bavaria, the Rhineland, Austria, East Prussia, Thuringia, and the Harz mountains.

It was announced also that between 30,000 and 40,000 White Russians and Ukrainians will be transferred before the end of February to the Russian-occupied sections of Poland from the "governor general's area."

On the other hand, 60,000 Poles now living in Polish territory occupied by the Russians will be moved to the "governor general's area."

BRITISH SPEED SEARCH OF CARGOES OF U. S. SHIPS AT GIBRALTAR

GIBRALTAR, Feb. 19 (AP).—British naval authorities tonight announced that speeded arrangements by contraband control officers were enabling United States vessels to pass thru the strait with the least possible delay.

[Secretary of State Hull last month protested to Britain against "discriminatory" treatment of United States shipping in the Mediterranean.]

They cited the following results from Feb. 10 to 17 for United States vessels entering for examination: West Chatala, six hours in harbor; Manhattan, seven; Exermont, 17; Excalibur, six, and Washington, four and one-half. They said the Exermont was delayed because it arrived late at night. During the same period, authorities said, five other United States ships passed the strait without being diverted to the harbor since their cargoes had clearance certificates.

Aldermen Hear Arguments on South Chicago Court

The request of South Chicago residents that all kinds of cases should again be heard in the South Chicago court, including those now transferred to the Criminal court building, was taken under advisement yesterday by the city council judiciary committee. Attorney Jesse H. Brown, chairman of the Municipal courts committee of the Chicago Bar association, opposed the request. He submitted a bar association report which called the present Municipal court centralization more efficient.

BRITISH INVASION OF NORSE COAST STIRS NEUTRALS

Fear War Will Spread to Their Soil.

LONDON, Feb. 19 (AP).—Great Britain today kept up a triumphal chorus praising the swashbuckling rescue of British prisoners from the German prison ship Altmark in defiance of Norwegian neutrality.

While Britain cheered the action of her naval forces in the Altmark episode, neutrals on the fringe of the war weighed the implications of the precedent set by the British destroyer Cossack's invasion of Norwegian waters. Britain termed the affair a move of urgent naval necessity.

[Norway's foreign minister, Halvdan Koht, announced at Oslo that the incident might lead to an appeal by Norway to the league of nations or some other tribunal.]

Belgians Voice Fear.

One neutral reaction was the fear expressed in the Belgian press that belligerent planes might seize the excuse of neutrality violations by the other side to fight battles in the air above the soil where armies clashed in 1914.

As bold as the admiralty, British diplomacy jumped in to challenge the behavior of the Norwegian government, already under German diplomatic fire.

Some neutral diplomatic sources, watching this latest development in deft shifts of pressure by belligerents, expressed the fear that a double squeeze play might force small countries closer to the issue of choosing sides in the war.

Spread of War Feared.

The spread of the war southeastward, northwestward, or into the low countries of Belgium and the Netherlands is viewed by many British as well as neutral observers as the principal chance for a break in the deadlock on the western front.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain will give the house of commons full particulars of the Altmark incident tomorrow.

The British said discussions still were proceeding "amicably" between Britain and Norway, with the former making it plain there could be no retreat from her position that the Cossack's action was justified fully and that there was no question of the return of the seamen taken from the Altmark, as the Norwegians demand.

The British have demanded that the Altmark be interned by the Norwegians. They have also demanded to know why Norwegian inspectors failed to discover that British prisoners were aboard the Altmark while the ship was in Norwegian waters.

GERMANS ATTACK FRENCH LINES ON THIRD DAY IN ROW

Bigger Drive Feared; 20 Die in Ambush.

PARIS, Feb. 19 (AP).—German forces, raiding repeatedly on the western front, today attacked French lines for the third successive day.

Tonight's British-French communique stated that a German detachment was repulsed with losses after an assault west of the Saar river. Other raids had been reported beaten off Saturday and Sunday in the Moselle valley.

Whether the local attacks were intended as a preparation for a larger offensive was not known. The French kept on the alert, however.

French Shell Town.

Heavy cannonading rumbled along the extreme northern part of the front as French batteries pounded the German town of Perl, near the Luxemburg frontier. Military dispatches said the courthouse there, used to quarter German troops, had been destroyed. The bombardment was described as retaliation for persistent German shelling of the French town of Apach, almost opposite Perl.

A French patrol fell into a German ambush east of the Nied river before dawn and about 20 men were killed. Eight others were wounded. It was the heaviest loss the French have suffered in a single engagement on the western front since October.

Trapped in Deep Valley.

The clash took place in a deep valley screened by heavy forests southwest of Saarlouis, German machine guns raked the French before they could retire.

The French continued to cling to strategic outposts at the northern end of the front, which they have held since their mid-October withdrawal from German territory. A series of German attempts to pinch off these outposts has been the principal activity of the last week.

16 SCIENTISTS
Reveal Great Discovery About
CONSTIPATION
Tests at World-Famous Hospital Show How To Help Nature Produce Her Own Gentle, Complete "Daily" Bowel Action!

NEW YORK: Constipation sufferers rejoice! For now violent cathartics and laxatives and harsh "roughage" products, many of which are habit forming and are often irritating to bowel lining—can be avoided.

You can now actually help Nature produce her own gentle, complete "daily" bowel movements—thanks to the patient study of 16 Scientists.

You see if waste matter in the colon isn't kept moist it becomes hard, dry, caked and results in constipation. These scientists discovered that a "little daily dose" of Kruschen actually keeps this waste matter moist, soft and easy to expel. Also acts as a mild antacid and kidney diuretic.

There is no nausea, no griping, no violence with Kruschen. Hospital tests report: "Kruschen can be taken for years without having to increase the dose." Inexpensive!! Only a trifle for a jar that lasts weeks. Over 245,000,000 jars of Kruschen have been sold thruout the world. Kruschen must do the work!

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

When EPIDEMICS rage..
keep within this "Circle of Protection!"

THE new epidemic is now upon us, but there's no need to become panicky. People usually escape illness if they fortify themselves with the "Circle of Protection," that is, take the following precautions:

1. Get at least eight hours' sleep every night. 2. Open windows wide before retiring so as to get plenty of fresh air. But avoid drafts. 3. Refrain from overeating, especially sweets. Keep the bowels open. 4. Exercise at least fifteen minutes in the open every day. 5. Wash hands frequently so as to keep them free from germs as far as possible. 6. Avoid overheating in home or office.

IMPORTANT

Never breathe through the mouth. Only the nose can warm up cold air before it strikes the tender membranes. Only the nose can filter out irritating dust and other impurities which break down resistance to disease.

If your nostrils are clogged-up due to a cold or nasal catarrh, insert Mentholatum in them night and morning. Mentholatum will soothe the irritated membranes and help relieve the local congestion in the nostrils, thus enabling you to breathe more freely through the nose instead of the mouth.

N. B. If any member of your family has sore throat, fever (over 99 degrees), chills, headache, extreme weakness, and aching of back and limbs, put him to bed and call your physician at once.

SWEDES PROMISE FINNS HELP, BUT REJECT ARMED AID

Sweden Will Not Be Drawn Into War, King Says.

King Gustav V. of Sweden.

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 19 (AP).—King Gustav V. of Sweden told his people today that much as he regretted it, the Swedish government had no alternative but to turn down Finland's request for direct military aid.

His declaration said that if Sweden gave Finland outright military assistance in her fight with soviet Russia the country certainly would be drawn into war between the western powers, a risk which Sweden could not take.

Besides, he said, Finland can get more assistance from Sweden as a neutral than as a belligerent. The king's statement was an endorsement of the announcement by the government last Friday that it could not send the Swedish army to Finland.

Believe Crisis Averted.

The king by his declaration was believed to have averted a possible government crisis. Leaders of a group which was campaigning against the government gave up the fight.

"On my own initiative my cabinet met today to make this statement," the king proclaimed. "It is my wish to make clear for my Swedish people the responsible, severe position in which we now find ourselves.

"With admiration I have followed the heroic fight of Finland, our brother country, against superior numbers. From the beginning, Sweden, by volunteers and in many other ways, tried to help Finland.

"From the first moment, however, I told Finland that they should not rely on Swedish help in the form of military intervention. With sorrow in my heart and upon major consideration I came to the comprehension that we in the present position must keep to this standpoint.

Wishes to Avoid Risk.

"I am absolutely sure that if Sweden now intervened in Finland we would run the risk of being involved in war not only with Russia but also in the war between the great powers and I cannot take the responsibility.

"In a situation of that kind it most likely would be absolutely impossible to give Finland the not inconsiderable assistance which Finland now gets from us and greatly needs and which we also for the future are ready to give with warm hands.

"With the help of God I hope that we by our way can escape all the disasters of war. Sweden's vital interests, its honor and its peace are what I always have kept before my sight. It is hoped nearest my heart that my people in this difficult position will understand and approve of my doings."

BOY LOOTERS OF HOME TRAPPED BY FLASHLIGHT

A flashlight proved to be such an illuminating clew last night that four boys who had ransacked the apartment of Mrs. Irene Coleman at 111 South Kedzie avenue, were arrested.

Mrs. Coleman, who is a deputy bailiff in the Women's court, discovered that $200 worth of personal belongings had been stolen during her absence at work. Moreover, the thieves had thrown eggs and tomatoes at the walls and committed other acts of vandalism.

More important, however, they had left a flashlight behind. Mrs. Coleman promptly recognized it as the property of a boy neighbor, Robert McCool, 15 years old, 109 South Kedzie avenue. He was arrested by Warren avenue police, as were three accomplices whom he named, Robert Gaides, 14, of 2857 Van Buren street; John Pucci, 13, of 3231 Flournoy street, and Fred Bolognia, 14, of 501 South Trumbull avenue. All confessed.

Russians Claim New Advances on Karelian Isthmus

Developments in the Russian-Finnish war on the Karelian isthmus, where the Finns admit the Reds have dented the Mannerheim line. The Russians are driving on Viipuri. The depth of the Mannerheim line and its course as indicated on this map and the line of new Finnish defense are based on the best available information.

RUSSIAN DRIVE BACKS FINNS TO CITY OF VIIPURI

Red Division of 18,000 Men Destroyed.

tured included 100 tanks, 58 guns of various types, 12 antitank guns, 75 motor vehicles, 23 tractors, 44 field kitchens, and more than 60 machine guns.

"Our losses were very small," said a press bureau announcement concerning the battle.

A Finnish press spokesman said one divisional flag which was captured showed a hemisphere, the city of Yaroslavl, the hammer and sickle, and a bayonet penetrating a map of the Baltic countries and Sweden, and the point resting in southern Norway.

Third Division Destroyed.

The 18th was the third Red army division the Finns have reported destroyed. The others—the 163d and the 44th—were said by the Finnish command to have been cut to pieces in savage fighting in central eastern Finland during the Russians' unsuccessful late December campaign to cut the country in two at its narrow "waistline."

[The division was the same one which unofficial reports on Feb. 6 said had been wiped out. A Finnish army headquarters representative at that time denied that the Russian division had been destroyed and said the report arose because the 18th was cut off from its supplies and the Russian advance stalled northeast of Ladoga.]

The Russian air force continued to sweep across Finland today in widespread bombing raids, and residents of Helsingfors were driven to cover for one and one-half hours by alarms. There was no immediate estimate of the number of casualties.

The high command said that 20 Russian bombers had been shot down during air raids yesterday, when soviet planes were reported over Finland in greater numbers than on any day since the beginning of the war.

Finnish Flyers Active.

The raiders struck repeatedly at Viipuri, Kakisalmi and Lappeenranta on the Karelian isthmus. Also bombed were the west coast port of Pori; Iisalmi, in central Finland, and the southern towns of Kotka and Kouvola.

For the sixth successive day the nightly communique reported that the Finnish air force had been active in bombing Russian troop concentrations and reserve areas. Victories in several air battles were reported.

There were reliable indications that arrival of new aircraft from abroad had spurred the Finnish aerial offensive.

On the home front the General Mannerheim league for Child Welfare appealed for foreign help to raise approximately $250,000 to buy seed so that Finland's women and children can carry on the spring planting.

"Finland's men are on the front," the appeal said, so their families must do the farming and maintain the nation's food supplies.

The league hopes to enroll 100,000 youngsters between the ages of 9 and 17 for farm tasks.

WASHINGTON FROWNS ON BID FOR ROOSEVELT AID IN ALTMARK CASE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—A Norwegian newspaper suggestion that President Roosevelt be invited to preside over an international arbitration of the Altmark case was treated with extreme caution here today. Secretary of State Cordell Hull said he had heard nothing of the proposal. Other officials declared the United States should remain aloof from so delicate an issue on the other side of the Atlantic.

RUMANIA ORDERS CENSORING OF ALL PUBLIC WRITING

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Feb. 19.—The Rumanian government has issued a decree aimed at clandestine publications. The law was decreed because Iuliu Maniu, president of the former National Peasant party, recently made two declarations in which he criticized policies of the government. Altho the censorship forbade the publishing of the declarations, some of Maniu's followers distributed typewritten copies. The law provides that no publication, either written, typewritten, or printed, may be distributed before it has been approved by the censor. Printers are forbidden to print any matter before it is approved by the censor. Similarly, no person is allowed to type or write for public distribution without the censor's permission. Anybody found guilty of violating the law will be sentenced to serve a month to two years in prison.

Claims Situation Now 'Very Serious.'

BY KIMPEI SHEBA.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Feb. 19.—Yakichiro Suma, Japanese foreign office spokesman, today blamed the threat of a moral embargo against Japan by the United States and the unwillingness of the American state department to negotiate a new trade treaty for the stiffening of public opinion here.

He charged that continuation of such a situation was giving rise to untoward imagined conditions and described the turn of events as "very unsatisfactory." Japanese newspapers and businessmen, he said, regard the embargo threat as an extremely serious matter, but he declared the government would not accept the suggestion that Japan abandon its policy of coöperation with the United States.

Japan Seeks Settlement.

Replacement of the treaty abrogated by the United States on Jan. 26, Suma said, depends "on the future attitude of the United States." He said Japan was moving to settle "a number of cases," presumably damage to American property in China, and still was considering its offer to reopen the lower Yangtze river to third power commerce. It was indicated in parliament today that army officials would decide this point.

Suma declared the Japanese government has done its best to normalize relations and pointed out that a Japanese plan for conducting matters during the absence of a treaty had been on the desk of Secretary of State Cordell Hull since December. He said that the Japanese plan was for a day-to-day trade arrangement.

Put Cards on Table.

"We put our cards on the table and did everything in our power," he said. Suma added that Japan had made its final offer to remedy the nontreaty status.

"The treaty question absolutely should be between two countries—the United States and Japan," he said. "It is a very abnormal observation for the United States to become concerned over China hostilities."

The Chicago Tribune,

Att: Mr. L. D. Schmitt

Gentlemen:

We are happy to report to you the excellent results which we have been obtaining from the advertising of our Special Loan Plan in the columns of your paper.

On July 24, 1939 we inaugurated in our Chicago office a new loan service, the purpose of which is to cut down loan costs to fit the needs of individuals and families. In this plan we have adopted the principal that wage earners are entitled to credit even if they have no property or negotiable security to offer as collateral. Those who have reasonably good credit ratings may also save by our plan, as loans are being made to such preferred risks at rates considerably below those provided by Statute in this State. Under this new Special Loan Plan, everyone gets the lowest loan rate to which he is entitled.

Up to the first week in December we made a total of 3000 loans amounting to $450,000 under this new plan. We feel that our advertising campaign in both the display and classified sections of the Chicago Tribune is an important factor in the success of Personal Finance Company's new Special Loan Plan.

Very sincerely,
T. E. Jeffries

How Tribune advertising helped new loan plan succeed

Additional evidence of the Chicago Tribune's ability to produce results in satisfactory volume is to be found in the letter above.

No matter what kind of product or service you have to offer, circulation figures, linage analyses and consumer surveys make plain that the Tribune is your basic medium in Chicago.

Every day of the week, the Tribune has more than 1,000,000 circulation. Right in Chicago and suburbs, the Tribune, every day of the week, sells more than 800,000 copies. This is from 335,000 to 500,000 more copies than are sold in metropolitan Chicago by other Chicago newspapers.

When you advertise in the Tribune, you address an audience which is accustomed to respond to buying ideas set forth in Tribune columns. Proof that Chicago is accustomed to accept more buying suggestions from the Tribune than from any other medium in this market is to be found in the sales records of retailers who, as a group, place more advertising in the Tribune than in any other Chicago newspaper.

22 PERISH AS SHIP GOES TO BOTTOM AFTER EXPLOSION

Fishing Boat Rescues 7 Off Spanish Coast.

LONDON, Feb. 19 (AP).—Announcement by the British admiralty of the torpedoing of the destroyer Daring with a loss of 157 men was followed tonight by the disclosure of the sinking of a Spanish and a Greek steamer.

Dispatches from Madrid said that 22 of the 29 members of the crew of the Spanish vessel Banderas were lost when the 3,140 ton vessel sank after an explosion six miles off Cape Vilano on Spain's northwest coast yesterday.

The fishing boat Trutonia rescued the survivors, all of whom were taken to a hospital at Corunna, Spain. The second officer and one sailor were seriously injured.

Greek Ship Torpedoed.

Reuters, British news agency, reported from Madrid that the Greek steamer Ellin, 4,917 tons, had been torpedoed by a German submarine 60 miles off Cape Finisterre while en route from Britain to Greece with a cargo of coal. The crew of 26 was saved.

The Daring was the sixth destroyer lost by Britain in the war. She was the 28th of Britain's naval craft to go down in the intensifying warfare on the sea. Fourteen losses of the British fleet were capital ships, destroyers or submarines. Latest casualties before the Daring were two armed trawlers, Bowen and Fort Royal, sunk by an air raider Feb. 9.

Nine officers, including her commander, S. A. Cooper, and 148 men went down with the 1,375 ton Daring, the admiralty disclosed, and one officer and four seamen were picked up.

Sister Ship Destroyed.

A sister ship of the destroyer Duchess, lost earlier in the war, the Daring's main armament included four 4.7-inch guns, seven smaller guns, and eight 12-inch torpedo tubes. She was built in 1932 at a cost of about $1,125,000 and was capable of the exceptional speed of 38.2 knots.

The admiralty did not disclose when or where the Daring was sunk.

[Germany reported the destroyer, a part of naval forces guarding a convoy, was sunk Sunday. At the same time, the German command declared, its navy sank an undisclosed number of merchant steamers and tankers in attacks on three other convoys.]

Altho the German statement that four convoys had been attacked successfully was termed "as fantastic as German claims usually are," the British announced that their total naval tonnage lost since the start of the war stood at 108,800, with 2,271 men killed and 604 missing.

Belgian Tanker Aground.

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Feb. 19 (AP).—The Belgian tanker Laurent Meeus, 6,429 tons, went aground today between Vlissingen and the Hook of Holland.

Freighter a Total Loss.

AMSTERDAM, the Netherlands, Feb 19 (AP).—The 6,982 ton Netherlands freighter Alkmaar, which went aground at the Cape Verde Islands yesterday, was reported a total loss today. Her crew advised the Rotterdam owners that they had abandoned ship and were aboard the Portuguese destroyer Vouga which had hurried to their assistance.

The Netherlands government ordered its minister to Berlin to protest "against the unjustified torpedoing" of the Netherlands motorship Arendskerk by a German submarine in the Bay of Biscay last Jan. 15.

The Arendskerk, a 7,906 ton vessel, sank after being torpedoed 100 miles off the French island Ushant near the northern end of the Bay of Biscay. At the time of the sinking Germany charged the vessel carried contraband.

DR. DAFOE VISITS CITY; TELLS OF QUINTS' GROWTH

Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, the shy country doctor made famous by the Dionne quintuplets, yesterday invited members of the Infants' Aid society to join the annual pilgrimage of 400,000 visitors to Collander, Ont., to see his charges. The quints, he said, have grown from a total of nine and three-quarter pounds to an average of 52 pounds apiece. He spoke at a meeting of the aid society at the Palmer House. Dr. Dafoe is here as the guest of Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health. Dr. Bundesen consulted with him often on the care of the quints during their infancy.

PREDICT VICTORY FOR LIBERALS IN CANADIAN VOTE

Expect Mackenzie King to Retain Rule.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 19.—With the period of official mourning over Lord Tweedsmuir, the governor general, at an end, Canada this week plunges anew into an electoral contest which seems likely to overshadow any other happenings in the dominion in the next few weeks. The election has been set for March 26.

It promises to be a bitter and, in some respects, a one sided contest, for at present the advantages seem to be mostly on the side of the existing Liberal government.

As the contest opens most political forecasters look for the return of the party in power, with or without some reduction in the size of its majority.

Liberals Hold 177 Seats.

At present the Liberals hold 177 out of the 2[illegible] seats in the house of commons, and the Conservatives only [illegible]. There are, in addition, 15 members of the Social Credit party, eight Coöperative Commonwealth federationists, two independents, and four vacant seats.

This is only the second time in Canadian history that a general election has been held during war.

The most remarkable thing about the contest is that all parties engaged in it agree upon the great issue of the day—Canada's participation in the war. They differ only as to the extent to which participation has gone and the methods adopted in participating.

The Conservative opposition is appealing for the removal of the Liberal government on the ground its participation has been dilatory, grudging, inefficient and altogether unworthy of Canada's place in the British commonwealth of nations.

Charge Commons Was Gagged.

Chief Conservative complaint is that Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King, by his sudden dissolution of parliament only three hours after it had assembled, escaped the only constitutional means of investigating his conduct of the war.

He gagged parliament, say the Conservatives, by appealing direct to the electorate. The opposition, they say, was thus deprived of the ammunition they believe they could have obtained thru exercise of their parliamentary rights. The Liberal contention is that it is impossible to fight a war and face a political attack at the same time.

The government argues that it was its own prerogative to appeal for a new mandate at a time of its own choosing. Its spokesmen maintain that its policy has adequately fulfilled Canada's obligation as a member of the British commonwealth while avoiding the racial issue, which impaired national unity in the last war.

VIVIEN LEIGH'S MATE GRANTED DIVORCE, CHILD

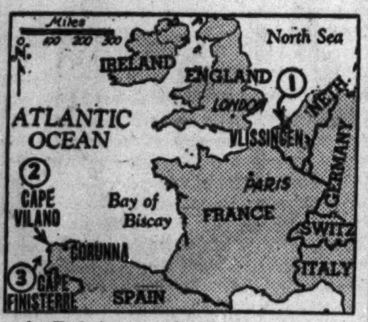
LONDON, Feb. 19 (AP).—Herbert Leigh Holman, barrister, was granted a conditional divorce decree today from Actress Vivien Leigh. Such decrees usually are made final after a probationary period of six months.

Miss Leigh, 26 year old India born beauty, did not defend today's suit. Holman named as co-respondent Actor Laurence Olivier, whose wife, Jill Esmond, was granted a divorce Jan. 29. She named Miss Leigh as co-respondent.

Holman was given custody of the child borne to him by Miss Leigh. He testified that in 1937, five years after they were married, his wife went to Denmark to appear with Olivier in a Shakespearean company. On her return she told him she loved Olivier and separated from him, Holman said.

British Medal to Celebrate Victory Over Graf Spee

LONDON, Feb. 19.—On the suggestion of King George, medals will be struck to celebrate the battle of Montevideo, in which British cruisers defeated the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee. The medal will be given to all officers and men of the cruisers Ajax, Achilles, and Exeter and to the closest relatives of those who died in the battle. It probably will show the Graf Spee sinking and will contain the colors of Uruguay, off which the Germans scuttled the ship.



A Belgian tanker went aground yesterday off the coast of Holland (1). A Spanish vessel sank after an explosion off the northwest coast of Spain (2). A Greek steamer was torpedoed off Spain (3) while en route from Britain to Greece.

DELAY HEARING ON FINGER BITING TAVERN MELEE

Hearing of six assorted charges against three persons involved in a mêlée in a Niles Center tavern early Saturday was continued for a week yesterday by Justice of the Peace Fred Kloman. Mrs. Velma Jones, 30 years old, of 1008 Oakwood avenue, Wilmette, had the tip of the middle finger of her left hand bitten off during the dispute.

Mrs. Jones and her husband, Harry, a pharmacist, accused Miss Della Stanwood, 48, of 564 Green Bay road, Winnetka, as the biter. The Joneses swore out warrants charging Miss Stanwood with mayhem, assault and battery, and disorderly conduct. She retaliated by charging Mrs. Jones with assault and battery and Mr. Jones with assault and battery and disorderly conduct.

The continuance yesterday was obtained by Attorney Litz Russnes, representing the Joneses, who said Mrs. Jones was suffering from shock. Miss Stanwood was discouraged by the court from an attempt to place another charge, assault with intent to murder, against Mrs. Jones. Miss Stanwood then agreed to the continuance, saying she was suffering from shock, too. She had a black eye.

FIND JAPANESE GARRISON STILL HOLDS NANNING

HONGKONG, Feb. 20, Tuesday (AP).—Chinese reports that the Japanese were withdrawing from Nanning, important Kwangsi province city, today appeared to have been exaggerated.

Altho it was estimated 1,500 trucks carrying Japanese troops and supplies had left Nanning for the south before the week-end, a sizable garrison was left to defend the city, reliable sources said. In contrast to Chinese claims of fighting in the outskirts of Nanning, latest reports stated Chinese advance guards still were 10 miles north of the city.

The Japanese were building new fortifications at Nanning, it was reported, to prevent the Chinese from recapturing the city, which fell Nov. 24. Japanese dispatches reported the French-operated Hanoi-Kunming railroad had been bombed Sunday for the second successive day, and a bridge and tunnel had been damaged. France and the United States have made representations to Japan concerning previous bombings of the railway, one of China's southwestern "life line" supply routes.

GERMAN WOMEN WARNED TO STOP 'BRIBING' GROCERS

Get Instructions on How to Do Their Shopping.

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 19.—German housewives were warned today against "racing from shop to shop" in an attempt to make purchases early in the day before supplies are exhausted.

Gertrude Scholtz-Klink

The warning was issued by Frau Gertrude Scholtz-Klink, Nazi womanhood leader. In an address in Weimar she laid down rules of fair play to govern the daily treks of German shoppers in search of foodstuffs.

Housewives, she declared, should not try to induce clerks to slip them larger quantities than they are entitled to. She particularly condemned efforts to make personal friends of the butcher, baker and grocer.

Told Not to Grumble.

Shoppers were told not to grumble or protest if some types of food or merchandise were not available. They were advised that it would be better to keep quiet and retain good humor. Unemployed women were urged to shop early so those who work would not be crowded out of stores later in the day.

The warning against dashing from store to store referred to the practice of making daily rounds of shops, which has been the custom of German housewives ever since fruits, vegetables, and many other articles of merchandise became difficult to obtain.

Many German women, it is claimed, spent a large part of the day searching stores. If they saw a line in front of a shop they asked what was available and if it was something they wanted they got in line. Many shopkeepers hold back part of their supplies for regular customers and only sell the extra quantities to strangers.

Retailers Cautioned.

Frau Scholtz-Klink advised retailers to be considerate of buyers who become annoyed when they cannot find what they want. Recently grocers were criticized by the Schwarze Korps, organ of Hitler's élite guards. It charged that many were discourteous because they knew they could sell everything they had, whether the customers liked their brand of service or not.

German officials are blaming the cold for the food shortage. They said it made transportation difficult and resulted in large quantities of vegetables being frozen, particularly potatoes, which the Germans store in pits under layers of straw and earth.

BURGLARS LOOT LOOP STORE.

Burglars entered the Palais Royal lingerie shop, 35 South State street, early yesterday and got $2,600. Police said entrance was gained by some one equipped with a door key.

2 German Ships in Tampico Fuel Up to Run Blockade

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, Feb. 19 (AP).—Two German freighters, which have been anchored at Tampico since the war started, today were reported fueling in apparent preparation for an attempt to run the British blockade. They are the 5,033 ton Idarwald and the 4,137 ton Phrygia. The Idarwald's hull has been painted black. All distinguishing names and marks have been blotted out.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 10¢ and 25¢. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

Mr. Leo J. Conway
332 Dalwood Drive, Cleveland

The Reason:

So many say that REM was suggested by an enthusiastic friend. That's significant! REM gets such remarkable results because it's much more than just a "tickle stopper." It works two ways—in the throat, and also internally. REM is made specifically for coughs resulting from colds.

DUTCH FEEL SAFE BEHIND WALL OF WATER AND GUNS

Reveal New Defenses They Believe Impregnable.

AMSTERDAM, the Netherlands, Feb. 19 (AP).—With the Netherlands' army building its manpower and gunpower around a water defense system, Holland in six months has reached a point where the high command speaks more confidently of its ability to stand off any invaders.

Progress in the training of a citizen army and construction of fortifications since the war broke out has been such that the general staff conducted correspondents on a three day tour to demonstrate the effectiveness of the defenses. Another purpose apparently was to combat doubts said to be held abroad that the country was determined and ready to use all resources to resist invasion.

The picture gained on the trip along the Dutch-German frontier defenses, main inundation zones thru central Holland behind which lie the richest and most populous centers, and the North sea coastal defenses is one of elaborate preparations, not fully realized even by the Dutch public.

Commander Hails Security.

Addressing the correspondents, Lieut. Gen. Baron J. J. G. Van Voorst tot Voorst, commanding the field army, declared any attacks from the east were sure to bog down against the fortified water lines of central Holland — even lightning motorized assaults accompanied by heavy aerial bombardment.

Further, he expressed confidence that the enemy would be unable to negotiate the ice, which can be blown up and cut in channels to trap tanks and vehicles.

Lines along the German frontier are being strengthened. Bridges are mined and heavily guarded.

The eastern defenses are based behind the Maas river flowing north near the frontier until it turns abruptly west, roughly paralleling the Waal and Rhine rivers on the way to the sea.

The northward line extends roughly along the Ijssel river, which reaches the Zuider Zee. It is commonly stated that the northeastern provinces above the Ijssel could not be defended except for delaying action.

Gun Posts Carefully Hidden.

In the south machine gun posts have been concealed with ingenuity. In stores and houses, reinforced firing places have been constructed, and it would take a sharp eye to notice the apertures.

The gun opening of a larger post was painted like a curtained window with a tulip plant on the sill.

The swampy Peel area back of the river Maas, coördinated with the fortified canal systems and new antitank canals, gives depth to the defenses stretching south of the great rivers to the Belgian border. The forbidding peat bogs of Peel have been mined and ditched. The region where even natives have become lost and perished in the ooze was pronounced impassable. It looked like it.

Guns "Vanish" 100 Yards Away.

To the north there was no sign of military activity. Without a warning three guns blasted the icy air. Then the correspondents were led thru trees to a camouflaged, entrenched battery less than 100 yards away.

At another place, the party got a laugh when a staff officer unknowingly walked onto a mine trap covered with wire and concealed with a thin layer of earth and leaves. He bounced about, but he was not of tank proportions, and regained solid ground.

The heaviest concentration of gun positions appeared to be trained on the highways thru the Grebbe valley inundation defenses and south from the Zuider Zee.

The soldiers manning the concrete and steel posts, riflemen in trenches, artillerymen in their camouflaged emplacements and detachments handling explosives for mining highways, bridges and frozen inundation basins showed they were grimly adept at handling the weapons.

Find Old Forts Still Useful.

The army is finding old fortifications as useful as the centuries-old canals. One large walled and moated fortress was turned into a modernized defense work. Situated on an elevation, it commands an important sector. In an attack houses standing before it will be blown up and the valley inundated. A lookout post on a nearby church tower would signal the enemy's approach.

Amsterdam and North Holland defenses have been strengthened greatly. If the invader attempted to cross the Zuider Zee he would find new fortifications on the south and western shores.

The main coastal defenses ashore and afloat are concentrated at deep water approaches to principal harbors, but there are posts up and down the whole North sea front to open fire upon any forces attempting a landing. Owing to the treacherous sandbanks and shallow water along most of the coast, only small vessels could reach the shore.

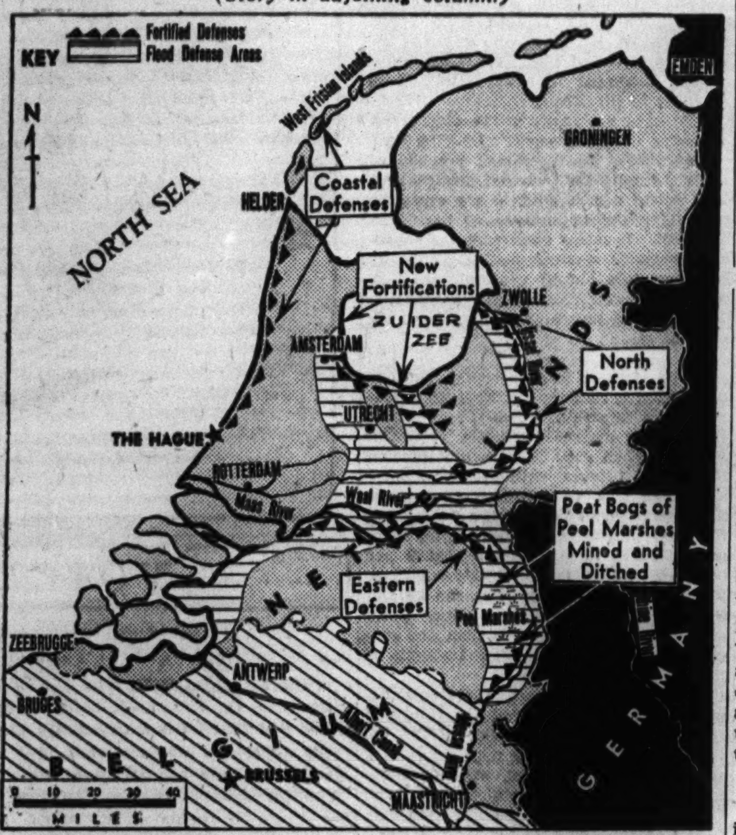
New Dutch Defenses Revealed

(Story in adjoining column.)



Network of defenses which have been constructed by The Netherlands. The Dutch army feels that any invasion from the east would surely bog down against the fortified water lines of central Holland. They have taken advantage of swamps, rivers, canals, and lowlands to construct the defense system.

MOTHER-IN-LAW'S LIST LEADS WIFE TO COURT, AND SHE WINS DIVORCE

Bright and early every morning Mrs. Bernice McAuliff's mother-in-law would send over a work schedule of things her son's bride should do during the day, according to testimony yesterday before Judge Cornelius J. Harrington.

Mrs. Bernice McAuliff.

The marriage of Bernice, who is 28, and Edward McAuliff, 30, a salesman, lasted from May 16, 1938, to Nov. 30, 1938, under these conditions. Then Mrs. McAuliff sued for divorce charging cruelty. Her attorney, Norman Becker, explained to the court:

"McAuliff would check up at night to see if all the things on the list had been performed. Mrs. McAuliff's omissions led to beatings." Judge Harrington granted Mrs. McAuliff a divorce and custody of a son, Patrick. She lives at 1730 Barry avenue.

A TOWN MOURNS AT BIER OF OLD COUNTRY DOCTOR

Many of Its Citizens Born with His Aid.

Staunton, Ill., Feb. 19 [Special].—This town of 4,500 and a big part of Macoupin county were in mourning today for Dr. David L. Bley, a country doctor who practiced here for 63 years. He had been the friend of hundreds of men, women, and children in the community since the day they were born.

Dr. Bley died Friday in his 86th year. He was buried today and his funeral was the largest even seen in this vicinity. Schools were closed in the afternoon and all business was suspended under proclamation of Mayor William D. McBrien.

Rain fell, but Dr. Bley's townsmen and hundreds of farmers and their wives ignored it as they gathered to pay their last respects. The crowd was so large it took several hours for all to pass his bier. The funeral chapel was packed for the service, and hundreds more stood outside in the rain until the cortege started for the cemetery.

Uncle Dave Always Cordial.

The pallbearers were men brought into the world by Dr. Bley. Likewise the officers of the Masonic lodge who conducted the funeral saw the light of day by his hand. Hundreds who were at the service were Dr. Bley's babies.

The physician was "Uncle Dave" to the citizens of Staunton and the surrounding countryside. Tall and slightly stooped in later years, Dr. Bley always was dressed immaculately. His cordial friendliness with every one in the community was in contrast with his dignified manner.

Dr. Bley was generous with his gifts to children. When he walked along Staunton streets carrying the battered black bag of his profession, he called out a first name greeting to all he met. Rarely was he in too much of a hurry to stop for a word and a friendly inquiry.

Weather Never Too Bad.

Elderly farmers, in town for the funeral today, recalled that the severest weather never kept him from responding to a call, no matter how far he had to drive his buggy over muddy or snow drifted roads. They recalled that sometimes he was unable to get back home for several days when creeks were swollen by spring rains.

In the many years before he bought an automobile Dr. Bley was a great admirer of horses. The horse which served him for the longest time and about which he liked to reminisce was called Old Ribbon. He never drove his automobile, using the services of a chauffeur.

Dr. Bley, like many country practitioners, was careless about his fees. What money he had above necessary expenses usually went for gifts and for aid to poor patients. He was a bachelor, and his sister, Mrs. Nellie Wurtz, 92, of Joliet, is his only immediate survivor.

An item on Feb. 12 concerning a freak accident in Skokie highway south of the County line road said Eugene Rosalini of Highwood was killed when the car in which he was riding struck an interstate truck which had skidded broadside and was blocking the road. The Morton Grove county highway police have issued a revised report of the accident, absolving the truck driver, Edward Kilarsky, of blame. Rosalini was killed in a crash involving four automobiles some minutes before Kilarsky drove up. His truck skidded as he stopped to give assistance to the occupants of the machines.

Drifting Snow Hampers Northwest Highway Traffic

Drifting snow threatened last night to close the Northwest highway between Harvard and Crystal Lake in McHenry county, despite highway crews. Eleven drifts, between 5 and 6 feet deep, were reported on the highway. The snow, which had been intermittent since Sunday noon, began drifting last night. Automobile travel became hazardous, but heavy trucks managed to keep going thru, by plowing ahead in convoys. At midnight a light wet snow was falling and being piled into drifts by a north wind. Intermittent light snow or rain is forecast for Chicago today.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Europe has a set of primary interests which to us have none or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the causes of which are essentially foreign to our concerns. Hence, therefore, it must be unwise in us to implicate ourselves by artificial ties in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics or the ordinary combinations and collisions of her friendships or enmities."—From the Farewell Address.

MAY WE SAY THAT WE TOLD YOU SO?

The milk marketing agreement under which Secretary Wallace began his operations in Chicago went into effect last September. In that month farmers shipped 125,600,142 pounds of milk into the marketing area. By January shipments had jumped to 160,496,358 pounds, a 27 per cent increase, and the number of farmers shipping to this market had also increased by 6 per cent.

Cows normally produce the minimum of milk in January. When they come fresh, in May and June, Chicago will receive 200,000,000 pounds of milk a month, in the opinion of Secretary Wallace's pro-consul, N. J. Cladakis. This is 60 per cent more than it used last September, and September is the peak consumption month of the year.

What has happened is that the law of supply and demand is still working in the milk business. If any one in that industry is surprised at this he has no right to be. When the Wallace dictatorship was established this newspaper and others predicted that the price fixing scheme would break down of its own weight and that the city would be fortunate if it escaped such an outbreak of terrorism as has characterized other attempts to maintain artificially high milk prices.

Farmers are already alarmed at the large milk surplus that Secretary Wallace has built up in the market, as they have every reason to be. They get a fixed, artificial price for milk sold in bottles. The surplus, for which a much lower price is paid, is made into other milk products.

By a pooling process every producer shares equally in the return from the various uses to which milk is put. All of one farmer's milk may be sold in bottles, at a high price, and all of his neighbor's may be used to make butter, at a low price, but each gets the same price from the pool, and the greater the surplus that the market has to carry, the lower this pooled price drops.

The reason for the present surplus and the still larger one that impends is obvious. THE TRIBUNE called attention to it last September. Because of sanitary regulations, it costs more to produce milk for fluid sales than milk to be evaporated or made into butter. But the differential placed in the federal price fixing scheme was 60 cents a hundred pounds, whereas the actual cost of meeting sanitary inspection has usually been estimated at 40 cents a hundred pounds. Here was a 20 cent bonus to the farmer who could pass inspection and ship to Chicago.

The 6 per cent increase in the number of shippers and the still greater increase in the volume of production, traceable to increase in the size of dairy herds, shows how quickly farmers leaped to take advantage of this artificial price increase. The differential has been cut to 55 cents, and is to be cut further, but the damage has been done. The farmers have already made their investment to fit their barns to pass inspection. It will be profitable now for them to continue shipping even if the differential falls well below 40 cents.

Secretary Wallace's struggles to get off the hook of his own false economics will be interesting. Two courses seem open to him. He can let the scheme collapse of its own defects or he can undertake further repressive measures in an attempt to prolong its life. With a vast surplus in the market, thousands of farmers will be unable to find buyers for their milk at the fixed price. What will the burocrats do when these farmers start selling their milk for what it will bring?

THE NATIONAL CONVENTIONS.

Mr. Farley waited long enough to learn when the Republican national convention would be held and then exercised the authority given him by the Democratic national committee. He picked July 15 for the convention here in Chicago. The Republicans, by the vote of the national committeemen last week, chose Philadelphia as their convention city and set the time for June 24, going about their business without regard for what the Democratic program might be.

Some of the politicians think that Mr. Roosevelt will not be much pleased by Mr. Farley's selection. Mr. Roosevelt was nearing the Canal Zone on the cruiser Tuscaloosa when the national chairman made his decision, and, presumably, was not consulted. He wanted a short, snappy campaign and was said to have a September convention in mind. That would have kept the third term guessing alive all summer, and probably the uncertainty would have been used to persuade the New Dealers that they had only one candidate, the same being the present occupant of the White House.

Mr. Farley, in addition to being national chairman and postmaster general, is also Candidate Farley, and from his remarks [altho in public they have been more obscure than explicit] it has been gathered that he is against the third term. A short campaign would be good for the third termers but any other candidate will need more time for his build-up.

The Republicans chose Philadelphia primarily because that city, having lost the Democratic convention to Chicago, made the best money bid. There was also a reason to be found in sentiment. The first Republican national convention was held in Philadelphia in 1856, when Fremont was nominated.

The Republicans are going back to the city where they put up their first national ticket and they will make something of the parallels which naturally will occur to the convention speakers. Chicago's counterclaim in sentiment was that Abraham Lincoln, the first Republican President, was nominated in Chicago four years later, when the national dangers which the Philadelphia Republicans so clearly foresaw had presented an unescapable issue.

A BUYER OF DEFAULTED BONDS.

A financial officer of Yale university told a conference of trust officers last week about the plan followed by that university in investing its endowment funds. Seventy per cent goes into fixed income securities and 30 per cent into defaulted bonds, preferred stocks paying no dividends, and common stocks.

What a commentary upon the financial plight of institutions and persons dependent upon regular income from investments! One of our greatest universities has been driven to speculate with 35 million dollars in bonds of bankrupt concerns, in senior stocks of companies whose business has been unsuccessful, and in ordinary common stocks. If a university with experienced financiers controling its investments cannot employ its funds to better advantage than that, what chance is there for the common man relying upon his own experience and judgment to put his savings to safe and profitable use?

The plight of the universities and of other investors is a consequence of low interest rates and the failure of business enterprises to borrow money for expansion. A principal reason for the low interest rates is the easy money policy which has been pursued by the government. Business has not expanded because every effort of the present administration has been directed toward regulating business and making it unprofitable. Costs of doing business have been increased, methods of carrying on business have been subject to government control by a great number of new agencies, taxes have been boosted sky-high, and when despite all of these restraints and discouragements some have been willing to issue new securities they have been treated as if they were racketeers.

In every one of these activities which have cut down the income from investments and have reduced the supply of new securities university professors have played a prominent part. They have been prominent in making the plans and in carrying them out. The plight of widows, orphans, and others dependent upon vanishing income from investments excites the sympathy of us all. But the decline in the income from the endowments of the universities doesn't bring a tear to an eye, for the reason that prominent members of the faculties have played a leading part and are still playing a leading part in creating the condition.

WHICH IS T'OTHER?

BERLIN, Feb. 15 [Special].—A passive resister to the government's order to farmers to plow up grassland to produce food was fined $100 today.

LONDON, Feb. 14 [Special].—A court today sentenced two men to 12 month jail terms, one for having quit his job and the other for failure to accept the dictate as to where he was to work.

Wait a minute, stop the press. There's a mistake here. The datelines are wrong. The first one, instead of being Berlin, Feb. 15, should have been London, Feb. 15, and the second one should have been Berlin, Feb. 14, instead of London, Feb. 14. The reader might have guessed that there was an error because, altho the processes of government seemed to be the same, there was something more familiarly Nazi in the jail sentence than in the fine.

The English farmer said that his moorland farm in the limestone country of Derbyshire was too heavy for plowing. He was told that under the defense act the government had the right to take over his land and cultivate it as thought best. The plight of the Germans who have gone to jail might illustrate the new war cry of Robert Ley, the Nazi head of the labor front. He has adopted the communist manifesto of Marx and Engels: "Workers of the world, arise. You have nothing to lose but your chains."

The belligerent countries say they are fighting to make man free. Their own peoples might ask them when does that freedom get around to us?

Editorial of the Day

BRIDGES SEEKS CITIZENSHIP.

[Reno Evening Gazette.]

Mr. Harry Bridges is taking up the matter of attaining the status of an American citizen in earnest. He evidently considers himself qualified to become an American at last. An alien, born in Australia, his lack of citizenship, his inability to vote or to participate in the ordinary political functions of a citizen have not prevented him from holding high office in Mr. Lewis' C. I. O. and from inciting American citizens to all sorts of violence, riots, and bloodshed in the labor wars he has fomented and commanded.

Encouraged by the administration, shielded by Madam Perkins' department of labor from attempts to deport him as an undesirable alien, and whitewashed by Dean Landis of the taint of communism, with which numerous witnesses testified he was permeated, he now stands forth as vindicated in his own eyes and those of the C. I. O. and as eminently fitted for the high privileges of citizenship. Evidently he considers that, among other requirements, he meets the demands of the naturalization law that he be attached to the principles of the constitution and of a favorable disposition to "public good order and happiness."

He may qualify as a New Dealer, but there are still many who maintain that he is not of the stuff of which good American citizens are made.

A GLIMPSE OF THE GOLDEN OX.

You can easily miss the Golden Ox, for Clybourn avenue is not a great white way and the café, seen from the street, is dark and silent. Only a small sign in mediæval style and a car-parker at the door suggest that there may be festival inside.

It is, you discover, a quiet and genial place for quiet and genial people. There is no modern glamor here; no swing band, no floor show, no dancing by the customers. The atmosphere is that of a café in some Austrian city; Innsbruck, perhaps, which also has a Golden Ox. On the first floor there is a barroom in mellow Teutonic style and a dining room for special occasions. Downstairs is the rathskeller, where the night hours pass swiftly.

The beer has authority; the steins have character; and the schnitzels, or whatever you may be eating, have that certain smack that gourmets seek. For other entertainment there are Rudy, Friedele, and Jack. They do not bounce out at the command of a master of ceremonies; they do their stuff casually, as if they had just dropped in to join the party.

Jack is pianist, accordionist, and singer of any song you can name. He is especially good at old Chicago songs of the La Salle theater era, and he has a right to sing them, for he was once a sidekick of Joe Howard, their composer. Friedele, in peasant costume, sings all the hits of the Viennese operettas, as far back as you can remember, in a light soprano, and folk-songs such as "Im Prater blüh'n wieder die Bäume." And Rudy—well, he does almost everything.

Rudy sat beside us and ran off a series of card tricks that were pure magic. Then he borrowed our fountain pen and began to dab it into the foam on a tall glass of beer, making a sketch of a girl's face. He swallowed half the beer—but the picture stayed there. He swallowed the other half and the girl's face was in the bottom of the glass.

Then Rudy brought out a small kit of tools and proposed to decorate the back of a beer "coaster" with a picture worthy of being called "Sunset in the Alps." He did it, too, in the technique of wood-burning, a Tyrolean folk-art, with touches of color. Time for this tour de force, five minutes. When last seen Rudy was singing "Drink, Drink," from "The Student Prince," like Allan Jones, while swinging a stein of beer in full circles without spilling a drop.

Nice place for a change, this Golden Ox.

LADDERS TO THE SKY.

We all have sought for ladders; we would know
Like Jacob, fairways opening to the sky.
Too often do our feet impatient grow
With common ways. The Vision dwells on high.
O gracious God of Wanderers, ordain
Some sure approach to what we seek afar,
That we have not our journeying in vain,
But reach contentment in some final star!

Hands upward grope for leads they cannot find,
While eyes bewildered search horizons bare
In futile quest of some celestial mark;
Still onward moves the Dream, and we the blind
Still follow, tho we know not why nor where Forever mounting ladders in the dark.

The Talking Dogs of Norland.

Hark, Hark, the dogs do bark,
The Ashland Limited's coming to town.

So sing the bards now in the far north iron country of those canine vagabonds who come to greet the Limited and partake of Stewards Stewart's and Arnold's pantry remnants and of whom we first told you several moons ago. For their number has multiplied. Sneezer, the pretty maid of Hurley, has been about and now brings her puppies.

You did not know of Sneezer? Ah, sire, Sneezer is so well named. Ere Stewart or Arnold give her the daily ration they cause her to sit back on her haunches and command, "Sneeze!" And Sneezer does so, one time, two time, even up to six time. The echo of the last sneeze she hardly die in the cold, blue air of the North Woods, then the puppies they sit back on the places God made for them to sit on and make with their tails what you call in the theater a loud applause. They pound very hard on the boards of the Hurley station with their tails and make one think of the machine guns.

And then Sneezer—ah, sire, she is so beautiful—she bow this way and that way, and Stewart or Arnold make it a sweeping bow to her and give her the panful of good bones. Is it not a pretty picture, sire? And stout Bruno of the Flambeau was not eaten by the Indians as feared when he did not appear for so long time. Arnold say he "argued with a truck" and badly hurt. But he is again better.

SWAN SONG OF SAILORMAID.

I've sailed on the ships that slide off to the seas;
I have charted my course by the stars—
Sighting Jupiter, Venus, and Mars!

I've listened to tales told by sailors in jest,
And still others of serious sort—
Of ships that set out for the glorious West—
And never sailed into their port!

Three times to the Indies—on slip-sliding decks,
Over rollicking, frolicking foam—
Sometimes with the waves climbing up to our necks
'Ere we turned her and pointed her home.

But this is the end of the sailing for me;
From the call of the canvas I part;
Now only my soul will go slipping to sea,

A PROTRACTED SESSION WITH UNDULANT FEVER.

I OFTEN wonder if all physicians fully appreciate the physical and mental anguish of those who are ill. When one of the profession is stricken with some fairly uncomfortable complaint, those whom he serves thereafter are the gainers. He possesses a far better understanding of the vagaries of patients—the occasional petulant mood of one who is "down."

We have had a good deal to say about undulant fever, which is termed "brucelliasis" [brucellosis], and some of our most illuminating reports have come from Dr. W. R. Blue, who survived an attack in 1933 and 1934. He is emphatic in his statement that the affliction is ravaging in its effects.

Most of us are aware of the widespread character of this disorder and each year we encounter an increasing number of victims despite the fact that medical men and public health officials are stressing constantly the importance of pasteurizing milk. It seems clear that the causative factor is disseminated not only by this raw fluid but by contaminated butter, cheese, etc.; by direct association with infected animals; or thru handling their carcasses.

Fortunately, a fair percentage of our population is immune—at least, in part—to the bovine strain, which is responsible for Bang's disease in cattle [abortion fever]. When such persons are infected they may recover without treatment—altho the sick period may extend for many months. This is borne out by the fact that skin tests on school children in certain areas have disclosed that 9 per cent are positive reactors. Nevertheless, the varieties spread by stock can be and frequently are extremely virulent. Cows can be infected with more than one species of the distemper and transmit it thru their milk.

As we would expect, symptoms depend upon the severity of the condition as well as on the resistance of the patient. An acute seizure may simulate a score of other maladies, such as rheumatic fever, typhoid, endocarditis, etc. Chills, fever, and excessive sweating may follow one another in rapid succession, with the temperature ranging between 100 and 105 degrees Fahrenheit. Headache, soreness, loss of appetite, and great weakness may be observed.

In most instances, however, the organisms make their presence known gradually and two or three weeks may be required for them to develop to the point where the patient will admit that he is not up to par. In the meantime there may be mild fever, debility, disturbing dreams, and bronchitis. Most sufferers will insist that they have the flu but the miserable thing hangs on and it may be said categorically that any disturbance—influenzalike in character—that persists for several weeks should be investigated, as it may be undulant fever.

Prompt recognition is desirable and the diagnosis is not difficult if the means at hand are utilized. The agglutination test is performed easily and when fresh fluid from a vein is employed, accurate results will be obtained. Furthermore, if the blood culture is positive there is no question as to the nature of the trouble.

The most valuable treatment aid probably consists in the use of vaccines or the injection of serum from recovered persons [the convalescent type]. In the chronic form, sulfanilamide appears to be helpful. But good nursing must be emphasized from the outset. The diet must be adequate and complete rest provided. We can say that undulant fever is one of our most expensive diseases because it may be so long drawn out. Furthermore, it demands constant watchfulness.

The least we can do is to insist that clean pasteurized milk and dairy products shall be available everywhere and that there shall be no contact of the bare hands with meat that may have come from diseased animals. Proper cooking, of course, makes the dish safe.

"CATCHING" INSANITY.

R. S. writes: Can a daughter living with an insane mother inherit insanity from her? I am 46 years old and for 18 years I have taken care of my mother. I am greatly depressed—I cry and worry. She is always on my mind. I went away for a six months' rest and was free from symptoms. Others in the family do not seem to mind the situation as I do.

REPLY.

Only the tendency to mental disease is inherited. Fortunately, the ailment is not contagious, hence daily contact should not affect you if you can rise above your environment. Your depression may be associated with the change of life. Have your physician decide whether you need a vacation, relaxation, or hormones.

ALCOHOL IN ARTHRITIS.

Mrs. S. writes: What are the effects of alcoholic beverages on persons with arthritis? If they are not harmful in moderation, what would you consider "moderation?" Would the results be the same if the patient confined his drinking to week-ends?

REPLY.

Certainly of no value—possibly harmful. Is pain worse after indulgence? If so, stop, cease, and desist. By "moderation" is meant amounts so small that no ill effect is felt. No, to week-end bouts! Why burden an already handicapped body?

ATHLETIC HEART.

H. W. writes: Do all persons who have indulged strenuously in athletics have enlarged hearts?

REPLY.

OUR FRIENDS THE RUSSIANS.

Paulding, O., Feb. 7.—It has been asserted that America is not sending a generous amount of war materials to Finland because we are afraid of Russia. Quite the opposite is true. America is not afraid of Russia or any other nation in the world. We are not holding back from fear, but rather for love of Russia.

This national administration has extended the glad hand of fellowship to Russia. Russian agents and friends were welcomed in America and given official aid in their work of reducing rugged individualism in the United States. Hundreds of them have been appointed to key government positions. Had it not been for the objections of J. Edgar Hoover they would have been given positions in the FBI.

Our national government is secretly ashamed of the sturdy Finns. They remind us all too forcefully of our own homespun forefathers who won our freedom with their straight shooting, handmade squirrel rifles. They, too, insisted on standing on their own feet, working out their own problems, and paying their debts in a shockingly old fashioned, countrified way.

Our American government loves Russia, the great model Utopia, with a tremulous, starry-eyed fervor. Stalin is years ahead of our own program. He can lift an eyebrow and 7 million farmers are liquidated. He can twitch a mustache and a thousand generals bite the dust. He can bat an eye and a hundred thousand of his subjects start their last long trek to Siberia.

Of course we are interested and amused by the daily battles of the Finns. The same sort of theme runs all thru our juvenile fiction. We have "Jack the Giant Killer," "David and Goliath," and "Horatius at the Bridge"; how they thrilled us once upon a time! We get something of the same thrill now from the daily paper. But we can't let a romantic thrill stand between us and our great, older brother, Russia.

THE HULL TREATIES.

North Chicago, Ill., Feb. 8.—In your issue of Wednesday Charles Leavelle writes an article on the effect of the Hull trade treaties with Holland on the corn refiners of the middle west.

Mr. Leavelle has limited his discussion to just one item of the treaty, and tried to prove that the whole treaty was ruinous to the American farmer because of that. I was anxious to know just what the treaty as a whole had done to trade with Holland, so I went to the World Almanac of 1940 to get the facts and found this: In 1935, the year the article states the treaty went into effect, we exported in round numbers 48 million dollars' worth of goods to Holland and imported from Holland 50 million dollars' worth. The balance of trade was in Holland's favor. In 1936 we exported 52 million dollars of goods and imported 50 million. This year the balance of trade was in our favor. In 1937 our exports jumped to 93 million while their imports went up to 53 million. In 1938, the last report given in the table, our exports went up to 96 million while their imports went down almost one-half, to 31 million.

In other words, in the four years of the treaty we had doubled our exports to Holland while their goods to us had dropped about 40 per cent. It looks as tho we were doing the dumping and not Holland, as your correspondent states. If this is the true effect of the Hull trade treaties, may we have many more of them!

ATROCITIES.

Chicago, Feb. 15.—After the world war ended and peace again reigned it was generally admitted in all countries that stories of atrocious crimes and mutilations were deliberately made up without any basis in fact. We have no concern to defend other countries against unjust slanders, but we do have reason to defend ourselves against the results of manufactured propaganda designed to deceive us and to catapult us into war when the poisoned brew shall have destroyed our balance and judgment. Such insidious attacks must be resisted with all our strength and intelligence. War is no saintly pursuit and knows neither truth nor virtue.

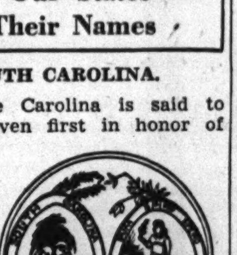
How Our States Got Their Names

38. SOUTH CAROLINA.

The name Carolina is said to have been given first in honor of Charles IX. of France. In a charter granted in 1629 by Charles I. of England the name was changed to Carolana, and again became Carolina from the time of Charles II. of England. South Carolina was one of the original states.



South Carolina state seal. Figure on left represents palmetto tree growing thru torn-up oak tree. Right figure represents woman carrying laurel branch as she walks over swords and daggers on seashore. Included are mottoes and dates [March 26 and July 4, 1776] of state and national independence.

South Carolina has been called the Iodine, Palmetto, Rice, and Swamp state. Iodine is found in many plants which grow in South Carolina. The palmetto, a native of the state, also appears on the state coat of arms, and much rice is grown on swamplands thruout the state. South Carolina has two mottoes: "Animis Opibusque Parati" [Ready in soul and resource] and "Dum Spiro Spero" [While I breathe I hope]. The state song is "Carolina," the flower the yellow jessamine, and the state tree the palmetto.

SECURITY FOR LOAN.

Chicago, Feb. 15 [Legal Friend of the People].—About 40 years ago my father loaned an artist money, quite a sum. The artist was ill and needed hospital care, so my dad gave him the amount required. He handed my father his violin and paint box to keep as security. My father handed it to me to put away and said—poor devil, I hate to take them, but he can have them for the asking when he returns. About two years later my father died and we had to move and forgot the violin. One day I was trying out the violin and, childlike, mashed it. Of course, the top cracked but [1] in that violin was Stradivarius and my father told me to put it away and never touch it again. I was sure to hide it and I still believe it could be found, but [2] could we claim it if found, since the building was occupied after we left, but has been idle since that tenant left there. Also could we be permitted to enter that building and claim it if found? Dreams and visions of my father keep me awake nights because of this memory.

C. C.

1. A large proportion of factory made modern violins have Stradivarius labels in them. No importance attaches to this point. If you have other reasons for thinking that the instrument has substantial value you might try having it looked over at some music store.

COUNCIL TO VOTE TOMORROW ON SUPERROAD PLAN

207 Million System Wins Committee Approval.

BY HAL FOUST.

A plan for a 207 million dollar superhighway system, with last minute changes in the routes to meet objections from aldermen, was approved yesterday by a special council committee which had been studying the proposals since Aug. 8. The council as a whole is to vote on the system tomorrow.

Ald. James J. McDermott [14th] stood alone in the committee in protesting the entire scheme. He charged that the routes with depressed pavements on broad rights of way would bisect neighborhoods, trade areas, parishes, and school districts. He added that other locations might be selected paralleling existing railroad embankments without creating any new barriers on the city's map.

Deception Is Charged.

Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, in a telegram to the committee, charged that the superhighway plans have been enlarged far beyond anticipated revenue for their construction. He intimated that this enlargement was a subterfuge [a "deception," read the telegram] to get the council to approve a comprehensive system while the city's intentions are limited to constructing the actively promoted Congress street superhighway.

Ald. George D. Kells [28th], chairman of the committee, and Commissioner Philip Harrington received suggestions right and left for changing locations of the superhighway routes. Changes were made on recommendations of individual aldermen simply by erasing a line at one place on a map and drawing it at another place. It was a field day for pencil and paper planning of millions in public investments.

The rush was prompted by a provision of legislation enacted last July to authorize Chicago and Cook county each to anticipate its gasoline tax revenue for the next 20 years in superhighway construction. The law provided that specific locations for the improvements must be filed with the department of public works at Springfield on or before March 1. The county yesterday afternoon mailed to Springfield its proposal to build a 40 million dollar superhighway northwest from the central business district.

Court Decision Awaited.

The Illinois Supreme court today or tomorrow may hand down its decision in a case testing the validity of this financial plan. Attorney General John Cassidy, in an opinion to the governor, held that the law was of doubtful constitutionality since it did not provide for a referendum.

A south side route added to the superhighway plan would parallel on the east of the Rock Island railroad embankment, west of Dearborn street, to 95th street. The west side superhighway, west of Garfield park, was shifted farther south to parallel Polk street, so as not to cut some church parishes. A cross town route, originally intended to follow Damen avenue, is now proposed to follow California avenue between Archer and Elston avenues. From Archer south to 87th street, it would parallel and lie just east of Pulaski road.

200 Million Spent in a Hurry.

"We're certainly spending 200 million dollars in a hurry," said Ald. McDermott. "The Chicago Plan commission hasn't seen these plans. Of the thousands of homes that will have to be condemned and razed for the right of way, I don't know how many owners want to sell their property. I don't know what is going to happen to property values on cross streets that will be stub ended by this construction."

The motor club telegram, after charging that this expansive system was being drafted solely as a background for Congress street construction, repeated its objections to the west side superhighway plans drafted by city engineers. The leading objection is the contention that the location and the design do not return a maximum in safety and convenience to the mortorists who would pay the 36 million dollars cost thru gasoline taxes.

Practicing Physician, 104, Dies in Ohio Village Home

Bethel, O., Feb. 19 (AP).—Dr. William Eberle Thompson, known as the nation's oldest practicing physician, died today. He would have been 105 years old July 6. Born and reared in this village 30 miles east of Cincinnati, Dr. Thompson resided here all his life. He had been in ill health in recent years but continued to prescribe for such patients who called at his modest white-painted cottage home. In 1860, when he started practice, the roads often were impassable and then he rode horseback. "Many times," he said "I had to swim my horse across streams and hold my kit of medicines high to keep them from being swept away."

DOCTOR'S WIFE DIES.

Rockford, Ill., Feb. 19 [Special].—Mrs. Gertrude Hall Calkins, wife of Dr. Frederick W. Calkins, died here last night at the home of a daughter, Mrs. William Holly.

Many times a minister before the world war, Davidovitch first held a Serbian portfolio in 1904.

He first headed the Jugo-Slav government for six months in 1919, later for three months in 1924. Until illness forced him to retire in 1936, he had been active as leader of the powerful Serbian Democratic party, advocating croat autonomy.

Fireman Dies in Hospital; Overcome Fighting Blaze

Fireman Patrick J. Dixon, 49 years, died yesterday in St. Anthony's hospital of pneumonia he is believed to have contracted after being overcome by smoke while fighting a fire Feb. 2 in a market at 305 North Cicero avenue. He lived at 4708 Fulton street, and was a member of Engine company No. 96.

MOTORIST GETS 10 DAYS AFTER FLEEING POLICE

George Thomas, 49 years old, colored, of 3528 Wabash avenue, was sentenced to 10 days in the Bridewell and fined $10 for reckless driving yesterday by Judge J. M. Braude in Safety court. Last Saturday a police squad ordered him to stop at Ashland avenue and Roosevelt road, but instead he drove away at high speed, weaving thru heavy trafic in Ashland avenue and crashing into the rear of another car at 14th street.

Howard Dreher, 34, of 618 St. Charles street, Elgin, was placed on probation for six months, fined $100, and lost his driving privileges for six months for driving while intoxicated. Police testified that a 3:15 a. m. Sunday he was driving in erratic fashion in Washington boulevard at Lockwood avenue.

In Boys' court, Joseph Linsner, 18, of 6125 Waveland avenue, a Lane Technical High school senior, was placed on probation by Judge Frank M. Padden and ordered not to drive for 60 days. He was charged with leaving the scene of an accident Sunday, when he failed to stop his car after William Walsh, 16, of 5907 Waveland avenue, was cut on the head in a fall from his bicycle. Walsh said Linsner cut in sharply ahead of him, forcing him to stop suddenly.

ACTION TO CURB SKOKIE HIGHWAY CRASHES SOUGHT

Dr. John L. Taylor, Lake county coroner, announced yesterday he would seek improved warning signals and closer policing to enforce speed limits in an effort to reduce automobile accidents in Skokie highway, which have caused three deaths in the last two weeks.

Mrs. Pearl Russell, 55 years old, of Shawano, Wis., was killed Sunday night when a car collided at Happ road with one in which she was riding. Six persons were injured in another collision Sunday night south of County Line road, west of Glencoe, where there have been a number of recent accidents.

Eugene Rosalini, 23, of Highwood, was killed the previous Sunday just south of County Line road when several automobiles piled up in a multiple collision. A week before that, at the same spot, Alice Jonaitis, 21, of Waukegan, was killed when a car driven by her cousin ran over a parkway into the southbound lane and was struck by a truck.

Florida's West Coast Attracts Chicago Throng

BY JUDITH CASS.

INDIAN BEACH, north of Sarasota, might be a suburb of Chicago with Lake Michigan instead of the Gulf of Mexico between the houses and the horizon, for there are so many names familiar to Chicagoans on the mail boxes at the entrances. If the houses were on Lake Michigan, tho, their occupants would not have the glorious sunsets that those on the gulf enjoy, for Chicagoans living on the lake short face east, of course, and those on Indian Beach face west.

John S. Somerville, W. J. Vanderkloot, Joseph V. Lawrence, Ralph Zimmermann, Calvin B. Niccolls, Emery E. Peter, and Mrs. Julie Manierre Mann are some of the Chicagoans who have homes on Indian Beach.

Most of them are here for the whole season, but Mrs. Mann and her son, William, just arrived for a stay of several weeks in her attractive studio home on the gulf. Her sister, Mrs. R. Malcolm Whitelaw, lives the year around in Sarasota. She is the former Wilhelmina Manierre Rogers of Chicago.

Willow Oaks is what James Fentress calls his home at Red Rock on the bay, south of Sarasota. Visiting him is his daughter, Olivia, now Mrs. William Behlen of New York, and her two children. The Charles Hull Ewings of Lake Forest have a home on Siesta Key, where they will remain until May. Their daughter, Mrs. Richard Hocking, and her husband, a professor at Williams college, returned to Williamstown recently after a fortnight's visit with the Ewings. Mrs. James H. Breasted, the Ewings' other daughter, and her two children are here for two months. Mr. Breasted is a professor at Princeton.

Chicagoans Have Homes at Nokomis

About 10 miles south of Sarasota is Nokomis, where Mr. and Mrs. George A. Seaverns have a winter home. Their son, Louis A., just has returned to Chicago after a visit with his parents, who expect their other son, George A. Jr., and his family later in the winter.

The Henry Faurots also have a home in Nokomis. The junior Henry Faurots, who now are visiting her parents, the John T. Piries, at their winter home near Winter Park, will come further south for a visit with his father and mother before returning north. Robert Somerville Faurot will come from Phillips academy at Andover, Mass., to spend the spring vacation with his grandparents.

Mrs. Rochester B. Slaughter has one of the loveliest new houses in the vicinity of Nokomis. It is on Casey's Key, which is reached by An underglow of softness makes one of the bright red lipsticks, new this season, almost universally flattering. It's gay, fashion-right, and brilliant but not harsh and hard to wear.

Life among the new lipstick shades doesn't seem so complicated when one pops up that is unusually attractive, different without being bizarre, and just about universally flattering. Such a one came along a few days ago. It was one of fifteen new ones, incidentally, and the fact that it stood out in the crowd endeared it to our heart and cheered our baffled spirit.

This newcomer goes right along with the season's dictate of brightness. It's a bright red, undeniably, but it's saved from brazen, hard to wear shrillness by a warm glow that makes it extra special. Plenty of people who are cooking up this season's lipstick tones may disagree with us, but we are firm in our conviction that the garish, hard red lipstick is as unflattering to the face as those brassy polishes are to the average hands. There are softened bright reds and brittle bright reds. Which would you prefer?

This is a luscious tone. The underglow of softness doesn't pull the punch of the red's effectiveness and it DOES make it more flattering to most women. Makes it more successful with a wider range of costume color, too. This is wearable with almost any spring color you could find.

It's a creamy stick, smooth as satin on the lips, with the color as true at the end of the stroke as it is in its bright beginning. It stays on well and has a nice fragrance. "Quality" is one of its legitimate claims, but it's not expensive.

Opera Chorus Auditions to Start Friday

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The first of six auditions designed to find new voices for the Chicago City Opera company chorus will be held in the Civic Opera house next Friday afternoon. The dates of the others are Feb. 24, 26, and 27 and March 1 and 2.

The formation of a large size chorus of selected voices is the first of the major projects which are to be tackled in the next few months and which give promise that the opera company's 1940 season will be the most brilliant in recent history. The company's solvency is now assured and plans are going forward rapidly for several gala weeks of opera next fall.

The judges for the auditions will be Harry T. Carlson, Noble Cain, Edgar Nelson, George Carlson, Claudia Cassidy, George Czaplicki, Mrs. Walter Kirk, Elizabeth McCormick, Mrs. Walter Brewster, Mrs. Royden J. Keith, J. Charles Gilbert, Cecil Smith, and Edward Barry.

Singers are warned not to come unheralded to the opera house. Application for a place on these auditions should be made thru the opera offices in advance.

Prokofieff's second violin concerto was given its first Chicago performance at the Studebaker theater last night by William Levitt and the Illinois Symphony orchestra. Izler Solomon conducted.

Here is one of those rare instances where one can say, after only a single hearing, that a work is great. Some of the themes are of a breath taking nobility. The second movement is as fine an example of exalted and sustained lyricism as contemporary music can show. The logic of the piece's structure and the inevitability of its development sections were not, it is true, apparent on first hearing. For this one must wait—or must trust the composer's reputation for sincerity.

Considering the immense difficulties of the work [rhythmic and tonal difficulties mostly] the performance was highly creditable. Mr. Levitt achieved several shimmering colorings of extraordinary beauty. Both he and the orchestra had a hard time in the third movement and in the development section of the first trying to make the music tonally plausible.

BY CECIL SMITH.

"Life with Father," with all its poignant recollection of a generation past but not forgotten, and with all its heart warming normality of humor and sentiment, moved into the rejuvenated Blackstone theater last evening. There it will remain for months to come, if the surrender of the first night audience to its flavor and charm provides any index of its probable popularity.

Both as a character study of the now famous father of Clarence Day's books and of the members of the family who moved about him like awed satellites, and also as a recreating of New York life in the 1880's, "Life with Father" is no less than a masterpiece. At the rise of the first curtain Stewart Chaney's setting, adorned with a deluge of furnishings and bric-a-brac copied after those in the old Day home, plunges the audience into the mood and spirit of Victorian American home life.

But this is no commonplace family which lives among these handsomely overelaborate furnishings. Father, a triumph of midcentury individualism and a clear conscience, dominates the scene from first to last, thundering his rage at Mother and the rector when they broach the subject of baptizing him, and holding out against Mother's strategy to accomplish this end until the very final curtain; disciplining his four carrot-topped boys, and then softening toward them with deep and spontaneous paternal affection; struggling with poor Mother as he endeavors to find out what became of the six dollars he gave her to buy a new coffee pot of French importation, and experiencing almost unbearable exasperation when he discovers that most of the money has gone for a new umbrella instead; cursing the doctors and praying loudly like an angry bull when Mother falls ill; and generally alternating spasms of frustrated impatience and anger with moments of awkward and ill-concealed tenderness.

Father, as Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse have created him out of Clarence Day's original documents, is one of the great and believable figures of recent stage literature. The discovery of Percy Waram for the part in this Chicago company is one of those miracles of casting that occur only at rare intervals—as, for instance, when Raymond Massey and the script of "Abe Lincoln in Illinois" come along at the same time. Mr. Waram, had he possessed less taste and less technique, might easily have made Father a revolting and unfunny caricature. Actually he makes the whole rôle a revelation of the actor's craft at its best, and scarcely lets his audience in on the fact that he is acting at all.

Lilian Gish, still as radiant and fragile as ever, brings freshness and sweetness to her impersonation of Mother. But, what is much more important, she never suffers from any temptation to make the character cloying. Mother is not a time creature of the weaker sex. She realizes what she is doing when she uses her feminine instinct to jockey herself out of an uncomfortable situation with Father, and she flares up as thoroly as he when she needs to protect her rights.

From Harlan Stone, the youngest, who wears an amazing wardrobe including tiny Scotch plaid kilts at one time and a white sailor suit at another, to O. Z. Whitehead, the oldest, with Buddy Buehler and Peter Jamerson in between, the boys contribute great gusto to the family life. All are admirably cast and remarkedly free from affectation.

To make a long matter short, "Life with Father" is virtually flawless—in casting, from the largest rôle to the smallest, in direction, in investiture, in period feeling, in pathos, in entertainment. Even in the midst of an unusually good theatrical year it is the best play of the season. More than that, it is one of the most disarming and delightful comedies of this generation.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Behind the Scenes

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 19.—It is a safe bet that Edward Arnold, if he ever gave a thought to where he'd be when he became 50, would not have guessed that Pa Time would pick the wings of the Grauman Chinese theater. But that's where Arnold was when the half century mark was reached. The occasion was a huge Hollywood benefit performance for the Finns, and Arnold, Blanche Yurka, and I were discussing French motion pictures and the simplicity of theme that distinguished them.

"You have a birthday this week, haven't you?" I asked him.

"Tomorrow I'll be 50 years old," he smiled.

"Tomorrow?" queried Miss Yurka.

"My gracious, it's after midnight. I'm 50 years old right now."

Arnold and Adolphe Menjou both reached the half century mark this week in Hollywood. If you think that 50 is a ripe old age, you should study these spry and able veterans, bigger now in their profession than they were 20 years ago. Each has collected, in the passage of half a century, the laurels and scars of a long, competitive journey.

Most amusing of Arnold's souvenirs is a picture of Josef von Sternberg. They had worked together on a picture and had rowed. Nevertheless, Arnold told Joe he wanted an autographed picture. Von Sternberg signed it: "To Edward Arnold: with a reasonable amount of pleasure. Joe."

The midnight benefit for the Finns, in Hollywood, was significant because the colony rallied so enthusiastically to the support of the gallant little nation. Broadway was scandalized recently when several producers of plays refused to permit their performers to engage in a benefit for Finland. Every Hollywood studio backed the benefit at Grauman's Chinese theater. Comparisons are odious, of course, but comparisons also are enlightening.

To a reporter, the scenes backstage were interesting because the stagers who make the Hollywood grade rarely get the opportunity to appear on a stage out here. The Finnish benefit corrected that. In the wings were Jack Benny, Bob Hope, Eddie Cantor, Frank Fay, Billy Gilbert, Mischa Auer, Burns and Allen, Edward Arnold, Blanche Yurka, Jack La Rue, Larry Blake, Leni Lynn, George Murphy, Montague Love, Rudy Vallee, Robert Young.

The huge backstage fanchonettes braced themselves against the wall as they limbered up, and a few of the girls dozed on chairs. Stagehands drifted about, carrying chairs, piano stools, and props. There were cries of "quiet."

"What sort of an act do you boys do?" he asked Cantor and Benny.

Lou Cooper was calling for Burns and Allen, frantically.

"They went downstairs to look for an old dancing mat," soothed Fay.

"They tell me it's terrific," said Cantor.

"Good," breathed Fay.

"You can't believe them," said Cantor, "the same fellow who raved over the picture had lunch with me in the commissary yesterday. He said that the grapefruit was terrific. How can you believe a guy like that?"

Patent Leather to Gleam with Spring Outfits

BY REA SEEGER.

Smooth, sleek, smart, and high fashion patent leather bags and footgear, in dark and bright colors, promise immaculate grooming for the sloppiest spring day. Come rain or shine, street outfits in tailored tweeds and woolens look twice as crisp when highlighted with patent leather bag and boots. Belts, bows in small formation on hats and a shiny boutonniere all add up to spring chic in patent.

Pumps, walking oxfords, street sandals, all of patent leather, are making sales records, as are the interesting showings of combinations of gabardine and patent. Heels covered with this leather glisten, insteps are foreshortened by patches or bows of the patent against the slenderizing dull texture of the gabardine.

Elasticized fabric is another dull looking contrast successfully used with patent. So much has been done to make this gleaming stuff soft, pliable and supercomfortable on the feet that the memories of stiff patent that cracked are recalled only with effort.

Bags of all sizes, all colors, all shapes, with and without handle straps, shine all over town. Amazingly inexpensive new finds [around $3] come with the outside flap ready for metal monograms, with the back half in felt, in a swanky large envelope outline—the smartest suit bag ever designed.

Pouches and similarly cut more conservative bags are featured this spring in the biggest outlines imaginable.

The Girl in the Shadows

SYNOPSIS.

On the eve of her marriage to Michael, Cynthia is wrongly sentenced to prison, the scapegoat of Rory Clarke. Michael knows nothing about it, as she has given the name of Clara Brown when arrested as Clarke's accomplice in a roadhouse robbery and murder. At the prison Cynthia's childhood friend, Bessie, is wardress and changes places with her so she can marry Michael without telling him of her disgrace. After the honeymoon Cynthia persuades her husband to return to his job in Malta without her and she returns to prison but soon discovers she is going to have a baby, so makes her escape. She goes to live with Michael's mother and sister, Marion, at Cloutleigh. Clarke blackmails her, and Scotland Yard in search of Clarke get suspicious of Cynthia. Escorted by Sir William, a family friend, she attempts to fly to Malta to join Michael but is arrested at the airport. Her marriage date, when she was supposed to be in prison, clears her and she continues to Malta. Bessie applies for a job with Marion, and detectives question her, causing Marion to become suspicious, when she discovers that Bessie has cabled Cynthia a warning. Bessie is forced to explain to Marion. Michael finds the cable, but Cynthia begs him to trust her. Marion is questioned by detectives and admits knowing Clarke, in an effort to shift the danger from her brother. While she is staying in Cynthia's London flat Clarke attempts to blackmail Marion, who becomes fascinated by his daring. The police trail him to her flat, but he escapes, using Marion as a shield. Cynthia's baby is born and she and Michael return to London with their new son. Marion threatens to tell Michael everything if Cynthia doesn't divorce him. Clarke tries to blackmail Cynthia again, and she tells Michael of the attempt and assures him that Clarke has mistaken her for the convict. Michael notifies Scotland Yard.

INSTALMENT XXXVIII.

A TRAP FOR CYNTHIA.

Cynthia was content. It was accepted that Clarke had "made a mistake." She smiled and Rason went on:

"But how do you know it was Rory Clarke who spoke to you, Mrs. Alloway?"

It was Michael who promptly answered:

"Who else would try to blackmail her? He must have seen her somewhere—he was struck by the freak resemblance to that crook woman—and he could have found her name by following her into the hotel and asking the reception clerk."

Rason turned back to Cynthia.

"Did he give his name, Mrs. Alloway?"

Dimly, Cynthia had sensed that this was a trap question.

"Now I come to think of it, he didn't," she said carefully.

"Then what made you think it was Clarke?"

A liar, she had once heard some one say, is always overanxious to prove that he is telling the truth—she would beware of that mistake.

"I don't know," she answered and gave a laugh. "Perhaps it wasn't Clarke at all. If I've started a mare's nest or a wild goose chase or whatever it's called, I'm awfully sorry. But I agree with my husband—I really don't see who else would be likely to try and blackmail me."

"If it was Clarke mistaking you for Clara Brown he would have said something we could take hold of," said Rason.

Cynthia held her breath while he went on:

"Did he call you 'Clara' or 'Brown' or 'Miss Brown?'"

"No—I'm certain he didn't use any name."

Rason shook his head.

"Then I don't think it could have been Clarke," he pronounced.

He finished the glass of whisky and soda which Michael had set before him, and it looked as if he were going.

Cynthia was at a loss. There was no safe means of making him understand that the man was indeed Clarke.

"I think it's a different kind of coincidence," Rason added to Michael. "I think some one not Clarke is blackmailing a Mrs. Alloway—and that the blackmailer has made a mistake. After all, it's not so improbable as Clarke happening to run across Mrs. Alloway."

Michael scowled.

"Then what are you going to do?" he asked.

"Nothing," said Rason promptly.

For the first time Marion spoke.

"It must have been Clarke," she said, making no attempt to conceal her agitation.

Michael looked at her in surprise.

"If it was Clarke, said Rason, "I don't think he thought he was talking to Clara Brown."

Cynthia braced herself. She had not the least idea what was coming next, but she was ready for the worst.

"Did he say anything to you, Mrs. Alloway?" asked Rason while he thought of Clarke's allusion to her baby. "Did he say anything to you which suggested that he knew he was talking to yourself—to the wife of Mr. Michael Alloway?"

To Cynthia that seemed simple enough.

"No," she said.

"That's the kind of answer I like," said Rason, smiling at the double meaning of his own words. "Thank you, Mrs. Alloway. That settles it as far as we are concerned. It may have been Clarke, but there's not enough evidence for us to take any action. If you hear any more from this man let us know. In the meantime I'd advise you to do nothing."

There was an exchange of good nights and Michael went to see the detective out.

"You know it was Clarke," she hissed. "You're deliberately fooling the police."

Cynthia did not immediately answer.

"Are you sure we fooled him?" she demanded. "When you blurted out that it was Clarke I believe he knew you were right."

"Then he must think ——"

"He must know that you and I are both playing some game," asserted Cynthia. At Marion's alarm she added with a laugh: "Better keep out of it, Marion."

Marion was silent. Cynthia was watching her, unable to gauge her mood. She was silent, her mouth now and again giving an uneasy twitch.

"I shall help the police as much as I can—and if I think of anything on my own to catch him, I shall do so," added Cynthia.

"That's spite," said Marion.

"Spite! But you seemed very anxious yourself to catch him just when Rason was here," said Cynthia in surprise.

"O, how can I tell what is best for every one concerned!" wailed Marion. "It's this suspense that I can't stand. He is vile and I wish he were off the earth—but I can't stand this idea of spying on him and laying traps for him. I've hated myself for what I have done already."

"I quite agree it's beastly," said Cynthia, "but we can't help ourselves, can we? And I don't see how you can work up any pity for Rory Clarke."

"There you're wrong," said Marion stubbornly. "I have pity for him. I thing he's a human tragedy—he's like a man who's been born with a hopeless infirmity. A fine life wasted."

"Well, I've spent a few hours in his company, worse luck," said Cynthia. "He seemed to me no more than a very ordinary young man—the kind you forget as soon as you've said good-by."

"That only means that you don't understand his type," snapped Marion, then got up and left as Michael returned. She met him as he crossed the lounge, told him that she had a headache and was going to bed.

"Rason changed his mind on the way out," Michael told Cynthia. "He wants you to go to the bank tomorrow. Here's the drill—he's written it all down. I don't know how you feel about it?" added Michael.

"O, I shall be glad to do all I can to help," she answered. "It looks as if Clarke is going to be a serious nuisance. As far as I'm concerned, the sooner he's arrested the better."

Michael thoughtfully lit a cigaret. When he next spoke his tone was elaborately casual.

"I say, old girl?"

"What is it, Michael?"

"I've got an idea that Marion knows something about this business which she's keeping to herself."

"I think she is worried about it more than she need be," said Cynthia slowly. "She has two or three times referred to my being arrested as an 'awful experience.' Have you ever discovered, Michael, that she has a tremendously strong sense of the family?"

"Rather! She was always very loyal as a kid."

"In her mind it's a disgrace that one of the family should have been arrested, even by accident. And it's another blow that a man who was at school with you should be a notorious criminal."

Child Parley Addresses Self to Free People

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

As a member of the White House Conference on Children in a Democracy I would like to give you some angles that I think will have a particular interest for those who follow this column.

First, I think it is important to realize that this was primarily a citizens' working conference, its membership drawn from many walks of life, assisted by the government. Doctors, teachers, social workers, psychiatrists, economists, nutritionists, all leaders in their respective fields did months of research and investigation between the initial meeting in April, 1939, and the final meeting in January, 1940.

As to the purpose of the conference, let me quote from the general report submitted to the secretary of labor [the children's bureau is in the department of labor] by Homer Foulks, outstanding in social service in this country:

"The White House conference on children in a democracy, the fourth in a series of children's conferences held during the past 30 years, addresses itself to the interests of all the children of the nation and to every aspect of child welfare.

"The people of the United States have talked and lived democracy for a century and a half. We have never felt that it has reached its full stature or that it has operated satisfactorily in every field of human endeavor. We have not always agreed as to the exact meaning of democracy, but we have never lost our belief in certain fundamental democratic principles. These fundamentals include above all, freedom of the individual as it is inscribed in our fundamental law, with its bill of rights assuring freedom of speech, press, religion, and public assembly.

"These principles we wish to preserve for our children, and we hope so to educate them that they may improve upon and transmit this heritage to coming generations.

"To the striving for individual freedom and economic opportunity the developing national ideal is adding new emphasis upon the capacity for coöperative life as a test of successful democracy."

causeway from Osprey or Nokomis. The residents of Casey's Key have preserved as much of its jungle characteristics as is compatible with comfortable living, so it is much wilder and rougher in appearance than are most of the Florida resorts. The houses, tho, are more on the luxurious side, altho they definitely are not like the old Palm Beach "cottages."

Treasure Island Club Is Charming

The Treasure Island Beach club, on Casey's Key, is a charming spot and many well known persons, including some Chicagoans, stay there each season. The young Teddy Roosevelts are honeymooning there now. Nearby at Venice Inlet the William Reyburns of Aiken and New London are members of a fashionable colony of cottagers, who live as simply and unostentatiously as tho they came from "the wrong side of the tracks" instead of from such places as Aiken, Tuxedo [where cottager Amos Tuck French hails from], and Newport. Mrs. Reyburn was the first Mrs. Glidden Osborne and she and Mr. Osborne lived in Chicago years ago. He now lives in England.

The R. W. McKinnons of Chicago also have a home at Nokomis and so do the Gordon Curriers. Mr. Currier is a nephew of Mrs. Seaverns. Frank Currier, her brother, and his wife run the Beach club.

Mrs. Frank Cary spends the winters at a lovely home on St. Armand's Key at Sarasota and the summers at Green Lake, Wis. She is looking forward to a visit this week from her daughter, Mrs. George O'Connell of Sheboygan, and her daughter, Barbara Thompson. Mrs. O'Connell is the former Clara Cary Thompson of Chicago. Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Cary of the Drake hotel spent several weeks earlier in the season with his mother.

Andover Alumni Will Hear Headmaster.

Alumni of Andover academy will meet for dinner at the University club at 6:30 o'clock on Friday night to hear Dr. Claude M. Fuess, headmaster of the academy, and James R. Adriance, admission officer. There are about 300 graduates of the school in this area.

T. Clifford Rodman is president of the alumni.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Fowle [Antoinette Treadway] are being congratulated on the birth of a son, Stephen Parker, on Feb. 13 in Pittsfield, Mass. The baby is a grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Frank F. Fowle of Winnetka. Mrs. Fowle plans to go east to see her grandson when his father and his mother return to the younger Fowles' home in Lakeville, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Hurley are being congratulated on the birth of their second daughter, Gwendolyn Joan, on Sunday at the Evanston hospital. Mrs. Hurley, the former Gwendolyn Juergens, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Paul Juergens. The baby will be called Joan. Her sister, Adrienne, is 4.

"Life with Father" Will Be Benefit.

Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, Mrs. Lester Armour, Mrs. George A. Ranney, Mrs. Gustavus F. Swift, Mrs. Herbert F. Perkins, and the Arch W. Shaws are among those who have taken boxes for tonight's performance of "Life with Father" at the Blackstone theater.

The Chicago Nursery and Half Orphan asylum will share the proceeds this evening. The asylum also will benefit from a special dinner to be served in the main dining room of the Blackstone hotel for the convenience of those who will be in the theater tonight.

Your Stars ★ Today ★

By WYNN

Tuesday, Feb. 20.

A good start today doesn't necessarily mean an easy finish; for unpleasant items may confront us, seemingly of their own accord. Watch relations with elders and with those who might be opponents now or later, particularly in evening.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead if born on this date brings mental, perhaps external, shake-ups. Get out of ruts; but think, decide slowly, wisely, especially July 10 to Sept. 20. Danger: March 26-April 6, Aug. 6-25, Dec. 29-Jan. 6, 1941.

Tomorrow.

Do you want an individual interpretation for your own personal date? Every important period is indicated for you, according to the laws of astrology. Send 10 cents to Wynn, Tribune Astrologer, 286 Fifth Avenue, New York City. Write plainly your name, date of birth, and address.

Whenever several foods may be cooked together in one casserole, or may be combined in one dish before they are brought to the table, there's going to be time saved for the cook, even if it's only the time it might take to wash those extra dishes.

Most women who do their own cooking like combination dishes, casseroles of meat and vegetables, baked potatoes with a meat or vegetable-in-cream sauce, and similar simple but filling food blends.

Lima Bean and Sausage Dinner.
[Serves four.]

1 pound bulk sausage
1 onion, minced
2 cups diced cooked potatoes
1½ cups cooked dried lima beans
1 cup tomatoes
Salt, pepper
½ teaspoon chili powder [or more]

Cook onion with sausage until latter is well done. Drain off a little of the fat. Combine all ingredients, seasoning to taste. Bake in a casserole for half an hour at 350 degrees.

The middle westerner isn't used to eating his avocados in any combination other than salads, and cold. Westerners like them hot, as well. This dish is easy to prepare, and a good way to introduce the family to the hot avocado preparation. Since too much heat impairs the avocado's flavor, oven time should be brief.

Avocado with Shrimp Sauce.
[Serves six.]

3 avocados, cut in halves
1 cup medium white sauce
¾ cup shredded cooked shrimp
¾ cup diced cooked carrot
Few drops tabasco sauce
Buttered toasted bread crumbs

Sprinkle cut surfaces of avocado halves with salt. Combine white sauce with shrimp, carrot, tabasco sauce, and add more salt if necessary. The mixture is best when thoroly seasoned. Heat the shrimp and carrot mixture until very hot. Place avocado halves in a shallow pan with warm water to cover the bottom. Fill the seed cavities with shrimp mixture and sprinkle crumbs over the top. Heat five minutes in a 350 degree oven. This length of ovening serves merely to warm the avocado. Actual cooking shouldn't take place.

Baked Potatoes with Creamed Peas and Dried Beef.
[Serves six.]

1 No. 2 can peas
¼ cup butter or margarine
¼ cup flour
1 cup evaporated milk
1 cup dried chipped beef
6 baked potatoes

Drain peas. Measure 1 cup liquid. Melt butter, add flour and stir until well blended. Add milk and liquid from peas. Cook until thickened and smooth, stirring constantly. Cut beef in small pieces. Add peas and beef when sauce has finished cooking. Slash each hot baked potato twice across the top, making a cross. Press from the bottom to open the potato. Pour the sauce over the opened potatoes and serve at once.

Dried beef usually is salty enough that salt is not needed in the sauce in which it is used.

Two Girls' Clubs Buy Rainy Day Apparel for Camp Algonquin

There will be no soaking youngsters and mothers during rainy days at Camp Algonquin next summer. Entrenous and Cara, two girls' clubs at the Central Y. M. C. A. High school, have seen to that. Their gift of $41 made up of pennies, nickels, and dimes collected from all the students in the school will furnish umbrellas, raincoats, and rubbers for the camp.

Camp Allgonquin is operated by United Charities for the benefit of needy mothers and their children. Leaders in the Rainy day fund were Gertrude Goodrich, Dorothy Prepychal, Bernice Wilbrendt, and Josephine Capiello.

Feb. 20, 1940.

Love is in the air today. Be optimistic but not reckless.

Those born on a 2-date [2, 11, 20, 29] prefer to have companionship thru life rather than go along alone. This is especially true of those born on the 2d or 20th. This year may stir up romantic feelings, but it is not the year for forming new attachments. You will find you will have to break them off during the year as this is the winding up year of a nine-year cycle for you.

Would you like to know what kind of a year 1940 will be for you? Send for your personal yearly, monthly and daily guide.

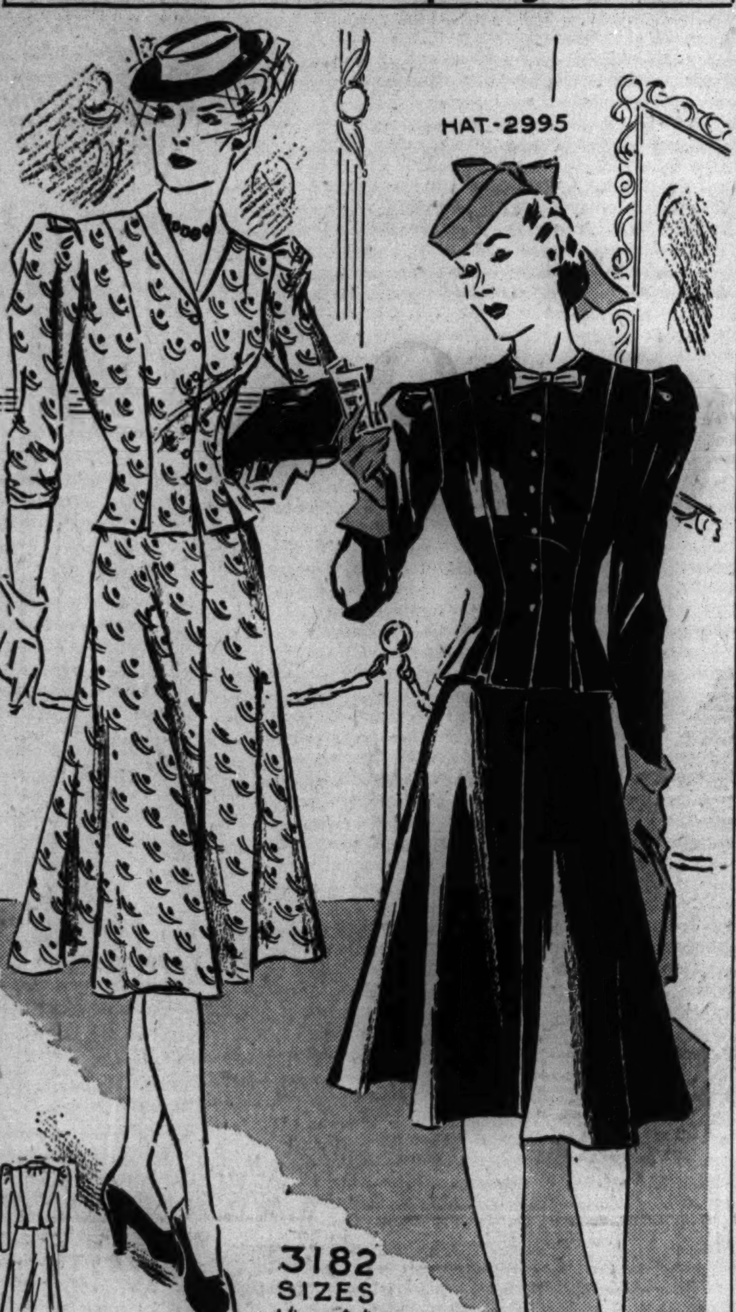
Two Piece for Spring, 1940



WOMAN'S AND MISS' COSTUME.

The perennial charm of the two piece costume is preserved for this "spring . . . 1940" version of the mode. The jacket, which buttons down the front, is topped by a high, bow trimmed neckline, or a V one with a soft, rolled, contrasting collar. Whereas the jacket fits the figure quite revealingly, its hemline is deftly plaited for slight flare.

The skirt to keep this blouse company is a simple, flared model which you may wear with other items in the wardrobe. This costume makes up as well in printed and plain silks as it does in light weight woolens and summer fabrics.

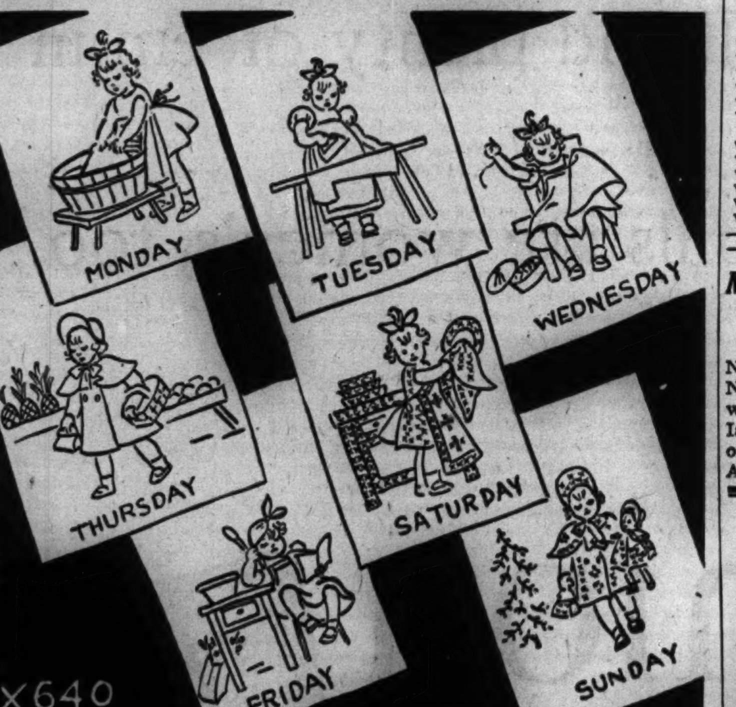
The hat, which costs 10 cents extra and is designed for one adjustable head size only, is a saucy model with pillbox lines. The number is 2995.

Style No. 3182 is designed for sizes 14 and 16, and 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 4¾ yards of 39 inch material, with ⅝ yard of contrasting for version with collar.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

For 15 cents buy the spring Chicago Tribune book of Clotilde Fashions, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to the New York address above.

Versatile Embroidery Motifs



BY NANCY CABOT.

Mischief can find no idle hands in this group of days of the week motifs, because the miss depicted has every day filled with gainful occupation. These towels are embroidered in a combination of outline and cross-stitch. Omitting the days of the week, these same figures may be embroidered on pillows, wall pictures, or luncheon sets.

For the hot iron transfer pattern, No. X-640, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

Lecture on Picasso.

Members of the Town and Country Arts club will hear an illustrated lecture on Picasso at 2:15 o'clock this afternoon at the Buntman galleries. Mrs. William E. Ullmann is chairman of the group.

Infant Welfare Group.

Mrs. James Surpless of 205 Abingdon avenue, Kenilworth, will open her home at 10:30 o'clock this morning for a meeting of the Winnetka junior board of the Infant Welfare society.

[Central Standard Time.]

An address by Congressman Joseph W. Martin, Republican leader in the house of representatives, will be broadcast over W-G-N and the coast to coast network of the Mutual Broadcasting system from 10 to 10:30 this evening. Congressman Martin will deliver his talk to the Republican state dinner guests at the Stevens hotel.

At 9:30 p. m. The Northerners will present their weekly song concert from the main audience studio of W-G-N. A highlight of tonight's show will be the singing of a medley of tunes dedicated to the memory of George Washington. The entire cast will join in the medley, which includes "The Liberty Song," "Enraptured I Gaze," "Welcome Mighty Chief," "Minuet in F," and "The Glorious Name of Washington." Bernice Rickman, the Northerners soprano soloist, will sing "Light," a number written by Adolf Hoffman, cellist with the W-G-N orchestra.

If you want an amusing and extremely hardy dish garden we suggest you try one of tiny cactus plants in a simple brown Mexican pottery dish. According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

As I have often written, the proper use of signal cards involves subtlety. Naturally, then, in order to decode the message they convey, partner must give the problem more than cursory thought. Half the battle is won by the mere fact that a message has been sent; surely the other half, involving only the correct interpretation, is equally vital. In today's hand a defender clearly recognized that he had been given instructions, but he read the message too hastily and did the wrong thing.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 diamond	2 clubs	2 hearts	2 no trump
Pass	3 clubs	4 hearts	Pass
Pass	Pass

North opened the king of clubs, dummy played low, and South signaled with the deuce. Particularly in cases of this type, in which the opening lead has been made in response to partner's bid, the play of the lowest visible card by the bidder himself is a decidedly negative signal, an urgent demand for a shift of lead.

North was in no doubt that South wanted him to shift, but he jumped to a totally untenable theory—that South would ruff a diamond lead, since nine diamonds were in sight and declarer's strong bidding indicated a fit with his partner's bid suit. So he led the five of diamonds and, by so doing, threw his defense out of the window!

Declarer took the finesse, winning with dummy's ten, and led the jack of trumps, letting it ride. North won with the king, but now was helpless to defeat the contract. He led another diamond on the hope that South would ruff this one, but again the finesse was taken and again South had to follow suit. Declarer now ruffed the four of diamonds, drew the outstanding trumps, and claimed the remaining tricks, dummy's ace-queen of diamonds affording discards for declarer's losing spades. So the contract was made with an overtrick.

Had North stopped to think, he could have deciphered South's message with ease. South was marked with no more than six clubs [declarer would not have passed the club lead with a singleton]. From the trumps in sight, declarer's unsupported heart bidding could not have been based on less than six, leaving a maximum of two for South. Thus, if South were void in diamonds according to North's snap judgment, he would have to hold five spades—certainly out of the question in view of his failure to bid spades.

Since there was no chance of South being void in diamonds, the process of elimination should have guided North to a spade shift, which would have automatically defeated the game contract.

Obviously, declarer laid himself open to defeat by his silly duck of the first lead.

Safeguarding Marriage Is Wifely Duty

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"I have been married only a short time and have what seems to me a big problem," writes Worried.

"My husband and I have been planning to move to another state for both health and business reasons.

"Before I met my husband, he was involved with a married woman living in the state to which we plan to move. I am afraid it was a pretty serious affair. He told me about it before we married. Now he wants to write to her asking about conditions in the state and he also would like to move to the same city in which this woman lives.

"Some one we know knows her and reports that she would like to see my man again and help him. His intentions are honorable now, I know, yet I wonder if that old association mightn't revive things that would affect our marriage. The fact that she is married wouldn't stand in the way with her. It didn't before.

"I don't want to be, or appear to be, a jealous wife and yet I don't like the looks of the situation. This woman is extremely pretty. I've seen her picture."

Your big job is to keep your marriage intact. So why consent to returning your man to the old scene of temptation? You're not being a jealous wife but a wife jealous for the success of her marriage, which is a most legitimate form of jealousy. More, in fact, it is a wifely duty. So we'd frown hard and firmly on the correspondence with the woman and if the move must be to that state we'd see that your home settling is done at the other end of the state in which the woman resides.

We think that a woman is very stupid who, just to appear the big, broad-minded, good sport, jeopardizes the success of her own marriage. She should put up a fight for its security.

PARISH REMAINS FIRM IN ITS FIGHT OVER NEW PRIEST

Archbishop Deaf to Plea of Younger Generation.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 19 [Special].—Their parish interdicted and their parochial school closed by Archbishop Joseph Schrembs, representatives of 1,100 families belonging to Holy Redeemer parish stood outside the church today and reiterated opposition to appointment of a priest they do not want.

Fifteen hundred communicants of the church yesterday prevented the installation of the Rev. Vincent Caruso as pastor. They demanded the appointment of the Rev. Louis Loi Zedda, assistant to the Rev. Martin Compagno, who died last November.

"As long as the parishioners remain in their present rebellious mood, I can do nothing for them," said Archbishop Schrembs. "It is rebellion against the authority of the Catholic church—a mortal sin for every person who took wilful part in the demonstration yesterday."

Question of Church Politics.

Holy Redeemer church was founded in 1924 by the Order of Our Lady of Mercy, known as the Mercedarian order. Father Compagho, the first and only pastor, was a member of the order. His assistant was not, but Father Caruso, the new appointee, is a member.

According to spokesmen for the parishioners, mostly of Italian descent, they object to control of the church being left in the hands of the Mercedarian order. They want the diocese, rather than an order to rule the parish.

Young members of the parish want the church modernized.

"At least 90 per cent of the parish signed the petition asking for the appointment of Father Loi Zedda," said Mike Shep, one of six councilmen of the church. The petition also asked for the appointment of a diocesian priest if Father Loi Zedda were not named.

Parishioners Stand Firm.

"Since yesterday's affair, the parishioners with whom I have talked have said they will not accept any member of the Mercedarian order," Shep added.

Another parishioner said Father Caruso, who is 35 years old, does not speak English well and consequently would conduct the church as did Father Compagno. This parishioner, a young Italian-American, said young members of the church are determined to have a pastor who can speak English well.

GOLDEN GLOVERS OPEN TITLE FIGHTS TONIGHT

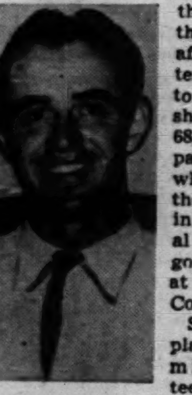
Heafner Shoots 144; Three Get 145.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]



Sam Snead.

Houston, Tex., Feb. 19.—Samuel Jackson Snead, the noted invalid, is feeling much better, thank you. On this bright Texas afternoon he attested his return to good health by shooting a fancy 68, three under par, for the 143 which gave him the 36 hole lead in the 41st annual Western Open golf tournament at the River Oaks Country club.

Snead, who was plagued with a misery in his teeth as far back as last August, preventing his appearance in the Hagen tournament in Chicago, was playing in his third tournament since then. He won the Miami open in December, then retired for a recess during which he had two of the pesky molars yanked and took himself a rest until a couple of weeks back, when he finished fourteenth in the Texas open with a 280.

Overcomes Two Bogies.

The 27 year old Virginian, who now registers from Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa., today played more like the gent who won more than $20,000 during 1938. And he played quite unlike the unhappy lad who took an eight on the 72d hole of last year's national open. He corrected two bogies with five birdies, topping the latter off with a 25 foot putt on the last green.

Sam doubtless will need a couple of 68s, or thereabouts, in tomorrow's final 36 holes, for the scoring at the end of today's round presages a finish to the final green. Within a three stroke span back of Snead eight professionals are bracketed, and any one of them is capable of passing Sam if he lets up.

Guldahl Now a Chicagoan.

Heading all of these is Clayton Heafner of Linville, N. C., who today scored his second 72 of the tournament for a 144. Heafner is the reformed Carolina candymaker who shot a 66 in last year's national open, and who has been one of the leading money winners of the current campaign. One stroke back of Heafner is a trio of professionals. They are Ralph Guldahl, who revealed today that he will register henceforth from Chicago; Harold [Jug] McSpaden of Boston, Canadian open champion, and Jack Grout of Mamaroneck, N. Y. Guldahl, winner of the 1937 and 1938 national opens, is after his fourth Western title in five years, having taken the championships of 1936, 1937, and 1938.

Deadlocked at 146 were Lloyd Mangrum of Oak Park, Ill., runner-up for last year's title; Jimmy Demaret, Houston's hope in the show; Tony Penna of Dayton, O., and Leonard Dodson of Kansas City.

Byron Nelson Withdraws.

River Oaks' par of 71, which refused to budge yesterday, yielded five times under today's ideal conditions. Snead's 68 was matched by the garrulous Dodson, who came back from a first round 78. Guldahl batted out a 69, while Grout and Dick Metz of Oak Park, Ill., submitted 70s. Metz, who played with Snead, put himself back in the running after taking a 78 yesterday.

Byron Nelson of Toledo, O., National Open champion and defending title holder in the Western, withdrew after playing 10 holes today. The high strung champion, who took a 78 yesterday, was out in 40 today, and picked up after missing a two footer on the 10th. The champion said he was dissatisfied with his putting. He played the round out, and was two Old Man River.

There's an old man lives down by the river
Whom I meet every now and then,
And he tells me how something I've written
Appeals to him now and again.
He sets down his bags and his bundles
Right there upon the walk
And the world rushes by all unheeding
As we have our little talk.

This old man who comes up from the river
Has spent all his living days
Close to the birds, the bees, the flowers—
He knows their most secret ways.
He knows exactly the portent
Of the wild ducks' strident cry
As he watches with gaze all-knowing
Their flight thru an autumn sky.

So, this old man who comes up from the river,
Humble and plain tho he be,
Always makes an impression
With the things he says to me.
He may not rate high as a critic
Of things literary—but then,
A man who knows all about birds and flowers
Must know quite a lot about men!

Nevers Mails Resignation as Cards' Coach

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Ernie Nevers dropped his resignation into a mail box in San Francisco last night, ending another turbulent chapter in the dismal history of the Chicago Cardinals and his own coaching career.

Altho his contract as coach of the Cardinals had another year to run, Nevers explained that he preferred to return to Sanford, where he developed into one of the game's outstanding stars, and study for a degree in physical education.

Trouble Comes Early.

Nevers, a former Cardinal full back and coach of the last Cardinal team to win the National Football league championship, returned to Chicago last fall to succeed Milan Creighton after a stretch as assistant coach at Stanford, one disappointing year as head coach at Lafayette, and three seasons as assistant coach at Iowa under Irl Tubbs.

Nevers' attempt to revive the Cardinals appeared doomed almost from the day he took charge in the Duluth training camp. A misunderstanding immediately developed between him and Gaynell Tinsley, the club's outstanding box office attraction and offensive weapon. Nevers summarily released Tinsley.

Player Deals Fail.

Several deals involving proven Cardinal stars didn't exactly pan out. These were followed by the release of other men who went on to become important performers with more successful clubs and gave Nevers more woe. The Cardinals finished last in the western division with only one victory.

Owner Charles Bidwill has not been officially notified of the resignation, nor did he have any indication that Nevers was contemplating such a move. Search for a successor will be started as soon as Nevers' letter arrives, he said.

Toledo Buys Whitney from Philadelphia Phils

Toledo, O., Feb. 19 (AP).—Purchase of Infielder A. C. [Pinky] Whitney from Philadelphia of the National league was announced today by the Toledo American Association baseball club. Whitney probably will replace Fred Muller at third base, officials said.

PURDUE MAKES MICHIGAN 7TH VICTIM, 25 TO 17

Ohio Stops N. U., 58-52; Indiana Wins, 46-42.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 19 [Special].—A fighting Michigan basketball team held Purdue's high scoring Boilermakers to their lowest point total in two years tonight but missed 13 free throws and the Big Ten leaders pulled out a 25 to 17 victory. It was Purdue's seventh victory in eight conference games.

Altho its own attack was held in check, Purdue clamped down an even tighter defense on the aggressive Michigan team, which could sink but seven field goals as its leading scorers, Jim Rae and Charley Pink, missed repeatedly.

Wolverine Lead Fades.

The crowd of 5,000 roared encouragement as the Wolverines held a narrow lead until the last three minutes of the first half, but paced by Center Dan Fisher, Purdue rallied to move ahead, 13 to 10, at halftime and never relinquished the lead.

Fisher made nine points to take scoring honors while Jim Rae and Charley Pink made five points each for Michigan. Rae was banished on fouls with two minutes left.

Missed Free Throws Costly.

Michigan managed to hold its early lead by controling the backboard despite a height handicap, but Purdue had this advantage in the final period, taking the rebounds repeatedly to slowly build up its margin. The Wolverines' poor marksmanship at the free throw line cost them whatever chance they might have had for victory. Lineups:

OHIO, 58; N. U., 52

Ohio State's basketball team unleashed a second half assault to defeat Northwestern, 58 to 52, in Patten gymnasium last night.

Paced by the excellent long shooting of Gil Mickelson, who scored 16 points on eight field goals, the Buckeyes tied the score at 34-all midway in the second period. They kept up the attack to roll up a 56 to 46 lead and withstand a belated Purple rally in the closing minutes.

Northwestern's defense, which bottled up Indiana Saturday night, was unable to cope with Ohio's long range attack which accounted for 26 field goals, 15 in the second half.

N. U. Takes Lead.

Don Clawson, sophomore center, led the Wildcat attack with 16 points on seven field goals and two free throws to tie Mickelson for scoring honors.

Northwestern established a 6 point lead early on successive baskets by Benson, Klein, and Shepard. The Buckeyes then tied the score, but the Wildcats opened another drive which sent them ahead, 17 to 6. Ohio grad-

Bryant Runs Dead Heat with Cubs' Train

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The first contingent of 1940 Cubs got away for California last night. Manager Gabby Hartnett was at the station early and neither he nor his pinch runner, Clay Bryant, had to sprint for the train. However, Clay was there, all ready to perform his specialty if the necessity had arisen.

Bryant, who had been listed as something of a holdout, signed his contract yesterday afternoon after the day's second conference with Owner P. K. Wrigley. In a morning conference the speedy pitcher and pinch runner got no place with his big boss. He said good-by and Mr. W. said good-by and it looked like a siege. After lunch, tho, Clay again sent in his card and another pow-wow soon was under way.

Signs at Original Figure.

Bryant's earlier reluctance about closing 1940 contractual matters was due to a slash, the extent of which has never been made public. It has been rumored that Bryant held a contract last season for $15,000, as a result of having won 19 games in 1938. Under the big contract last season, however, he won only two games while losing one and pitched only 31 innings. Arm trouble was given as the reason for the big fall off last year.

It was reported after Clay had signed that he had agreed to the sum first offered him for 1940, with the usual private assurance that accomplishment will not go unrewarded. Bryant still will be available to run for either Hartnett or Al Todd, even tho the arm trouble may prove recurrent.

Three Veterans Make Trip.

The signing of Bryant leaves only one holdout among the gents who are due to sail from Wilmington, Cal., to Avalon, Catalina Island, at 10 o'clock next Thursday morning. That loner is Dizzy Dean and the consensus is that the great man will not be very late in arriving at the Cubs' training grounds. Next Friday is camera and newsreel day at Avalon and it is felt Diz surely will not miss that.

The party which left Chicago last night included only three veteran Cub players, Hartnett, Bryant, and Vance Page.

The second squad is scheduled to appear at Avalon Feb. 29. Three holdouts are on this listing—Augie Galan, Stanley Hack and Hank Leiber. Nothing has been heard from the trio recently.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Chicago's fighters are poised for the start of their campaign for Golden Gloves—the most highly cherished trophies amateur boxing has to offer. At 7 o'clock tonight the battle will begin in the Coliseum. Two hundred and eight boys will go into this action-packed struggle for survival amid the city's toughest competition. Three consecutive nights of slugging will cut down all but one in each weight division—and each of those survivors will be a worthy champion.

Boxing fans will gather in the Coliseum with a well-justified anticipation of seeing some of the greatest bouts of the entire Golden Gloves series—for Chicago's best amateurs will be fighting to a finish to show just who's boss. There will be no chance for one strong local contender to evade another of the same weight. They're all together this time in one big tournament.

83 Bouts Tonight.

There will be 83 bouts tonight, 32 tomorrow, and 24 semi-finals and finals on Thursday. It is clear that the boys who come thru this rigorous test must possess a considerable measure of all the qualities that go to make a great fighter.

With Chicago titles in their possession, these boxers will have a strong basis for confidence to go on. They will have taken a tremendous step along the difficult road that leads to Golden Gloves championships. In the entire vast Golden Gloves territory it is improbable that any one center has so much concentrated fighting ability as this city possesses.

The eight boys who smash their way thru the Chicago tournament will earn an enthusiastic following of local fans in the Tournament of Champions in the Stadium Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of next week.

They'll Tackle Invaders.

In that event Chicago's fighters will be thrown into competition with the title-holders from the 43 centers in which eliminations have been conducted under the sponsorship of newspapers coöperating with Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

Though this city's representation in the Tournament of Champions will be smaller than ever before, it will be stronger. Only eight local boys will be permitted to go into it but each one of those eight will be better prepared than the representatives of other years.

Willie Moon Is Back.

Among the entries for the Chicago tournament are fighters who know a lot about the triumphs and the disappointments of Golden Gloves competition. These are the boys who went a long way in tournaments of previous years only to fail just short of final victory. These experienced fighters know what they're up against. They'll be very dangerous to any foe

RULE FRANKLIN, MILLER FIGHT NO CONTEST IN 2D

Iowan Slips to Canvas 5 Times in Marigold.

Fight Decisions

At Miami Beach, Fla.—Tony Musto knocked out Johnny Risko [3].

A scheduled 8 round bout between Andy [Kid] Miller, Sioux City, Ia., heavyweight, and Lem Franklin of Chicago was declared no contest by Referee Norman McGarity and Judges William O'Connell and Harold Marovitz in Marigold Gardens last night. The match was stopped in the second round. A crowd of 1,613, which paid a gross gate of $1,906.92, booed Miller for his poor showing.

Miller, who came with the reputation of having conquered Lee Savold and Tony Musto last year, eluded big Lem's terrific rights to the jaw in the first round by weaving and falling into clinches.

Miller Keeps Going Down.

Shortly after the next round opened, however, Franklin caught Andy coming in with a right to the point of the chin and his opponent went down for a six count. This was the only clean punch of the encounter, altho Miller slipped to the canvas five more times. After Miller's last trip to the floor the referee called a halt and consulted with the judges.

Fans believed Franklin tried but that Miller's refusal to fight turned the fight into a farce.

In the dressing room later, Joe Triner, head of the state boxing commission, ordered the boxers' purses withweld until a hearing is held at the next meeting of the board March 1. Franklin was to receive $125 and Miller $100.

The men face the loss of their purses or a suspension, or both. Franklin weighed 204½ pounds, 22½ more than Miller.

Allen Stops Dettman.

Altus Allen, 1939 international Golden Gloves heavyweight champion, scored a five round technical knockout over Harold Dettman of Detroit in a second feature, also set for eight rounds. After absorbing a body beating in the third and fourth rounds, Dettman was unable to come out for the fifth.

Eddie Camps, west side light heavyweight, knocked out Tommy Burns, also of Detroit, in the sixth round. Burns was knocked down five times in the fifth. The loser was substituted for Lee Oma, who was sick.

Early Settler Spurts; Wins Hialeah Race

Miami, Fla., Feb. 19 (AP).—Early Settler showed today he could run almost equally as well over the dirt or grass when he captured the 1 1-16 mile grass course feature at Hialeah. The horse recently won a seven furlong test over the main course for Owner W. C. Winfrey and romped home today by a length over a field of nine better than average platers in 1:48 3-5.

More than 14,000 saw Transmitter try to set the pace and then give way to Balloter after the first quarter. Balloter was three lengths clear of Early Settler starting around the last bend, but when Jockey Eddie Arcaro gave the Winfrey color bearer the go ahead signal, he spurted and put the leaders away in short order. The winner paid $9.20 for $2.

WHITE COCKADE WINS.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 19 (AP).—E. K. Bryson's 7 year old campaigner, White Cockade, romped to a two lengths victory in the Fair Ground feature today. In second place, by a photo, was Valdina, and third was Prince Sador.

White Cockade got off to a fine start and covered the six furlongs over a slow track in 1:14 3-5.

HOWARD ENTERS STARS

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 19 (AP).—Seabiscuit and Kayak II., dismal also-rans in the San Carlos handicap two days ago, go back to the races Saturday in the $10,000 added San Antonio handicap.

Twenty-three nominations were made today for the mile and one-sixteenth event, which shares interest this week with the $50,000 Santa Anita Derby on Washington's birthday.

Favorites at 4-5 in the pari-mutuel betting in the San Carlos, Seabiscuit ran sixth and Kayak II. eighth in the 11 horse field over the seven furlong distance. Turf experts believe both Howard horses need one, or perhaps two, more engagements to get ready for the $100,000 race March 2.

The San Antonio offers a brilliant field. In addition to Howard's entry, nominations include Heelfly, Specify, winner of the San Carlos; Whichcee, Hysterical, Sun Lover, Ra II., Preceptor II., Ligaroti, Comet II., Wedding Call, Journey On, Anthology, Olimpus, Viscounty, Vino Puro, Can't Wait, Beautiful II., Vain Bo, Arjac, Step By, and No Competition.

Entries will be made Wednesday for the $50,000 Derby. It is expected that a score or more three-year-olds will enter the race, which may turn into a free-for-all with luck of the draw for post positions an important factor.

Seeded No. 1

Riggs Heads Seeded List in Indoor Meet

New York, Feb. 19 (AP).—Bobby Riggs of Chicago today was seeded No. 1 in the draw for the national indoor tennis meet opening in the 7th regiment armory Thursday.

Don McNeill, Kenyon [O.] college student from Oklahoma City, was seeded second, with Elwood Cooke of Portland, Ore., third, in the field of 64. McNeill is ranged third nationally, and Cooke sixth.

Other seedings were: Frank Bowden, New York veteran and runnerup to Wayne Sabin last year; Edward Alloo of Berkeley, Cal., Joseph Fishbach, Chauncey Depew Steele, and Leonard Hartman, all of New York. Sabin is not competing since he is under suspension by the United States Lawn Tennis association.

Draw for the women's singles and doubles will be made later in the week.

HAWKS RETURN HOME BOASTING 14 YEAR RECORD

The Black Hawks, with a record of not having been defeated in their last seven games, returned to Chicago yesterday afternoon after having tied the Americans, 1-all, Sunday night. It is the longest unbeaten string in the Hawks' 14 years in the National Hockey league, and undoubtedly will weigh heavily in Paul Thompson's favor when the writers around the league vote for the manager of the National Hockey league's all-star team for the current season.

Tomorrow the Hawks will travel to St. Louis for an exhibition game against the Flyers, leaders of the American association. They will return for a single workout Wednesday in preparation for the seventh clash of the season against the Montreal Canadiens Thursday in the Stadium.

LEADERS HOLD PLACES.

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 19 [Special].—Tho both were held scoreless in National Hockey league games during the week and yesterday, Milt Schmidt of the Boston Bruins, and Bryan Hextall of the New York Rangers continue to hold first and second in the scoring records race.

ILLINOIS WINS, 37-35

Champaign, Ill., Feb. 19 [Special].—Illinois was pressed to the limit by a determined Wisconsin team tonight before it won its fifth Big Ten victory, 37 to 35. The Badgers held a 17 to 16 half time advantage, and it wasn't until Harold Shapiro entered the game early in the second half that the Illini attack began to click.

Shapiro sank three long shots and two free throws to help Illinois fashion a ten-point lead midway in the second period, 35 to 25.

STATE JUNIOR COLLEGES OPEN PLAY TONIGHT

Twelve teams will compete in the 1939-40 Illinois State Junior college basketball tournament to be held at Morton, in Cicero, starting this evening. Play will continue thru Saturday.

Entrants include La Salle, Herzl, Morgan Park, Wilson, Wright, La Grange, Joliet, Maine, North Park, St. Procopius of Lisle, Springfield, and Morton.

Morton, 1939-40 conference champion, is the favorite to take the title from the defending champion Wright quintet which won the invitational tournament held at the University of Chicago last year. Wright, Herzl, Wilson, and Joliet are rated among the strongest teams in the state while La Salle-Peru, one of three downstate entries, is the dark horse. The La Salle team holds the only victory over the Morton five in 14 games played by the Cicero squad this year.

The opening game at 7:30 p. m. will send Herzl against La Salle. The second game on the card will be between North Park and Lisle.

Maroons Get Bold; Gophers Suffer, 35-32

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 19 [Special].—The University of Chicago basketball team, beaten in seven previous Big Ten games, stepped out of character here tonight, defeating Minnesota, 35 to 32, accomplishing the feat by overcoming a seven point half time lead.

It was the Maroons' first conference triumph since they closed last season by beating Purdue. Chicago won four Big Ten games last year and finished in a tie with Wisconsin and Michigan for seventh place.

Maroons Come Back Strongly.

After trailing, 21 to 14, at intermission time, the Maroons came back with a rush and made nine points while holding the Gophers scoreless. Chicago, led by Joe Stampf, lanky forward, started the drive with the score 26 to 17 in favor of Minnesota. First Charles Wagenberg, then Paul Zimmerman, scored field goals. After Art Jorgensen and Zimmerman chipped in with free throws, Dick Lounsbury hit from the field and Stampf added a free throw that tied the score at 26 all.

Minnesota grabbed back the lead on a free throw, but Lounsbury's long side shot was good and Stampf clicked on a short one. Don Carlson brought the Gophers within a point of a tie with a field goal, then Stampf and Jorgensen scored in succession to make it 34 to 29. Jack Pearson's basket and John Dick's free throw put the Gophers back in the game, but the only additional scoring was Jorgensen's free throw with nine seconds to play.

Stampf Scores 9 Points.

Stampf, with nine points on three field goals and three free throws, was Chicago's high scorer, while Carlson made ten points for the losers. Lineup:

COLORADO SQUAD ASKS REGENTS TO FIRE OAKES

Boulder, Colo., Feb. 19 (AP).—Two University of Colorado regents disclosed today that a player petition asking dismissal of Football Coach Bernard [Bunny] Oakes has been filed with the board of regents.

The regents, Dr. Val B. Fischer and Dr. Lawrence W. Cole, both of Boulder, said the petition was signed by approximately 35 members of Colorado's 1939 Big Seven conference championship squad.

125,000 ATTEND SPORTS SHOW TO SET NEW RECORD

Twelve Act Performance Attracts Fans.

BY BOB BECKER.

Attendance at the International Outdoor Sportsmen's show is setting a new high for events of its kind, with 30 per cent larger crowds this week than during the corresponding period a year ago, officials said last night. Nick Kahler, manager of the exposition being held in the International Amphitheater, states that nearly 125,000 sports fans from Chicagoland already have visited the show which still has five days to go. It will close Sunday night.

The doors of the exposition open at 1 p. m. and the program is continuous with the 12 act floor show going on at 3:30 in the afternoon and again at 9:30 in the evening. The acts include exhibitions by log rollers, Labrador retrievers handled by Francis Hogan retrieving live birds, woodchopping contests, and trick and fancy casting by Stuart Pritchard, Curly Moulton, and Tony Accetta.

Even Horse Shoe Pitching.

An attraction on the floor show program, unbilled in advance, is the appearance of Ted Allen of Boulder, Colo., world's champion horse shoe pitcher annually since 1933. Allen tosses ringers consistently under difficulties, climaxing his act by performing blind, with a canvas strip set up to hide the stake beyond.

Allen shares the spotlight with two other bullseye shooters, Ken Wilhelm, champion flight archer from Yermo, Cal., and Slingshot Charlie, the Reelfoot Lake, Tenn., hillbilly.

This is Trailer Day at the show in the amphitheater. Members of the trailer coach industry will conclude their two day convention at the Stock Yard Inn. The manufacturers are also participating in the trailer section of the show.

Casting Goes On.

The casting contests being sponsored by the Chicago Tribune continue to attract thousands of fishermen. Fishing tackle manufacturers report tremendous interest in the newest fishing accessories on display at the show.

Willie Hoppe to Seek Three Cushion Title

Willie Hoppe yesterday filed his entry in the 1940 world three cushion billiards championship tournament to be held March 11 to April 2 at Bensinger's 131 South Wabash Avenue Recreation. His entry came from New York.

Hoppe has held every billiard title at one time or another, last holding the three cushion crown in 1935 when he defeated Welker Cochran in a challenge match here. Cochran took the title away from him later in the year here in the last world tournament held. Hoppe also has dominated the balk line game for 20 years.

This year's tournament will embrace 90 games, 24 more than any previous tourney. It will be a twice around round robin affair instead of once around, as formerly.

The other nine players, in addition to Hoppe, entered are: Welker Cochran, the defending world champion; Jake Schafer, Otto Reiselt, Jay N. Bozeman, Allen Hall, Arthur Thurnblad, Johnny Layton, Tiff Denton, and Arthur Rubin, New York state champion.

BUDGE (NOT DON) BEATS RICHARDS IN TENNIS MEET

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 19 (AP).—Lloyd Budge sprang a mild upset today by eliminating Vincent Richards of New York, 6-4, 6-4, in the $2,500 professional tennis tournament. Other favorites, including Lloyd's younger brother, Don Budge, top-ranking professional, had an easy time. Don defeated Dan Watson of Washington, D. C., 6-2, 6-4.

Fred Perry, seeded second, crushed Otto Bernardin of Durham, N. C., 6-3, 6-0. Bill Tilden failed to see action, and Bruce Barnes of White Plains, N. Y., won by default over Jimmy McDougall of New York. Walter Senior, seventh seeded player from Chicago, easily ousted Bob Murray of New York, 6-2, 6-1.

Oram's Return Raises Bruins' Playoff Hopes

Chances for the Chicago Bruins to reach the play-offs in the National Basketball league were brightened today with the announcement that Ed Oram, one time University of Southern California guard, will be available for the contest with the Sheboygan Redskins in the 132d armory tomorrow night.

Oram was injured in a game with the Akron Firestones Feb. 3 and the Bruins went into a slump that all but eliminated them from the championship running.

Sheboygan leads the Western division with 14 games won and 10 lost, and it is imperative that the Bruins win tomorrow night as well as against Oshkosh, the second place team, on Feb. 24, if they are to remain playoff contenders.

A special train has been chartered by Sheboygan fans, marking the first time in pro basketball history that such an arrangement has been made.

Preceding the league game at 8 o'clock will be a contest between Armour Tech and North Central college of Naperville.

208 Amateurs Open Golden Gloves Quest

Willie Moon, who boxed his way skillfully to last year's 112 pound semi-finals before losing to the ultimate champion, Vic Saccola of Detroit, is in the tournament again this year. No one who saw how close this little colored boy came to a title last season can fail to be impressed with his chances of going all the way this time.

Dupont Seeks Title.

Then there's Joe Dupont, who pounded his way to the featherweight finals last season. He was going well midway in the last round of his bout with Tony Ancona of Detroit and still had a good chance of earning the championship. Suddenly Ancona lashed out with a left to the head that sent Dupont to his knees for a two count. That one punch, which gave Ancona a subsequent opportunity to press his advantage, practically decided the bout. Joe is going to be watching for just such a punch this time and whoever lands it will have to hit fast and sharp.

Interspersed among veterans such as these are many fighters who have distinguished themselves in club events. They realize, however, that a club event and a Chicago Golden Gloves tournament are two different things entirely. Some may be pretty good fighters in their own neighborhood, but they'll have to show exceptional ability to stand up long in the Coliseum bouts where they'll be called upon to take on all comers from among the best boxers in the city.

Golden Gloves bouts are always packed with uncertainty, however. Ever so often some unheralded fighter will haul off and stretch a favorite on the canvas. Among the 208 entries in the Chicago tournament there are quite a few who have real hitting power, but who have not yet attained general recognition among the city's fans. Some one of these fighters are quite likely to bring the crowd up cheering before the tournament is over.

Others Hold Finals.

With boxers of this high caliber and with two rings in use, the spectators who gather in the Coliseum tonight are assured of an evening of incessant action. In the course of the 83 bouts they may expect just about everything to happen.

The last week of fighting in the various out of town centers began last night. Finals were held in Kenosha, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, South Bend, Fort Worth, and Centralia. Green Bay, Davenport, and Gary will pick their squads tonight. The last of the 43 teams will be completed Friday night. Then they will begin converging on Chicago for next week's Tournament of Champions.

CAVALIERS PLAY COLLEGIANS IN ST. PHILIP GYM

The La Salle Cavaliers, surprise team of the second round in the Windy City Cage league, tonight will meet the colored Collegians, first round winners, in St. Philip gymnasium. The Dr. Mason quintet, American division leaders of the circuit, will meet the Frankie Harmons.

The Cavaliers are undefeated in second round play due to the play of Art Anderson, 6 feet 5 inch center from Augustana, Bob Meyers, former Maroon, and Clem Naughton, former De Paul Demon player. A victory for the Cavaliers will assure them a berth in the second round playoffs Friday evening.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

It was a jovial bunch of Cubs, established and would-be, which gathered in the North Western station last night for the start towards another baseball season. An enterprising photographer herded some rookies and veterans on a baggage truck and "hitched up" Manager Gabby Hartnett, Head Trainer Andy Lotshaw (the good doctor now has an assistant), and Traveling Secretary Bob Lewis. Included on the truck were Pitchers Vance Page (second from left) and Clay Bryant, looking over Page's shoulder.

Reese Hailed as Successor by Durocher

Clearwater, Fla., Feb. 19 [Special].—Harold [Peewee] Reese appeared in uniform among the rest of the Dodgers today and Leo Durocher, player-manager, after watching the youngster field and throw just two ground balls, conceded that he had found his immediate successor at shortstop.

"I don't need to see any more," Durocher told Ted McGrew, the scout who has been practically lyrical about Reese's abilities. "That kid can play shortstop for anybody's ball club for my money."

Larry MacPhail, Dodgers president, announced that Fred Fitzsimmons, a pitcher for 21 seasons, will serve as coach and also will remain on the active list.

Another item was the signing of Tot Pressnell.

MEDWICK BLAMES CARDS.

Clearwater, Fla., Feb. 19 (AP).—Joe Medwick, slugging star of the St. Louis Cardinals, maintains he isn't a holdout because he hasn't even seen his 1940 contract. He doesn't seem very anxious to see it, either.

Visiting his pal, Leo Durocher, Brooklyn Dodgers' manager, Medwick finally weakened under persistent questioning to this extent:

"My contract was sent by registered mail to St. Petersburg, and I happened to be away when the mail carrier came. Since I had to sign for it personally it was taken back to the postoffice, and that's where it is right now.

"So when anybody calls me a holdout I think they're wrong. I'd say the St. Louis club has been the holdout on me to date by not sending me a contract much sooner."

Three Sign; Yank Holdout List Is Reduced to Nine

New York, Feb. 19 [Special].—The Yanks are coming—to terms. First Baseman Babe Dahlgren, Pitchers Atley Donald, and Johnny Murphy raised the number of satisfied champs to 24 as their signed contracts reached headquarters today. With two weeks remaining before the full squad is due in camp, the Yankees now have only nine potential holdouts: Joe Di Maggio, Bill Dickey, Charley Ruffing, Joe Gordon, Tom Henrich, Spud Chandler, Bill Matheson, and Mike Chartak.

Dahlgren and Donald each enjoyed his peak season in the major leagues in 1939; Murphy, his poorest. The former pair consequently received sizeable boosts in salary, but neither approaches the $12,000 level of Murphy. By receiving the same figure as he signed for last year, Murphy ended a record he was proud of—that of gaining an increase from the Yanks every year.

Donald last year won his first 12 games, setting a new big league mark for rookie pitchers. The 27 year old right hander's streak was stopped by Schoolboy Rowe.

Dahlgren inherited the Yanks' first base position in Detroit on May 2, the day when Lou Gehrig hung up his mitt for all time. Babe soon proved to be one of the best fielders in the game. Despite his .225 batting mark, he was the most dangerous eighth place hitter in baseball, driving in 89 runs and scoring 71. With the recent trade ban slapped on the Yanks, it was thought Dahlgren would use his security to get a salary raise. But he didn't.

Murphy, a relief pitcher, appeared in his usual quota of games last season, 38, but had a won-lost record of only three victories against six defeats.

Naval Armory Is Badminton Tourney Site

The United States Naval Reserve armory, scene of the first national badminton championships four years ago, this year will house the third midwest badminton tournament, March 8, 9, and 10, R. Ward Starrett, tournament chairman and president of Skokie Badminton club, announced yesterday.

Tied for the amateur lead at 150 were Harry Todd of Dallas, Western Amateur champion, and Ed Herron of Houston. Wilford Wehrle, Chicago district titleholder, took an 80 today for a 156, altho he holed a 160 yard 5 iron shot for an eagle two on the 374 yard seventeenth. Seventeen year old Jack Burke Jr., son of the River Oaks pro, was in second place with 153.

Snead holed 12-foot putts on the third, fifth, and twelfth, and chipped dead at the eighth, before his finishing birdie on the 18th. He three-putted the sixth and drove the trees at the ninth.

Heafner, who had three birdies, missed three putts of less than four feet.

Elmhurst Club Property Passes Into Snite's Hands

Members of the Elmhurst Country club approved sale of the property to Fred B. Snite, president of the Local Loan company, last night at a meeting in the Midwest Athletic club. The board of directors will meet tomorrow to approve the sale and the amount, which was not announced.

Snite, who attended the meeting, told the members the club would continue to operate under its present name and that he would expend approximately $50,000 on improvements this year. The by-laws will not be changed, he said.

The affairs of the club will be in the hands of an executive committee comprising President Lynn S. Broaddus and Abraham Van Gorkom of Elmhurst and two members to be named by Snite. Broaddus also is a director of the Chicago District Golf association.

Snite's proposal to the club offered a plan whereby present members will become charter members with certain advantages in dues for the first five years.

The transaction included the club's equities in the 200 acres of land and improvements on the club property along the Wooddale road between Grand avenue and Irving Park road northwest to Elmhurst. The members turned over their equities to him and he agreed to assume the club's mortgage and debts which amount to approximately $100,000.

GOLDBERG BEATS CHUCK FENSKE IN 1,000 YARD RACE

Mehl Wins 2 Mile; Lash Finishes Last.

Newark, N. J., Feb. 19 (AP).—Sanford Goldberg of the Millrose A. A., New York, climaxed a series of upsets in Seton Hall college's track games tonight by scoring a decisive victory over Chuck Fenske of Wisconsin in the 1,000 yard run.

A crowd of 7,000 saw Goldberg, who received a 5 yard handicap, hand Fenske his first defeat of the season by a 7 yard margin. The victor was timed in 2:12.9, a new meet record.

Gordon Wins Mile.

Norman Gordon of the Shanahan C. C., Philadelphia, won the J. B. Reilly mile run in record time of 4:14, taking advantage of a 50 yard handicap to beat Leslie MacMitchell of New York university, Carmen Bova of Seton Hall, and Archie San Romani of Emporia, Kas.

Jim Kehoe of the University of Maryland, starting from the 10 yard mark, took the 880 yard handicap as the two favorites, John Borican and John Woodruff, ran out of the money. Walter Mehl of Wisconsin won the 2 mile invitation special in record time as Don Lash finished last.

Declining a 15 yard handicap and starting from scratch with Lash, Mehl let loose a terrific kick to win by a yard from the veteran Joe McCluskey, who had a 25 yard handicap. The time was 9:03.4, the second fastest two miles ever run on a flat board track and smashed the old Newark mark of 9:12.6, created by Lash two years ago. Thomas Deckard of Bloomington, Ind., was third.

Cunningham Fourth Again.

Fenske found the going tough on the sharp turns of the armory track and never was able to offer Goldberg a serious threat in the 1,000 yard race. Gene Venzke of New York made the Wisconsin star work hard to save second place, while Glenn Cuningham, unable to pull out of his slump, was fourth.

Kehoe, running the half mile in 1:54.4, beat out Francis Slater of New York by a slim margin, with Campbell Kane of Indiana third. Neither bell Kane of Indiana third.

SUES COMPANIES FOR 270 MILLION ON DEALS OF RCA

Stockholder Argues Radio Transactions Improper.

New York, Feb. 19 (AP).—An action for recovery of more than $270,000,000 was filed in federal court today against the Radio Corporation of America, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, General Electric company, and 24 officers and directors of the three concerns.

J. Webster Manning, holder of 1,000 shares of RCA common stock, filed the complaint, basing it on two alleged causes for action. Ira A. Schiller, attorney for Manning, said the plaintiff was a resident of Washington, D. C.

The first cause charged that from 1919, the year of RCA's organization, until 1936, General Electric and Westinghouse controled RCA voting stock and, as a result, the policies and the directors of RCA.

Asks Accounting for Shares.

Manning asked for an accounting of 6,500,000 shares of RCA common stock, worth $40 a share, which, it was alleged, RCA gave to General Electric and Westinghouse in 1932 in return for certain rights to manufacture, sell, and distribute radio apparatus controled by General Electric and Westinghouse.

These agreements, the complaint charged, were illegal because the government then was investigating the radio industry, and the assets and rights turned over to RCA were worthless.

The complaint also charged that ratification by RCA stockholders was obtained by fraudulent means and misleading information.

The second cause of action dealt with the lending to Radio-Keith-Orpheum corporation of $11,600,000 for a 10 year 6 per cent debenture issue in November, 1931.

Charges Bankruptcy Foreseen.

RCA directors at that time, the complaint continued, knew that RKO was about to go into bankruptcy. The issue was an unsecured, secondary obligation, subject to a prior issue of $6,000,000, secured by all of RKO's assets, the complaint said.

Among the individual defendants named were Gen. James G. Harbord, Cornelius N. Bliss, Paul D. Cravath, John Hayes Hammond Jr., David Sarnoff, Gerard Swope, and Owen D. Young.

SAVAGE ARMS.

I should imagine what with the wars in Europe and military preparations in this country Savage Arms ought to be a good company in which to put some money. How is the company doing and what kind of guns does it make?—D. T.

Answer: Altho the Savage Arms corporation in recent years has attempted to diversify its production by making electric household appliances, it continues to specialize in the manufacture of firearms and ammunition.

About one-third of the hunting rifles and shotguns sold in this country are made by Savage Arms. Farmers buy the largest proportion of the firm's gun and ammunition output. Altho virtually its entire firearms production is for sports purposes, the company's manufacturing processes can be converted quickly to the making of military rifles and small arms.

Savage Arms owns the American rights to the Lewis machine gun, which has not been manufactured since 1919.

The company has outstanding 10 shares of 6 per cent noncumulative second preferred stock of $100 par value and 167,715 shares of no par common stock. There is no funded debt.

Earnings of the company in 1939 increased sharply from those in 1938, preliminary figures indicated. Net income, earnings per common share and dividends per common share in recent years follow:

1936	245,752	1.45	1.00
1937	456,616	2.72	1.50
1938	60,434	0.36	0.25
1939	*349,307	*2.08	1.25

*Preliminary.

The company paid 25 cents a common share Feb. 16 on stock of record Feb. 9. Dividends on the common stock were omitted from 1921 thru 1925 and from 1932 thru 1935, but were distributed in other years.

SUMMER SCHOOL.

I am a school teacher. Last summer I attended a postgraduate summer school course. Can I deduct the cost of the tuition and traveling fare as professional expenses?—E. T.

Answer: No, the cost of attending summer school or postgraduate courses may not be deducted.

RAILROAD RETIREMENT.

It is my understanding that pensions paid under the railroad retirement act of 1935 beginning with July 1, 1937, are exempt from federal income tax. Am I correct?—H. M.

Answer: You are right. Annuities or pensions received under the railroad retirement acts of 1935 and 1937 are not taxable, being specifically exempt.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

Live costs of many classes of cattle were higher yesterday, some kinds equaling the highest levels of the winter, altho many cuts of beef declined. Some beef, especially the higher priced cuts, declined to the lowest point since early December.

The majority of steers and yearlings at the Chicago stock yards sold strong to 15 cents higher than at the close of the week, altho many of the best loads showed advances of 25 cents.

Hogs sold steady to 10 cents lower, with most pressure on "lard hogs." Packing sows were bought at reductions of 5 to 10 cents. Both the top and the average showed a loss of 5 cents, at $5.65 and $5.15, respectively.

COTTON

Cotton was easy in early trading yesterday, due mainly to selling induced by weakness in Liverpool. Mills and spot firms bought later and a good rally followed with the close .01 cent higher to .04 cent a pound lower. The Bombay, India, market had a holiday.

Reports from the south indicated that due to recent cold and wet weather, field work was making slow progress, and crop preparations were estimated to be about a month later than normal.

A decision to call a general strike in India of cotton mill operatives on Feb. 26 was reported reached by the joint board of representatives of the textile labor association. The strike, if it materializes, will involve 70 mills and more than 100,000 workers and will be the largest in the textile industry since 1923. Mill owners and the labor associations were said to have failed to reach an agreement regarding cost of living allowances.

Spot cotton closed unchanged to .02 cent lower with New York 11.18 cents, New Orleans 10.92 cents, Houston 10.78 cents, and Galveston at 10.69 cents a pound. Prices follow:

WHEAT MARKET BOLSTERED BY PUBLIC BUYING

Prices Finish Irregular in Erratic Trade.

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

	Yesterday.	Saturday.	Year ago.
Wheat	$1.02⅝	$1.02⅞	$ .68⅝
Corn	.56⅞	.56⅝	.49⅝
Oats	.40⅝	.40⅝	.29⅛
Rye	.68⅝	.68⅞	.45⅝
Soy beans	1.08	1.07¼	.82⅝

Increased public interest in the wheat market was apparent yesterday. New buying was reported by commission houses to have been sufficiently large to offset the effect of additional precipitation in parts of Nebraska, Kansas, and Oklahoma.

Prices dipped about 1 cent early, but as soon as the selling subsided the market rallied about 2 cents from the low point. Profit taking resulted in part of the upturn being lost. Closing trades were ¼ cent lower to ⅛ cent higher, the former on the May.

May wheat lost ground as compared with the July option, selling 1⅞ cent above the deferred delivery at one time, compared with a premium of 2¼ cents at the close on Saturday.

Farmers Sell Loan Wheat.

Farmers sold their equity in wheat pledged as security for government loans on a fairly liberal scale. It was estimated more than 500,000 bushels of loan wheat were purchased by Minneapolis interests. Wheat was sold here by spreaders against purchases at Kansas City and Minneapolis, resulting in the latter markets gaining ground on Chicago.

Liquidation of holding of loan wheat by farmers was said to be progressing in an orderly manner. It was estimated by elevator interests that about 1,000,000 bushels of farmers' equities in grain pledged to the government for loans were bought on Saturday.

Announcement was made yesterday that the Federal Surplus Commodity corporation will advance the export subsidy on Pacific coast flour by 15 cents a barrel in order to offset a further upturn in ocean freight rates. The advance will be effective on March 15.

Freight Rate Equals 60 Cents.

Freight rates equal to 60 cents a bushel are reported to have been paid at New York for wheat from that port to Antwerp. Buenos Aires wheat futures were 2⅝ cents lower at one time. Freight rates on wheat from Buenos Aires to Antwerp were quoted as high as 86½ cents a bushel.

Corn prices averaged higher, largely in sympathy with wheat, and closed ⅛ cent higher to ⅛ cent lower. About 200,000 bushels of domestic corn were reported to have been sold for shipment to the United Kingdom. The country sold 59,000 bushels for deferred shipment to Chicago.

Oats closed ⅛ cent lower and rye was ¼ to ⅜ cent lower. Soy beans finished ¾ to ⅞ cent higher.

HOLDERS FAVOR GREAT WESTERN REORGANIZATION

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19 (AP).—The interstate commerce commission reported today that an overwhelming majority of creditors and stockholders who had voted had approved a commission's proposal to reorganize the Chicago Great Western railroad.

The commission said holders of $15,529,000 of first mortgage bonds out of a total of $35,544,000, had voted, as well as holders of 246,322 shares of preferred stock out of a total of 460,735 shares.

COLGATE'S NET EARNINGS ARE BEST SINCE 1931

Sales Are Largest in Firm's History.

Colgate-Palmolive-Peet company's profit in 1939 was the largest since 1931 and sales were the highest in its history, E. H. Little, president, reported yesterday.

E. H. Little.

Net income was $6,632,654, equal to $2.74 a common share, compared with $4,921,921, or $1.77 a share, in 1938, Little said. The 1939 figure is subject to the annual audit. Profit in 1931 was $7,598,224, equal to $3.12 a share, and in 1929 the company earned $8,910,631, or $4.03 a share.

Sales last year were $101,935,438, compared with $99,452,741 in 1938, and $100,565,165 in 1929 when the former record was established.

Foreign Sales Not Included.

Little said that because of present conditions abroad, foreign profits are not included except on a cash received or equivalent basis. On this basis, foreign earnings in 1939 amounted to $1,968,651.

A special meeting of the common stock holders has been called for March 15 to consider amending the company's certificate of incorporation to clear the way for sale of 125,000 shares of a new class of preferred stock with a dividend rate not to exceed $4.50 a share, and redemption of the remaining 125,000 shares of 6 per cent preferred.

New Jersey Utility Earns More.

The annual report of the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey for 1939 showed that the utility system had net income of $25,722,729 for the year, after all operating expenses, taxes, and other charges. This was equal, after preferred dividend requirements, to $2.88 a share on the common stock, and compared with a net income of $22,733,244, or $2.34 a common share, in 1938.

Gross operating revenues aggregated $133,898,744, compared with $126,820,862 in the preceding year, while operating expenses, including taxes and depreciation, rose to $94,684,003 from $91,788,347 in 1938.

The corporation's total 1939 tax bill aggregated $24,311,091. These taxes took 17.1 per cent of operating revenues and 36.9 per cent of operating income, and were in excess of both preferred and common stock dividends, according to the report.

Am. Steel Foundries Profit.

American Steel Foundries, maker of industrial castings and specialty appliances for railroad cars and locomotives, issued an annual report showing a net profit of $1,368,514, equal to $1.15 a common share, compared with a net loss of $1,750,235 in 1938.

Thomas Drever, president of American Steel Foundries, said the company ended the year with a backlog of unfilled orders which will keep its plants active thru the first quarter of 1940. Unfilled orders on hand Dec. 31 totaled about $8,000,000, Drever said, compared with $1,900,000 on Dec. 31, 1938. The company's general offices are in Chicago.

British Stock Seizure Believed Move for Orderly Liquidation

New York, Feb. 19 [Special.]—Wall street today interpreted the order of the British treasury requiring British owners of stocks in 60 United States corporations to sell their holdings to the British government, as a logical move to insure orderly liquidation.

It was recognized that this move is part of the machinery contemplated by British authorities before the outbreak of war. Since then the stock market has been plagued by the fear of heavy liquidation of American securities held in England.

Last November, two representatives of the Bank of England surveyed this situation in New York, discussing the probable sales of British-owned dollar securities with banks, investment houses, and brokerage firms. One of the representatives remained here, and presumably will organize a staff to direct the selling of securities now taken over by the British government, as well as others which may be mobilized later.

Agent for Bank of England.

The New York agency of the Bank of Montreal will act for the Bank of England in holding securities and documents of title to British-owned securities included in the list of 60 that are now in this country. As securities are sent from England the agency will assume jurisdiction.

As matters now stand, British owners of dollar securities are free to sell their holdings, except that the proceeds must be turned over to the Bank of England, which pays the owners in pounds sterling.

Virtually none of the United States issues that are trading favorites in London are included among the list of 60. The inference is that most, tho not all, are issues which now have but thin markets. Any general selling conceivably could break the markets badly. By transferring selling control to the British authorities, more expert liquidation is to be expected.

Exempt United States Citizens.

[Copyright: 1940: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Feb. 19.—Altho the British treasury's order requisitioning certain United States securities theoretically applies to all residents of the United Kingdom, it was learned today that Joseph P. Kennedy, United States ambassador, has succeeded in getting exemption for all United States citizens now living here.

Kennedy complained to the treasury that the broad order was unfair to United States citizens who were working and living in this country. He asserted the rule would force many Americans to give up their investments.

Another communication from the British treasury to the United States government further relaxed the finance regulations to permit United States citizens here to buy and sell securities.

Hall Printing Dividend First in Eight Years

Directors of W. F. Hall Printing company yesterday authorized a quarterly dividend of 25 cents on the common stock, placing the issue on a $1 annual basis. The disbursement is payable March 20 to stockholders of record March 5 and is the first since 30 cents was paid eight years ago.

Alfred B. Geiger.

Alfred B. Geiger, president of the large Chicago printing enterprise, said the action places the common stock on a yearly basis with quarterly payments of 25 cents and extras contingent on the continuation of present business conditions.

Business Above Year Ago.

"Our business is substantially ahead of last year and there is every reason to believe that we shall be able to continue our present volume, allowing, of course, for seasonal fluctuations," Geiger said. "So far this year the company has spent upwards of $500,000 on plant rehabilitation and new equipment, enabling it to meet exacting demands of customers."

E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. announced an interim dividend for the first quarter of the year of $1.75 on the common stock, payable March 14. Last year interim payments of $1.25 each were made in March, June and September, plus a year-end dividend of $3.25 in December.

Budd Wheel company declared the regular quarterly payment of $1.75 on 7 per cent preferred stock, plus a participating dividend of 25 cents. The combined disbursement is payable March 30.

Niles-Bement-Pond Dividend.

Niles-Bement-Pond company declared a dividend of 50 cents, payable March 15, on common stock. Last year the company paid 50 cents in March and December, and in June a dividend of one share of United Aircraft corporation stock for each 20 shares of Niles-Bement-Pond was paid. The company, a Hartford, Conn., manufacturer of precision machinery, owns stock in the aviation corporation.

Brunswick-Balke-Collender company declared a dividend of 25 cents on the common stock, payable March 15, as well as the regular quarterly payment of $1.25 on the preferred, payable April 1. The company's common stock payments last year included a $1.50 disbursement in December.

REPORT GERMANS GET UNITED STATES METAL THRU MEXICO, RUSSIA

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 19 (AP).—The Russian freighter Kim, which recently discharged $5,600,000 in gold for a New York bank, was reported loading 12,000 tons of United States copper and Mexican lead in the Pacific port of Manzanillo today for shipment to Vladivostok, Russia's principal Siberian port.

The Kim, expected to sail late this week, will follow the soviet freighter Mayakowski, which sailed recently with 5,200 tons of copper. The Russian freighter Engels is due within a few days.

Manzanillo has become an important re-shipping point for copper and lead consigned to Russia. Observers at the port said the metal was being sent across the Trans-Siberian railroad to Germany.

INT. HARVESTER PROFITS, SALES DIP LAST YEAR

But Business Gains Since October.

Profits and sales of International Harvester company were smaller in the fiscal year ended last Oct. 31 than in the preceding year, Sydney G. McAllister, president, told stockholders in his annual report, issued yesterday. He said, however, that business has improved since the end of October.

"The results of the first quarter of the present fiscal year have shown a gratifying increase in business and new lines are helping to stimulate sales in an encouraging manner," McAllister said. "The prospects for the remainder of the year seem favorable."

Profit Near 13 Millions.

Net income of the company in the year ended Oct. 31 was $12,980,059, equal to $1.71 a common share after preferred dividends. In the preceding year profit was $18,471,723, or $3 a share.

"The reduction in profits was due to decreased sales volume, lower selling prices on many of the company's products, and higher unit costs of manufacture resulting from reduced factory operations," McAllister asserted.

"Sales in the United States were 6.4 per cent less than in 1938, primarily for two reasons—the lower prices which our farmer customers received for their products, and the changeover to a new line of tractors and implements involving interruptions in production and lag in sales. Motor truck sales increased about 12 per cent. Collections in the United States were good."

Sales Lower Last Year.

The report showed that sales in the United States in the last fiscal year amounted to $187,778,000, against $200,630,000 in the preceding year. Sales in foreign countries totaled $79,249,000, compared with $85,661,000.

McAllister said unsettled political and economic conditions abroad, and poor crops and low prices in a few countries affected foreign business. Another influence, he said, was an increasing tendency of numerous countries to restrict imports and the amounts of exchange with which payments for goods are made.

The number of persons employed by the company in the United States averaged less for the full fiscal year than in the preceding year, stockholders were told, but an improvement was shown in the latter part of the year.

Employment on Upgrade.

The average for October was 46,900 employés, compared with 33,500 in October, 1938. The improvement has continued into 1940, McAllister said.

Compensation received by domestic and foreign employés, exclusive of executive officers, totaled $92,000,000 for the 1939 fiscal year, compared with $96,000,000 in the preceding year. Fourteen executive officers received compensation totaling $512,000, against $520,000 in the 1938 year, McAllister said.

The company's total tax payments for the year, including federal old age and survivors insurance and unemployment insurance, were $12,011,000, against $14,229,000 in the preceding year. Unemployment insurance payments increased to $2,370,000, from $2,271,000.

EXPORTS OF RUBBER PRODUCTS CLIMB TO TEN YEAR PEAK LEVEL

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19 [Special].—Substantially more automobile tires and other rubber products were reported from the United States in 1939 than in any other year in the last decade, the department of commerce reported today. The year's exports were valued at, $39,367,050, compared with $27,181,379 in 1938, much of the increase developing in the second half of the year.

Shipments to the British dominions were larger than in any other recent month. There were no shipments to Germany and exports to France fell to $26,943, only 39 per cent of the average for the first six months.

Exports to the principal European neutrals fell from $659,685 in November to $461,516 in December. Shipments to Latin-American countries continued upward as they have since July, and totaled $1,021,561, against a monthly average of $720,080 for the first half of the year.

Mississippi Valley Barge Line Will Resume Service

The Mississippi Valley Barge Line company, announced yesterday that it will resume service immediately at ports along the Ohio and Mississippi rivers. Ice jams caused the company to declare an embargo, Jan. 25, on freight moving via ports at Cincinnati, Louisville, Evansville, Ind., Cairo, Ill., St. Louis, Memphis, Baton Rouge, Vicksburg, and New Orleans.

WARN AGAINST DICTATORSHIP IN OIL CONTROL BILL

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19 (AP).—Two witnesses for oil producers told a house interstate and foreign commerce committee today they preferred waste of petroleum in states which have no conservation laws to government control of crude and gas production, as provided in a pending bill.

Opposition was expressed by Robert E. Hardwicke, Fort Worth, Tex., chairman of the mineral law section of the American Bar association, and George A. Hill Jr., president of the Houston Oil company.

"Centralized control," Hardwicke warned, "is fraught with the perils of dictatorship. Evils of centralization, or even a mild form of dictatorship, more than offset benefits that are likely."

Hardwicke said absence of control in California and Illinois would not justify government regulation in all states. He expressed belief California and Illinois soon would act to control their petroleum resources.

Hill charged the measure apparently was a preliminary step in an administration program to take over the entire petroleum industry. He warned it might lead to the government prescribing ration cards for consumers of petroleum products.

BRANIFF AIRWAYS ADDS NEW CHICAGO TO DALLAS FLIGHT

Braniff Airways, Inc., yesterday announced a third round trip schedule will be flown daily between Chicago and Dallas, Tex., beginning March 1. The additional flights, with morning departures from both Chicago and Dallas, will provide an all daylight service to and from the southwest. Douglas 21 passenger equipment will be used.

The southbound flight will leave Chicago at 10:10 a. m. and arrive at Dallas at 4:48 p. m. It will connect with other Braniff flights for Fort Worth, Austin, San Antonio, Corpus Christi, Brownsville, Houston, and Galveston. The northbound flight will depart from Dallas at 9:30 a. m. and reach Chicago at 3:43 p. m.

Gail Urban, district traffic manager, said the new flights will meet an increasing demand for service. Requests to the Braniff company for a morning flight from Chicago to Kansas City have been particularly heavy, he said.

OVERTIME WAGE ACTION IS BEGUN AGAINST SWIFT

Federal Injunction Sought by Agency.

The wage and hour administration yesterday applied in federal District court for an injunction to restrain Swift & Co., largest meat packing organization in the United States, from allegedly violating overtime provisions of the fair labor standards act.

Thomas O'Malley, regional director of wage administration.

The issue involves about 150,000 employés of the meat packing industry and between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 in back wages, according to Thomas O'Malley, regional director of the administration. He termed the suit the most important since the law went into effect.

Other Packers Investigated.

Other packers are under investigation, according to Alex Elson, regional attorney, and future action against them will depend on the outcome of this suit. The question involved is largely one of interpretation of exemptions.

Because of the effect on the entire industry, officials of the Institute of American Meat Packers, Wilson & Co., and the Cudahy Packing company have indicated they will seek to intervene.

The complaint alleges that a large number of the 5,000 employés in Swift's Chicago plant have been employed longer than 42 hours a week without being paid time and one-half for their excess hours, as required by the fair labor standards act.

Exempt Part of Time.

A small percentage of these employés is engaged in handling, slaughtering, and dressing live stock or poultry and is exempt from overtime provisions of the act during 14 work weeks within a year, says the complaint. Most of those who worked overtime, however, were in departments having no direct relationship with the exempt operations, O'Malley said.

Even in the exempt departments, the administration contended, employés were worked overtime more than the specified 14 work weeks in a

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

New York, Feb. 19 (AP).—Despite new striking gains by specialties, stocks in general slipped a bit today. An early sell-off was wiped out and fractional gains appeared toward noon, but the list slipped again at the finish.

The turnover was 633,410 shares, compared with 684,120 on Friday.

The star performer was Brooklyn-Queens Transit preferred, which bounded 15 points and retained 12 of them to close at 42, a new 1940 high. New peaks were also set by Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit preferred, Loft, Cluett-Peabody, and Martin Parry. New York City's approaching transportation unification was the basis for the rise in the transit shares.

In other divisions of the board sentiment was confused by declines in industrial activity and retail buying, in the midst of prospects for a pick-up in sales of materials to European belligerents.

Foreign bourses saw only light, uneven trading. The action of the British government in sequestering British holdings of 60 American stocks seemed to have little effect on either side of the Atlantic other than diminishing even further the amount of trading in London.

New York Bonds.

New York, Feb. 19 (AP).—A group of utility and New York City traction bonds moved up against a generally lower trend in today's market.

The local traction issues were picked up by buyers as rapid steps toward unification of the city's transit facilities were being taken by officials and bankers. Another element making for buying interest was the possibility that "holdouts" in the various issues might get better treatment than those who deposited their securities early in the preceedings.

Brooklyn-Queens City & Suburban First 5s bounded 15 points on sale of two bonds and the consolidated 5s jumped 5 points on much larger sales.

Chicago Stocks.

Hall Printing shares climbed ⅝ point to a new 1939-'40 high price level of 20⅝ yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange on announcement that the company will pay the first dividend on its common stock in eight years. Trends in the rest of the list were mixed. Marshall Field, the volume leader, scored ⅝ point lower.

Bank Stocks.

Commodities

Refinery buying prices for scrap copper advanced ¼ cent a pound yesterday, bringing quotations on No. 1 heavy copper wire scrap to 10 cents a pound, equivalent to approximately 11.5 cents for the refined metal.

Demand for the metal was strong with no abatement in inquiry by manufacturers. Principal primary producers adhered to a price of 11.25 cents a pound, altho export sales were made alongside ship in New York at 11.75 cents for nearby shipment with the May delivery as high as 11.65 cents.

At the close of trading, shipments for March delivery were being bid at 11.75 cents, New York basis. The outside market was virtually ignored, traders said, as soaring prices limited the supply of copper in exchange warehouses, making it difficult to obtain metal thru this medium.

On the basis of final futures quotations prompt or nearby electrolytic copper was nominally quoted at 11⅞ cents a pound or more, while May delivery was approximately 11.8 cents. Other metals were firmer.

The rest of the commodity list appeared uneven, with sugar, wool tops, silks, and hides higher; cottonseed oil, Rio coffee and cocoa futures lower, and crude rubber futures and Santos coffee irregular.

The National Fertilizer association reported its wholesale commodity price index for the week ended Feb. 17 remained at 77.4, the same as in the previous week. The index was 78.2 a month ago and 72.7 a year ago. The figures are based on 1926-'28 prices as 100.

TREASURY GIVES TAX RULING ON RETAINED PROFIT

Corporations May Provide for 'Reasonable Needs.'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—Corporations which do not distribute 70 per cent of earnings in dividends are not necessarily subject to section 102 of the internal revenue code, penalizing retention of earnings, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury John L. Sullivan said today. Sullivan, former deputy commissioner of internal revenue, is in charge of treasury tax policy.

In discussing complaints against the section, which as long as it remains on the statute books is regarded as a deterrent to business recovery, the assistant secretary told THE TRIBUNE representative that there is much misapprehension over application of the penalties.

Defines "Reasonable Need."

He offered what he said was a safe rule in determining whether a corporation is subject to the high surtax for "retention of earnings beyond the reasonable need of the business," as the law reads.

"Make up your minds what you really need and you won't have any trouble with the bureau of internal revenue if your facts are right," he said. "But if you try to withhold earnings beyond the 'reasonable need of the business' just so the stockholders' income will not be greater in the higher brackets, then you are going contrary to the spirit of the section and penalties will be applied."

The phrase "reasonable need of the business" means just what it says, Sullivan commented on the definition of the ambiguous qualification. It will be necessary to determine these in each case, he indicated.

The purpose of the law, Sullivan said, is to force out earnings accumulated unnecessarily and make them taxable under the individual income tax rates. If unnecessarily retained, then the corporation must pay the stiff surtaxes imposed under 102, which amount to 25 per cent on the first $100,000 of undistributed income and 35 per cent on the remainder.

Added to Other Taxes.

The surtax is in addition to the regular normal income tax rate of 18 per cent on corporations having net income of more than $25,000 per year. Besides, there is an excess profits tax of 6 to 12 per cent on net income in excess of 10 per cent of the adjusted declared value of a corporation's capital stock.

On personal holding companies there is an even stiffer tax on accumulated earnings. Section 401 of the internal revenue code imposes penalties of 65 per cent on the first $2,000 of undistributed adjusted net income and 75 per cent on the remainder.

Section 102 has been on the statute books in one form or another since 1918, but its teeth were sharpened under the New Deal and its bite meets its first real test now that the administration's special tax on undistributed profits was allowed to die last Dec. 31, as congress refused to prolong its life.

Make Section 102 Applicable.

As long as the undistributed profits tax was in existence—first amounting to 7 to 27 per cent of undistributed net income and later cut to 2½ per cent—there was no need for imposing section 102. But regulations were issued by the treasury last summer, instructing internal revenue agents to examine corporation tax returns for possible application of 102.

Among those to be examined were corporations whose dividends were less than 70 per cent of earnings; those in which all stock was closely held by a small group or family; those whose loans were outstanding to stockholders or officers, and those whose earnings had been invested in securities or properties not related to the business.

"The treasury decision was not intended by the bureau of internal revenue to encourage revenue agents to apply the provisions of 102 to corporate returns but rather to restrict their application of it," according to Sullivan.

Application of 102 has been recommended by the bureau in only 13 cases out of 62,782 tax returns studied between last July 26, when the treasury orders were issued to agents, and last Dec. 1, Sullivan said. These 13 cases were sifted out of 1,677 first recommended for application of 102.

Betts Asks New York to Share List with Smaller Exchanges

The New York Stock exchange would increase its own business and prestige if it encouraged trading in dually listed stocks on smaller exchanges, Arthur M. Betts, chairman of the Chicago Stock exchange, declared yesterday.

His statement, made in a letter to members of the Chicago exchange, followed reports last week that a special committee had urged governors of the New York exchange to curb operations of its members outside of New York.

The eastern exchange has shown increasing concern over the loss of business to the Chicago market and others where customers can escape the New York state transactions tax levied on stocks bought and sold in New York.

See Possibilities of Gain.

Betts' letter said that in the case of stocks listed first on the Chicago exchange, it is possible for the Chicago market's members to benefit by the listing of such stocks in New York also. They would benefit in the event the New York listing encouraged increased trading in Chicago, he said.

Commenting on the New York exchange's policy, Betts said:

"It is our frank view that the New York Stock exchange, the primary market of the nation, should heartily approve of efficient secondary markets in dually listed issues on the regional exchanges.

Urges Aid to Smaller Markets.

"By a broad policy of encouraging the healthy existence of the smaller exchanges, the New York exchange can increase its own volume and prestige and thus advance the welfare of its membership."

What the report of the New York exchange's special committee contained was not announced, but it was reported that the exchange was urged to forbid its members to act as odd lot dealers on other exchanges.

CHARGE DOHERTY MILKED UTILITY OF 10 MILLIONS

New York, Feb. 19 (AP).—An action filed in state Supreme court today charged that Cities Service company stockholders lost $10,000,000 as a result of "secret profits and commissions" made by the late utilities magnate, Henry L. Doherty.

The action, seeking to substitute the estate of Doherty as defendant in his stead, was begun by Frank P. Sloan, Isadore S. Schapiro, and William Schneiderman in behalf of themselves and other stockholders.

Sixteen present and former directors of Cities Service also were accused in the suit of having been "derelict in their duties as trustees of the Cities Service company" in permitting certain transactions between Cities Service, its subsidiaries, and the Warner-Quinlan company.

The complaint said Doherty "derived secret profits and commissions" in the purchase by Cities Service of 54 per cent of the capital stock of Warner-Quinlan in 1931 for $3,800,000. Between June 1, 1933, and Oct. 11, 1935, two days before Warner-Quinlan filed a bankruptcy petition, the suit charged, the Cities Service company and its subsidiaries loaned Warner-Quinlan a total of $5,650,000.

AGREEMENT ENDS THREAT OF STRIKE IN COAL FIELDS

A strike of the United Mine Workers of America in the Illinois coal fields, which was threatened for midnight last night, was averted yesterday by an agreement between the UMWA and the Illinois Coal Operators' association.

Ray Edmundson, state president of the UMWA, an affiliate of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, announced there would be no strike. Edmundson said he reached an agreement after a conference with Fred S. Wilkie, secretary of the operators' group.

The UMWA asked complete inspection of all sections of a mine, including those where miners were not at work, in place of partial inspection, which has prevailed for 20 years. Under the agreement the union waived examination of work quarters for certain groups, Edmundson said, but the operators are to provide thoro inspection of workings when other classes of employés enter them.

COURT RESERVES OIL ACCOUNTING CASE DECISION

New York, Feb. 19 (AP).—Supreme Court Justice Samuel I. Rosenman today reserved decision on motions by four oil companies for dismissal of a $50,000,000 accounting action.

The suit was filed by the estate of Louis J. Blaustein, former president of Pan-American Petroleum and Transportation corporation, and Jacob Blaustein, former executive vice president of the company, against Standard Oil Company of Indiana, Standard Oil Company [N. J.], Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and Pan-American.

The action charges that as a result of an alleged conspiracy between Standard Oil interests and certain of its officers, the Pan-American company, 76 per cent of whose stock is held by Standard Oil of Indiana, was forced to pay excessive sums to lease oil lines and for refining crude oil. The court ordered the defense to begin its testimony next Monday.

PREDICT CLASH IN C. & O. BOARD OVER FINANCING

Richmond, Va., Feb. 19 (AP).—A renewal of the Chesapeake and Ohio railway financing dispute between Robert R. Young and Earl Bailie is indicated for the C. & O. board meeting here tomorrow.

Young, chairman of the Alleghany corporation which controls 1,900,000 shares, or 25 per cent, of the C. & O. stock, heads a group advocating "competitive bidding" for the railway bond issues and opposing J. P. Morgan & Co. interests, which for a number of years have figured prominently in bidding on C. & O. bond issues.

An effort is expected to be made to oust the group led by Young from the board, a spokesman said.

In a prepared statement, the Alleghany corporation said it "opposes such high-handed interference by financial interests [represented by Bailie and his group] conflicting with those of the stockholders."

SUE SWIFT & CO. FOR PAYMENT OF OVERTIME WAGES

150,000 Packing Workers Involved in Action.

The complaint added that Swift's alleged failure to compensate employés for excess hours at one and one-half times their regular pay has enabled the company to obtain an unfair competitive advantage over packers operating in other sections of the country. Also, this has enabled the company to undersell competitors maintaining labor standards at and above the minima prescribed by the fair labor standards act, the complaint charged.

Officials of the packers' institute have contended that the 14 work week exemption extends to all plants handling, slaughtering, or dressing live stock or poultry, regardless of the work done by particular workers.

Would Spread Exemptions.

They also asserted that the 14 week exemption need not be applied simultaneously to the entire plant but could be used in the case of different groups at different times.

George A. McNulty, general counsel for the administration, has rejected these contentions. The suit hinges on these two points.

A. F. Hunt, vice president of Swift & Co., made this comment on the action of the administration:

"The wage and hour law gives exemptions to agricultural industries. Congress so provided to facilitate the handling of perishable agricultural products. For some time a committee of the Institute of American Meat Packers and the wage and hour administration has been discussing the recently published interpretations on the use of tolerance weeks in the meat packing industry.

Test Interpretation of Law.

"It is reported that the suit is being brought against Swift & Co. to test the interpretations presumably because we are a representative member of the meat packing industry.

"The purpose of this court action is to seek clarification of the law. The Institute of American Meat Packers and individual companies are expected to intervene."

The institute, which will seek to intervene on behalf of its 375 members, issued this statement: "We are hopeful that the outcome will give the meat packing industry the flexibility which it urgently needs to take care of the farmers' peak marketings of livestock."

PACKERS FIGHT ORDER REQUIRING TONS OF RECORDS

Winston-Salem, N. C., Feb. 19 [Special].—Asserting the manufacture and sale of fertilizer is but a small part of their vast meat packing business, Swift & Co. and Armour & Co. fought in United States District court here today against sweeping department of justice subpenas which would force them to transport literally tons of records to Winston-Salem.

The subpenas, issued in connection with the government's antitrust investigation of the fertilizer industry, also named the F. S. Royster Guano company, American Agricultural Chemical company, International Agricultural corporation, and Virginia-Carolina Chemical company. Arguments to quash the subpenas will continue tomorrow.

The subpenas asked for corporation records, stock lists, reports, manufacturing and sales contracts, cost analyses, and all correspondence between the companies named and hundreds of other concerns since January, 1930.

Company lawyers contended the subpenas constituted unreasonable search and seizure, in violation of the constitution, and labeled them an "unwarranted fishing excursion."

The fertilizer companies would have to quit business if they were forced to bring all these books and records into court for examination by the grand jury, the lawyers contended.

MEN

If you really know what this business has meant to other men, you would not pass up this ad as "just another one of those propositions." If you do, you are in all probability missing what, to a great many men, has been the opportunity of a lifetime. No matter what your present income is, no matter what your position in life, you ought to be sincere in your desire to improve it, to increase your income to properly provide for your family and give them the better things in life and to get into a permanent business of your own.

We have such an opportunity for you right now. Men in this business from all walks of life are big earners right here in Chicago and near-by towns. When they learn this profitable business thoroughly, their incomes range from a good living on up to surprisingly high figures, yet they had no previous experience in this kind of work.

If you are between the ages of 25 and 50, are willing to work and study conscientiously, to secure the successs and large earnings, commissions, possible in this business, this opportunity concerns you.
